Shorter School Hours.

(Copyright, 1927.)

MR. WILL C. WOOD, California's superintendent of public instruction, says that school hours should be made longer, and recommends legislation to that effect. He is mistaken, the hours should be made shorter if there is to be any change.

Two hours a day, or three at the most, a child properly taught could learn all that its mind could absorb in one day. No hours of sunlight should be spent indoors unnecessarily.

IT IS a terrible thing, at a dinner party, to find five or six forks at your left, and start off with the wrong one. All through dinner you cannot repair that.

But think of poor, climbing Americans that attended a royal garden party at Buckingham Palace, decorated with white spats, and found after they arrived that spats had gone out.

FORTUNATELY, Americans, trained in the school of hard knocks, are resourceful. "The Tailor and Cutter," London magazine that tells you what to wear, says that after the garden party, dozens of white spats were found in the shrubbery, thrown there by Americans.

Nevertheless, spats, if you can live up to them, are sensible. They are to the feet, like an overcoat to the body, when worn over low shoes.

THERE is stag hunting in England, occasionally feebly imitated in America. The stag is carted in a van to a convenient place. Then the hounds are let loose to catch him and tear him down if they can, while sportsmen on horseback follow the hounds.

Kind-hearted old ladies and gentlemen and some others that don't go stag hunting object to the cruelty, especially when the stag is driven out to sea by the hounds, brought back by boatmen and killed by the huntsmen when he lands on the beach.

SIR WILLIAM JOYNSON-HICKS, home secretary for the British government, says "nothing could be done unless one prohibits the whole thing. If stag hunting, why not fox hunting; if fox hunting, why not shooting, and if shooting, why not every other sort of sport?"

You would hardly expect human beings to give up the pleasure of killing animals for sport, when they haven't even given up the excitement of killing each other in war.

A GROUP of well-meaning, but not too intelligent, farmers inform the government that they don't want any more reclamation work done, no more irrigation canals, no more land drained or deserts irrigated until the price of farm products increases.

Those are the farmers that have voted to keep out the first-class European immigration that this country needs, the immigration that would provide mouths to eat all the farmers can grow and more. They vote to keep out customers for the farms, and would vote to prevent development of the country. But they will not prevent it.

NO EXTENSIVE development begun now would have any effect or add one acre to cultivatable land in less than 10 to 15 years. By that time, in the natural course of events, the population of the country will increase by twenty millions.

The farmers, more than any other class, are interested in canal development, which would take, as Mr. Hoover has shown, from 6 to 12 cents a bushel from the freight charge of export wheat, and increase the price of American wheat by that amount per bushel.

MR. B. C. FORBES thinks that some of the glory and prizes that go to athletes should go to mechanics and other workers.

A thing in that direction is done already. The Pennsylvania Railroad puts photographs of its best and oldest workmen on the Menus in the dining cars that the passengers might see and admire.

In Iowa a farmhand recently won a corn-husking championship, husking more than 28 bushels of corn in 28 minutes, beating his nearest competitor by more than two bushels.

At Eureka, Kan., Joe Loebel was declared champion mail distributor, making a record of 99.8 in a possible 100. Mr. Loebel "threw 502 pounds" of mail, making but one mistake. And the mistake was due to bad writing.

BUT you will never interest the public in labor championships as you do in prize fighting, baseball and running championships.

ATHLETIC achievement is in the blood of the race, inherited from our ancestors through hundreds of thousands of years. We run and hunt because we like to. We husk corn, distribute letters, dig ditches because we MUST. There is a big difference.

How Mr. Levine Lands

CROYDON, Eng., Aug. 29.—Charles A. Levine careened out of the clouds here today, and airport officials called an ambulance.

Levine's monoplane Columbia quivered. Veteran aviators shivered.

The Columbia came down with a bounce, a startling 15-foot bounce.

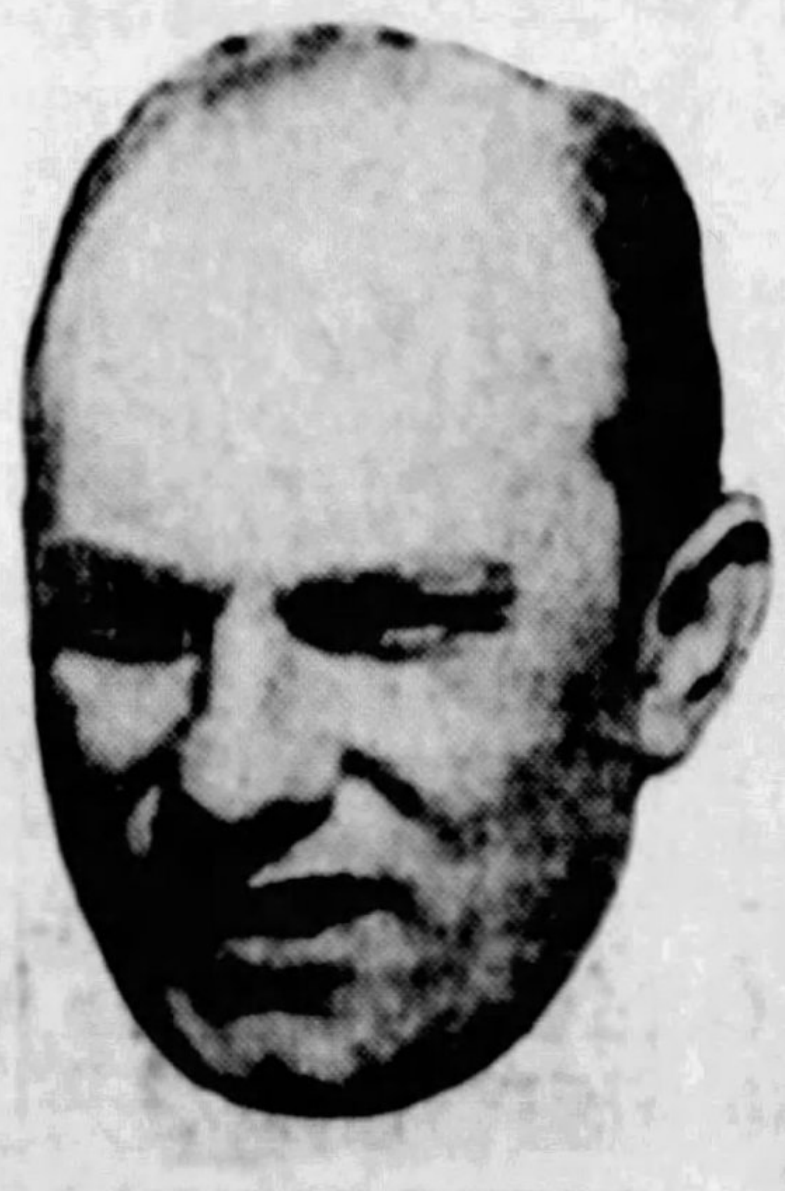
Then they called out the fire department, and airport pilots took the air, two of them circling as mother birds, waving frantically to a fledgling.

He shied toward a hangar and missed it—by 10 scant feet. Then, somehow, his plane came to a rest.

Officials rushed forward, expecting the worst.

"What are you going to do?" they demanded.

"Get a shave," was his reply.



CHARLES A. LEVINE.

LEVINE FLYING ALONE TO U. S. STOPS IN LONDON

By International News Service.

CROYDON, England, Aug. 29.—Charles A. Levine, American airplane owner, ended his first flight alone at Croydon flying field this afternoon and gave the officials of the air port the worst fright they have had in a long time. When attempting to land after a surprise flight from Paris, Levine could not shut off his motor.

His plane, the Columbia, careened and banked badly while the authorities stood nervously watching the machine and fearing the worst. Calls were sent out for an ambulance and fire apparatus in expectation of a crash. Finally when he got his plane settled, Levine climbed out of the cockpit.

"What do you intend to do?" asked an International News Service correspondent.

"Get a shave," replied Levine.

The American wore an ordinary lounging suit and was bare-headed.

Then he announced his intention to fly to New York alone in the Bellanca monoplane Columbia, at the earliest possible moment. The exact time is dependent, he said, upon the weather.

Levine denied that he would fly back to Le Bourget.

"I am through with all Frenchmen and French airdromes," he said.

CALM IN DANGER

The American was calm and unruffled over his spectacular landing, but he had caused experienced fliers at the Croydon field almost to suffer heart failure as they watched him.

U. S. Fliers Seized In Mexico

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Aug. 29.—(AP.)—Belief that two army aviators, Capt. C. H. Reynolds and Staff Sergt. Gus Newland, of Fort Sam Houston, have been captured by Mexicans, was expressed by friends of the men here today.

The men were forced down Saturday while returning from Phoenix, Ariz., where they had been assisting in the search for Alfred C. Menard, shell-shock war veteran, lost in the desert.

Gang Kills 19th

A dead-shot gunman, detailed yesterday to add James LaRosa, 35, of 1338 Fifth avenue, to a list of 18 victims of vendetta vengeance in the 1927 war for supremacy in white slave and bootleg circles in Pittsburgh, is being hunted in underworld haunts today.

La Rosa was killed by slugs from a sawed-off shotgun as he walked down the rear steps of Lampel's restaurant, 1336 Fifth avenue. The gun had been aimed from a window of the Rod and Gun Club, rear of 1336 Fifth avenue.

SHOOTS STRAIGHT

Police are convinced La Rosa's slayer is an expert gunman who has been employed by gang leaders in other murders. They point out that bystanders never are victims of his bullets, although he uses a sawed-off shotgun that sends a spray of slugs over a wide area.

It is believed he shadowed La Rosa for weeks, probably carrying the gun in his trouser leg, waiting for his opportunity.

EXPECTED DEATH

How the gangsters gained entrance to the club is being investigated. Marks of a "jimmy" and fingerprints were found on the window from which the shooting was done.

La Rosa, long expecting death and stalling it off by using a gunman bodyguard, went through the restaurant, as was his custom in recent months, on the way home. Trusting no person, La Rosa never used the alley entrance to his home, but chose the restaurant, where he possibly felt safe in the company of those employed in the place.

NABBED IN MURDER

La Rosa once faced a coroner's jury on a charge of murder, but was acquitted when witnesses failed to appear against him. On November 19, 1926, he was arrested as a sus-

ONE ENGINE PLUNGES OVER BANK

By International News Service.

ALTOONA, PA., Aug. 29.—Two members of the crew of the first locomotive pulling the crack Pennsylvania Railroad flyer, the Broadway Limited, east bound across the Allegheny mountains, were killed when the train was wrecked 11 miles west of here early to day.

The Dead—

Engineer C. L. Garrett, of Pitcairn, Pa.

Fireman R. C. Spangler, of Derry, Pa.

Although the lives of 120 passengers on the fast Chicago to New York train were endangered, railroad officials reported that none was injured and that all continued on their way later.

The first locomotive left the rails and hurtled over a embankment in the mountains east of Gallitzin.

BREAKS LOOSE IN DIVE

In jumping over the embankment the first locomotive broke the coupling linking it with the second locomotive. The latter raced on for 100 yards, ploughing up the road-

Guns Blaze At Ohio Mine

MARTINS FERRY, O., Aug. 29.—The first actual use of firearms in the eastern Ohio mine trouble in this district occurred early today when snipers fired on a searchlight at the Rose-Valley mine near Adena.

The men manning the searchlights were compelled to extinguish them and desert them for a time. The snipers were concealed on the hills across the valley from the mine. Sheriff John Quigley and deputies of Harrison county early today located a machine gun nest in the hillside and confiscated it, with a quantity of ammunition. Nearly a score of strikebreakers are housed on company property at the mine.

The mysterious theft was kept secret until after a charitable society fete in which Mrs. Snowden took a leading part. It is the first major theft in Long Island society since the $80,000 robbery at the home of Jesse Livermore.

MUNICH, Aug. 29.—The Pride of Detroit, American round the world plane, landed here at 4 o'clock this afternoon, completing the second leg of the long flight.

City and state officials, the American consul and a large and enthusiastic crowd, the members of which had been waiting for several hours, cheered loudly as the graceful monoplane came down at the Munich airdrome shortly after 4 p. m.

Brock and Schlee were each handed a large stein of Munch beer as they stepped from the machine.

EXTREME SECRECY CLOAKS P. R. R. WRECK CAUSE

THINK TRAIN SPEEDING ON CURVE

HARRISBURG, Aug. 29.—(AP.)—When passengers on the Broadway Limited of the Pennsylvania Railroad, wrecked early today near Altoona, passed through Harrisburg newspapermen were denied access to the station platform. Train employes had been forbidden to talk.

However, reporters succeeded in going through the train and several of the persons in the wreck were interviewed.

C. M. Whitehead, McKeesport, a passenger in one of the cars which did not leave the rails, said it seemed to be the general opinion of the passengers that the wreck was the result of too much speed in going around a curve.

Another passenger from Chicago, who declined to give his name and who was in one of the wrecked cars, said he believed the wreck was caused by a too sudden application of the brakes when the train was going around a curve at high speed. He said that several persons in the car were thrown from their berths.

At least one passenger was injured but his name was not learned. He wore a bandage about his wrist.

Passengers said there was no panic and little excitement. There were few women and children aboard and most of the upper berths were vacant.

LEVINE FLIES ALONE

Pilots long used to the dangers of the air shuddered as they watched Levine trying to make a crude landing. He was going through evolutions which the most practiced airmen would never dream of attempting. Finally two commercial pilots jumped into a small airplane, took the air and circled about the Columbia, waving to Levine to attract his attention. Then they made a landing to show him how it should be done.

On the first attempt, the wheels of the Columbia grazed the ground, but there was not enough space for it to come to a stop. Levine succeeded in rising, although his undercarriage almost struck the top of a hangar.

Levine later was in touch with members of the air ministry and customs explaining to the latter why he arrived without the proper documentary credentials. He said he had started from Le Bourget with fuel for three hours' flight, but without a map. He reached the channel without difficulty and then made out London, but for a time could not locate the Croydon field.

CHASED BY FRENCHMEN

PARIS, Aug. 29.—(AP.)—Charles A. Levine took French leave of France today. Without telling anyone of his intentions, he flew his transatlantic monoplane Columbia away from Le Bourget Field and went straight to London, giving Maurice Drouhin the most unpleasant of all the surprises that have come the Frenchman's way since he agreed to pilot Levine from Paris to New York.

When it was learned that Levine had slipped away in the Columbia, two French pilots set out to "catch him," but failed.

Drouhin then announced that he would sue Levine in the United States for breach of contract. He said he had taken the precaution to have the contract registered at the American consulate.

Levine, it is said, never posted the 300,000 francs which the contract called for as an insurance fund for Drouhin's family, and with the Columbia out of the country there is nothing which can be attached in lieu of the money.

Levine's flight from Paris was absolutely a solo performance, as he was unaccompanied even by a mechanician.

POLICE HOLD -:- SIX SUSPECTS -:- IN FEMIA MURDER

D. BATTAGALIA RALPH MATUSS FRANK ROGONI ORESTE DEL FORTE JAMES CICCIO JOSEPH DEL FORTE

Six suspects arrested in Clairton by Police Chief George R. Kall and Pittsburgh city detectives are being held here for further investigation as suspects in the murder of Rocco Femia, 32, shot to death in the kitchen of his home, 5113 Lytle street. Mrs. Femia, wife of the victim, told police Ciccio had attempted to attack her in her home and her husband had gone to Clairton and to remonstrate after she had told him. An argument followed, police say Mrs. Femia told them, in which Ciccio and two others threatened to "get" Femia. Police are also following down other suspects.

MELLON APPEAL ASKS $350,000

Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon today filed an appeal from the award of the Board of Viewers in the matter of widening Grant street. An award of $160,625 damages to Mr. Mellon for land taken from his frontage of 172 feet is not adequate, the appeal alleges. He asks $350,000.

Topcoats and Furs To Be Seasonable

With the forecast being partly coludy tonight and Tuesday with little change in temperature, the chilly weather which has prevailed in Pittsburgh since the first of the month will continue, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman. If Wednesday, the last day of the month is cool, it will be the coolest August in the history of the local weather bureau.

The temperature deficiency for the month was 154 degrees. Pittsburgh temperatures since the first of the year showed 182 degrees deficiency. During the present month the lowest temperature was recorded last Thursday when the mercury dropped to 50 degrees.

August of 1912 is comparable to this month, Brotzman said. The average temperature for that month was 61.8 degrees.

Vice Forces Blamed In Mrs. Hill's Murder

STREATOR, Ill., Aug. 29.—Stirred by the belief that gambling and bootleg liquor may have been indirectly responsible for the killing of Mrs. Eliza Hill, Streator civic and religious leaders were to meet today to plan a "cleanup campaign."

Meanwhile, no tangible evidence of the whereabouts of Mrs. Hill's 21-year-old son, Harry, had been obtained by police and search which had been localized in the middle west most of last week had been extended to include the entire country.

Rumors continued to be current, however, that young Hill had been in communication with his father, Dr. H. C. Hill, and that surrender of the youth was imminent. Discovery that jewelry was stolen from Mrs. Hill at the time of the slaying, establishing possible motive for a person other than Harry to have committed the crime, was seen as bearing on the rumor.

In addition, sudden return to Streator of a prominent criminal lawyer and mysterious conferences between authorities and Dr. Hill and his secretary were linked with the forecast that Harry would give himself up soon.

Gang Vendetta Death Toll 19

Since January 1, 15 men and four women have been murdered in 16 gang killings in Allegheny county. Three were killed in one crime and two in another. Police ascribe all of the murders to the "bootleg and white slave war."

This is a list of those killed:

January 1—Felix Fazio, found dead near Rodgers Sand Company, Squaw Run, O'Hara township.

January 22—Unknown man found dead near Frankstown road, Penn township.

February 10—John Romano, killed in gun fight with Antonio Romano, who died February 14 from wounds received in fight.

February 11—Giuseppe Magnifero, shot to death at Market and Adams streets.

February 13—Marie Angelo, stabbed to death by A. L. Chenoweth in her home, 37 Fleming avenue, Stowe township.

February 24—Antonio Ruggiero, killed in store at 1402 Verona road, Penn township, by wife.

March 8—Antonio Russo, shot to death on Paulson avenue near Shetland avenue.

April 5—Antonio Spagnoletti, died from wounds inflicted April 3 at 1015 Poplar way.

April 13—Ersola DeLadro Gommello, shot to death in her home, Manown, Forward township.

April 13—Carmen Alfano, shot to death at Bennwood and Harlan streets.

April 17—Angelo Diana, Marie Diana and Carmello Schaffano, killed in gun battle at 500 McLaughlin avenue, West Carnegie.

May 17—Vito Caniglia, shot to death in front of 1400 Irwin avenue.

May 19—Luigi Lamendola, shot to death in doorway of 27 Chatham street.

July 3—Purfino Carbandes, stabbed to death in home, 446 Cherry way, Homestead.

July 5—Andrew Davidduvicz, found dead at Hurrel alley and Market street, McKeesport.

August 28—James LaRosa, 1338 Fifth avenue.

AGAIN SLAY IN FEUD

pect in the slaying of Frank Sansone, reputed gunman and bodyguard of La Rosa, shot to death in the rear room of "Paddy" Murray's Fifth avenue saloon. Sansone's head was riddled with bullets and a revolver, said to have been La Rosa's, was found at the Watson street entrance to the resort.

Since January 1, 19 men and women have been slain in the county in the feud between gangs engaged in the white slave and bootleg trades.

The theory is held that La Rosa's death Sunday resulted from Sansone's muder. Another theory is that La Rosa refused to subordinate himself to the underworld powers of his district in the matter of "splitting" ill-gotten gains. This theory is held on the strength of information that La Rosa's Fifth avenue place was a resort for women.

"KNOWS NO ENEMIES."

Cleveland Coley, porter in the restaurant, notified police of the murder. The body was removed to the morgue, where a large slug was taken from the murdered man's head.

Mrs. Francine La Rosa, his wife, made the following statement to morgue attaches:

"I was on my way to see some friends who live at 14 Stevenson street at 3 a. m. I heard some shooting and went to see where it was. A waitress who works at 1336 Fifth avenue called to me and told me that my husband had been shot. I do not know of any enemies that my husband had and I have no more knowledge of how he came to his death."

La Rosa's aged mother, Mrs. Frances La Rosa, who made her home with him, was equally in the lark as to any plot on her son's life.

At the county morgue attendants found $223 in cash, a $50 check signed by La Rosa, a gold watch and chain and a 32-caliber revolver in the dead man's clothing.

According to the police, La Rosa's enemies were attempting his destruction when, several weeks ago, they bombed the resort of "Dago Rose" in Colwell street. He was known to the police and to residents in the neighborhood as a "steerer" to the woman's alleged resort. A petition asking that La Rosa and the woman be forced from the neighborhood recently was circulated among neighbors.

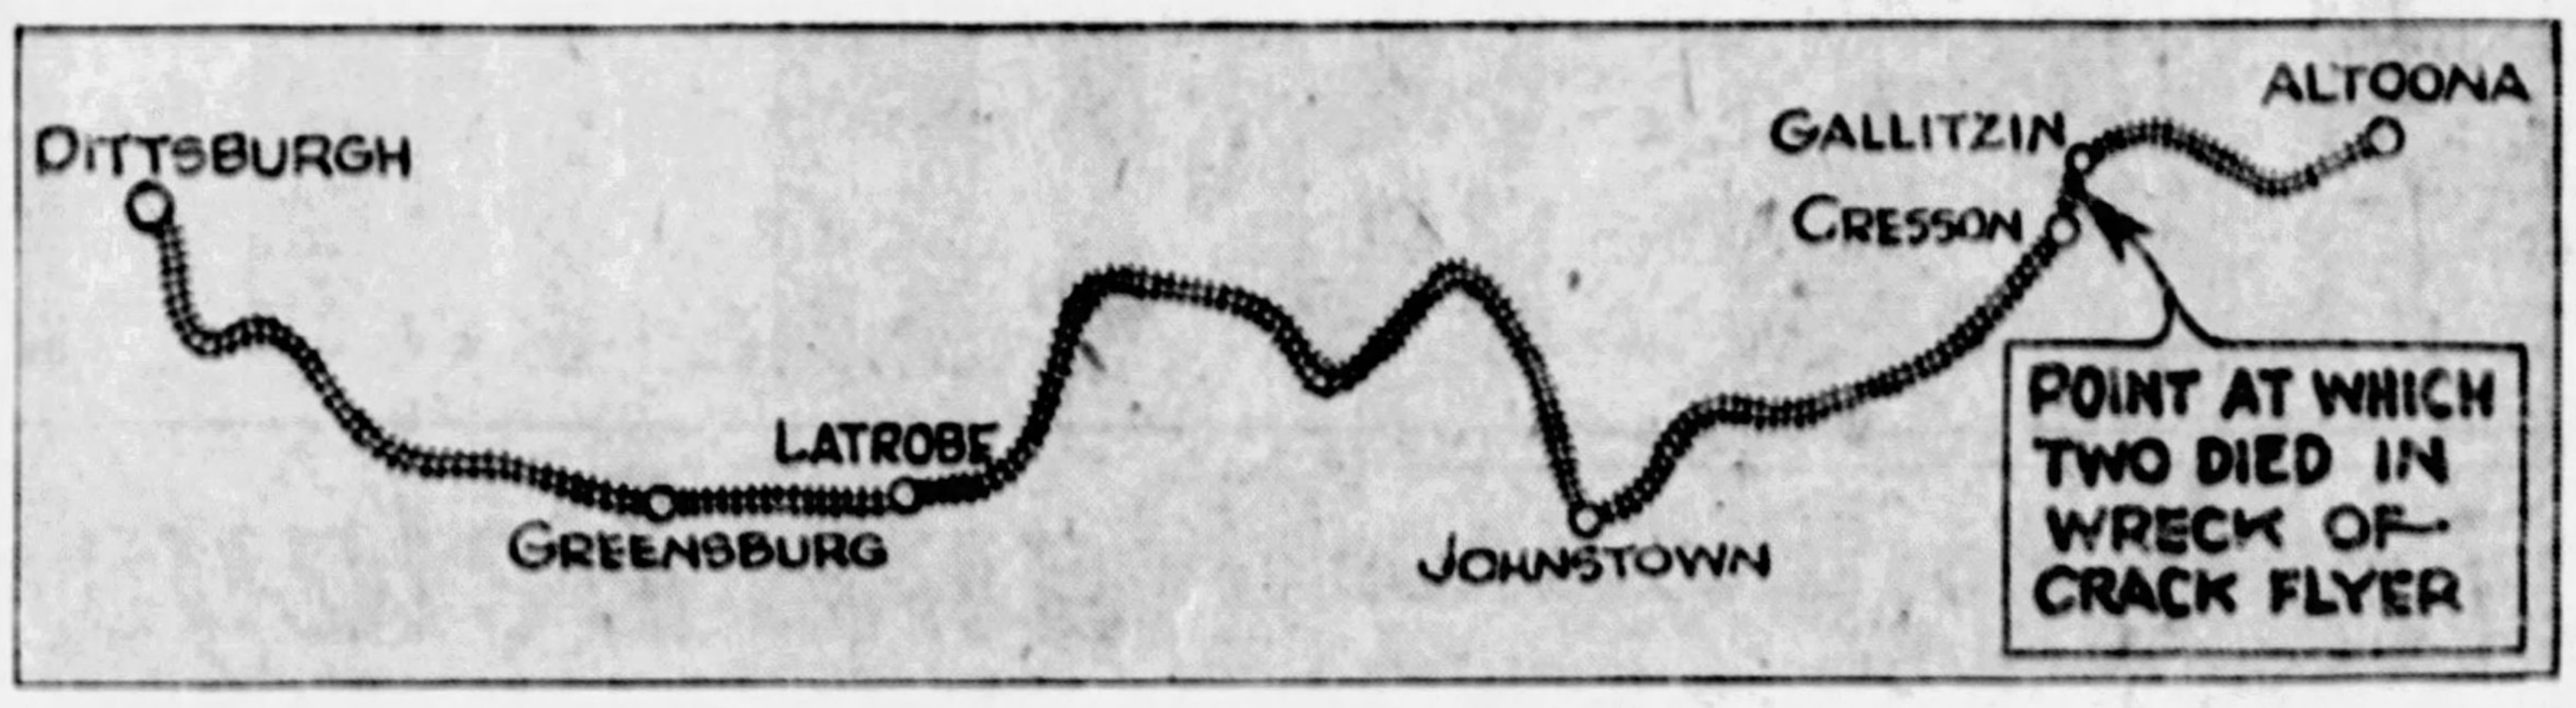
WHERE CRACK FLIER WRECKED AMID MOUNTAINS



ARROW SHOWS SPOT WHERE LIMITED MET DISASTER, KILLING TWO

Teachers Start Work—Ziegfeld Please Note

The youngest and prettiest teacher in the rural and suburban public schools of Allegeheny county—she numbers nearly 2,400—registered today at the opening of the Seventy-seventh annual session of the County Teachers' Institute in Memorial Hall.

No longer are there veteran schoolma'ms, viewed from appearances and sartorial get-up. As they trooped into the big building, they looked like probationers or girls scarcely older than the pupils who used to attend the back-country schools. However, the average of the teachers is no lower in years—but in looks! Oh, boy! bring your camera!

County Superintendt Charles E. Dickey, who presides at the five-day session of the institute, is authority for the statement that the teachers in Allegheny county this year are up to the average standard in age, ability and experience, and he added that throughout the county there are only 300 new teachers. This he interprets as a small turnover and representing higher efficiency.

Dr. J. W. White, of the University of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Fadra Holmes Wilson, director of teacher training in the California Normal School, and Dr. Earl Barnes, of New Hartford, Conn., were the speakers at today's instructive session which began at 1:10 p. m.

The registration showed few absentees in the entire force of teachers in the county and the main auditorium of the hall was packed to its capacity, while the committee rooms, corridors and banquet hall were crowded with the overflow. The instructors, beside those on the program today, are Miss I. Jewel Simpson, assistant state superintendent of the Maryland public schools; Mrs. Anna C. Green, assistant state director of vocational education, Harrisburg; Miss Minnie Price, of the Ohio State University, and Robert J. McDowell, director of music, Pittsburgh.

The club car immediately following the second locomotive broke loose and rolled over the embankment. Its porter and one passenger were reported badly frightened and bruised, but not seriously hurt.

Three Pullman cars following the club car leaped from the rails toward the embankment. One went partly over, poising on the edge.

Excited passengers in their night clothing rushed from the cars into the darkness of the night, but by this time members of the train crew assured them there was no further damage.

Edward R. Hunter, of 29 North Emily street, Crafton, Pa., engineer of the second locomotive, and his firemen, E. P. Hartman, of Conemaugh, Pa., were injured, Hartman suffering a broken arm and severe bruises.

Physicians were sent from Altoona immediately after the wreck which occurred at 2:24 a. m. Pittsburgh daylight time. They reported to railroad officials here that none of the passengers required medical attention.

BOUND FOR NEW YORK

The Broadway Limited was composed of two locomotives and 10 cars, all but one of which were pullmans. It was bound for New York.

Passengers of the derailed cars were transferred to these and a special club car which was taken on to New York by an emergency locomotive sent from Gallitzin.

Each of the four main line tracks was covered with wreckage, causing several hours' delay for all main line trains. Until the wreckage was cleared and the first track opened to traffic at 7:39 a. m. trains were rerouted over the New Portage branch.

Track No. 1, usually devoted to freight, was the least seriously damaged, railroad officials reported. It was thrown six inches out of line, but repair crews put it in shape for traffic.

It was the second time in recent weeks that a locomotive operated by Engineer Garrett had gone over an embankment, it was reported. The first time he was not seriously injured.

Many wild and unfounded rumors concerning the number of dead and injured were circulated soon after the first reports of the wreck reached Altoona, but all were checked and discarded.

One report stated that a third man, E. J. Sutton, of New York, the baggagemaster, was killed, but he was found to be uninjured.

Another report had Conductor J. W. Simpson hurt, but he too was found to be uninjured.

Many passengers, especially those in the cars next to the locomotive, were shaken up and suffered from shock, but physicians reported none required medical attention.

The cause of the wreck is unknown.

round-the-world flight successfully completed, Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock took off from the airfield here at 8:30 this morning for Munich, Germany.

The "Pride of Detroit," the Wright-propelled monoplane which carried the intrepid fliers 2,150 miles over the Atlantic Ocean from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, made a beautiful take-off. Schlee and Brock circled the field, bade farewell to the land they had reached after their spectacular transoceanic flight of 19 hours and nine minutes, and disappeared into the clouds.

ONLY 600-MILE JAUNT

Munich is approximately 600 miles by air. Schlee and Brock are expected to arrive in that city before 3 o'clock this afternoon, although if they maintain the same average speed of 111 miles an hour they kept on their flight across the Atlantic, they should reach Munich ahead of that time.

Weather conditions were perfect for the flight. The "Pride of Detroit" was trundled out of its hangar here shortly before 7 o'clock this morning and after inspecting the engine, mechanics began the task of filling the plane's huge tanks with gasoline.

The Detroit aviators arrived at the air field before 8 o'clock. They supervised the loading of the gasoline, gave the engine a final inspection and climbed into the cockpit. Schlee and Brock waved happily to the throng which had gathered to see the take-off, and as the powerful motor started, settled down in their seats for the second lap of what they hope will be a record-breaking tour of the world.

Schlee and Brock landed here at 10:35 o'clock Sunday morning, calmly stepping from their plane more as though they were members of a tourist party than aviators defying the elements in a flight around the world.

Railroad officials would not give their opinion as to the probable cause until they made an investigation. A special train was sent from Pittsburgh, bearing railroad officials.

Two special trains from Pittsburgh arrived at the wreck scene. The first one brought extra Pullman cars and equipment, and two railroad investigating committees came in the other.

C. E. Whitlock, superintendent of the Pittsburgh division, headed one group, with C. B. Gray, R. W. E. Bowler, R. E. Grieves, D. F. Downes and L. R. Stewart. The other is the general manager's committee, composed of W. E. Brown, H. G. Huber and O. P. Reese.

A Chicago-Washington train, half an hour behind the Broadway Limited, and a St. Louis-New York train, 15 minutes behind the limited, were flagged before they reached the junction point of the New Portage branch and were rerouted there.

Mayview Food Scored Before Health Club

That unwholesome and poorly prepared food is served to patients at the City Hospital at Mayview was charged by a former patient of the institution at a meeting yesterday of the Pittsburgh Health Club.

"Irish strawberries," a popular name for stewed prunes at the City Hospital, was declared to be about the only fruit served, notwithstanding that hundreds of acres of fine farm land surround the institution where all the fruits of the temperate zone could be raised.

"Irish strawberries," it was asserted, "are cooked in mass formation and are hardly distinguishable as prunes."

The charges were made by C. E. Meskimen, a former patient at Mayview, who also told the Health Club that "The location of the proposed new buildings is upon low ground subject to fogs and high water from Chartiers Creek and distracting noise from passing locomotives, while cattle stables and hog pens are well isolated on beautiful high ground where the atmosphere is pure and noise at a minimum."

Resolutions condemning compulsory vaccination and calling upon the Pennsylvania Department of Health to publish information regarding the spread of infantile paralysis, the number of deaths following "successful" vaccination and the number of victims of exploratory operations, were adopted by the club.

OCEAN'S CONQUEROR, "PRIDE OF DETROIT"

Fought Fog, Says Schlee

SCHLEE TELLS OWN STORY OF FLIGHT

By EDWARD F. SCHLEE

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

(Copyright, 1927, by Universal Service.)

LONDON, Aug. 29.—It feels great to realize you have crossed the Atlantic in an airplane.

The weather was bad in spots. The air was bumpy at all times. We encountered during the voyage practically all the weather conditions that heretofore have made flying dangerous.

We were not without some sunshine and good visibility, but there was also rain and sleet, and the dreaded fogs and mists which make blind flying necessary.

TAKEOFF SUCCESSFUL

We left Harbor Grace at 5:13 New York time Saturday morning and had excellent weather at the start. Our plane made a beautiful takeoff, climbing into the air after running only half of the field and sailing easily into the sky.

We had the finest kind of weather conditions for the first 60 miles from Newfoundland, with a strong tail wind. We sighted our first ship about an hour and a half after the takeoff and saw another a couple of hours later.

The weather began to get worse and worse and we met up with a slight mist. We climbed to a height of about 5,000 feet, but were not able entirely to shake off the mist. About the middle of the day the clouds thinned out considerably and we were able to see the ocean clearly. The sea looked to be perfectly calm.

Late in the afternoon we caught up with bad weather and had to climb to a height of 10,000 feet, but even then we were unable to get out of it.

SUNSET OVER OCEAN

Sunset was scheduled according to our maps for 5:27, but we did not see the sun go down. About this time the rain and sleet set in, providing one of the most beautiful sights I have ever seen. The afterglow of the sun over the horizon shining on the clouds through the rainfall formed the most vivid, brightest and most colorful rainbow that can be imagined.

The bow was slightly ahead of us, running straight across the plane in front of one tip to a zenith in the skies on a line about sixty degrees ahead and then cutting down in front of the other tip. And we were sailing directly into the huge, colorful arch in the light grayness of the reflected sunset.

For nearly half an hour we flew towards the rainbow but never quite able to fly under that beautiful arch. Pretty soon it grew darker, the colors of the rainbow became less vivid in hue and then faded away.

Night came on. At this time I think we were about 1,100 miles from Newfoundland. The tailwind had shifted considerably and we had a pretty stiff cross wind. We had not eaten anything all day, though we had a large bundle of sandwiches. But it was like Bill said when I yelled to him and asked if he wanted anything to eat. He shouted back:

"No, I'm not hungry. Somehow you don't get hungry when you are on a trip like this."

On and on we flew, now high, now low. In a few hours the rain slackened and the clouds thinned so we were able to see occasional flashes of moonlight and the rays of the stars through the rifts in the clouds. It was like flying on your back like a kid under an apple tree on a clear day and looking up through the leaves, catching now and then a glimpse of the sunshine filtering through.

Later in the night the clouds got thicker again. Dawn came, but we were not able to see land. We decided to go down and see where we were, and as we descended we suddenly saw land under us through a rift in the clouds. It was like waking after a shipwreck to find yourself on a deserted island, wondering where you were.

That glimpse of land through the clouds was our first glimpse of land since we left and we had not even seen the water since the night before. We were uncertain where we might be. We thought we might be over Ireland or France.

"COMPLETELY LOST"

We flew along for a short time and came to the seaside, which I suppose was the English Channel. We passed over a city and saw a ship sailing away. I think now that that was probably Plymouth. But we kept on flying until we were completely lost, and getting ourselves lost cost us about three hours of flying time.

Finally we came to a small town and decided we had better drop a message and find out where we were. I dropped a couple of messages and Bill dropped one without getting an answer. The first message was attached to a piece of cardboard and the second was wrapped in blue paper to attract attention.

At last, after circling around, we saw some people on the beach and I dropped a scribbled message on a paper bag weighted with an orange. The message read:

"Please write the name of the town and the country in the sand."

We were then flying only about 200 feet up and I saw a small boy pick up the bag and the orange. We circled back again and saw a group going to a nearby street where they wrote in huge black letters with white chalk on an asphalt pavement—

"Seaton, Devo."

We could not find Seaton on our maps, but we saw where Devo in Devonshire lay and we proceeded northward. Flying low we saw the name "Dulwich" on a railway station—Dulwich is near London—and we finally found Dulwich on the map and were able to make a bee line for Croydon.

We had passed over a vacant airdrome earlier but we did not land because we figured there was no one there. Nearing Croydon we saw small knots of people moving about the field and we knew we were nearing our destination.

During the entire trip Brock ate nothing until he saw we were over England, and then he only ate half a cheese sandwich and threw the other half overboard. I ate a couple of oranges and one chicken sandwich. We had a thermos bottle of hot coffee, but found the bottle broke and the coffee cold when we opened it.

Throughout the entire trip the motor worked perfectly. We had no trouble at all with any of our three compasses.

Find Monoxide Danger Slight in Big Garage

That workmen employed in large garages are not greatly endangered by carbon monoxide gas, was among the discoveries of a government investigation recently conducted by Dr. S. H. Katz, of the local Bureau of Mines, at the Equitable Auto Garage, Forbes and Magee streets. A report of the investigation will be made at the meeting of the American Chemical Society at Detroit.

A carbon monoxide recorder was placed in the garage to determine the amount of poisonous gas to which employes were subjected. The quantity was relatively small, the maximum being enough to cause a headache to some persons. In very cold weather, when garages are kept more tightly closed, the danger is greater, Dr. Katz said.

ACTRESS DENIES SHE TRIED SUICIDE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 29.—Vera Reynolds, film actress, whose first important screen role was that of a suicide in "Feet of Clay," today was recovering from what police declare had been an attempt to end her own life.

Detectives summoned to the star's home by a telephone call that "someone had taken poison" reported they found an empty bottle in the bathroom which smelled of lysol.

After a vigorous application of a stomach pump, Miss Reynolds denied she had sought to commit suicide.

Admitting that she had taken "quite a few drinks," the actress said she had been under a doctor's care for some time. Her illness, she explained, bordered on a nervous breakdown and was brought about by depressing "futuristic" sets used in her newest picture.

Fear Second Death In Bettis Field Crash

James T. Clawson, aged 25, Pittsburgh Railways Company "flying conductor," was killed yesterday when an airplane, refused a license for passenger carrying, in which he was flying with Clifford E. Burnworth, aged 23, went into a tail-spin 200 feet above ground at Bettis Field, McKeesport, and crashed to earth. Burnworth is in McKeesport Hospital with a broken arm, fractured jaw, broken leg and probable fracture of the skull. Little hope is held for his recovery.

Clawson lived at 2215 Grandview avenue, McKeesport, near the home of his sister, Mrs. A. H. Hoffman, 2104 Cleveland avenue, with whom his mother lived. Burnworth resided at 200 North Negley avenue.

REFUSED LICENSE

The plane, owned by Burnworth, was refused a license for passenger-carrying by government inspectors. Burnworth had retained Clawson, an experienced flier, to teach him to operate it. It was taken from the hangar at Rodgers Field, Aspinwall, an hour before the crash.

According to witnesses, Clawson was taking off from Bettis Field, where he had stopped for fuel en route to Uniontown. The plane was passing over the eastern boundary of the field when the motor stalled. In an effort to get back to the field Clawson attempted to bank sharply to the right. The turn was too sharp, the plane skidded and crashed before he could regain control.

Clawson, according to his sister, last week enlisted in the United States Army Air Corps and expected to leave within a few days for Kelly Field, Texas, for training. He had a temporary license as pilot.

Last year Clawson, failing to return to the airdrome on schedule time, was reported lost. He had made a forced landing in a woods near Masontown.

Bayer, 1028 Warrington avenue, Seventeenth Ward. Thursday they will appear at the meeting of the North Side Chamber of Commerce, Federal and Ohio streets, and at a Twenty-first Ward rally in Manchester School. A Thirteenth Ward organization mass meeting will be held Friday night in Homewood Carnegie Library.

$1,095 STOLEN IN NORTH SIDE STORE

The theft of $1,095 from a safe in Barnet Sedler's haberdashery store, 545 East Ohio street, sometime Sunday or last night, was reported to police this afternoon.

Police and detectives said it apparently was an "inside job." The robber, or robbers, entering the store had used a key to get in the front door, and there were no marks on the safe.

Sedler told police he could not remember whether he had locked the safe before he left Saturday midnight. It was locked this morning, he said, and nothing had been disturbed except the money compartment.

Society Gem Theft of $100,000 Is Bared

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(AP.)—Exclusive Long Island society was startled today when it learned of the theft of $100,000 in jewels from Mrs. James Hastings Snowden, wife of a wealthy oil operator, a few hours after she had worn them at a charity fete.

Attired in a striking costume of crimson and gold and a bejeweled headdress in addition to $250,000 in jewelry, Mrs. Snowden had played a principal part in a sketch called "Oriental Lady," a feature of the "Hampton Follies," a society revue given for a hospital fund.

Rather than cast a damper on the annual fete she had paste replicas of the gems made and played her part the following afternoon and evening while police conducted a secret investigation.

Mrs. Snowden told police she had returned home with Mr. Snowden early Saturday and before retiring at 3 A. M. locked both doors to her bedroom. She placed part of her jewels on a table, part in a drawer and part in a jewel case.

When she arose at 11 o'clock the jewels she had placed on the dressing table were missing. The others had not been disturbed.

Police said they have been unable to discover any signs of a forced entry and the 12 servants in the household were virtually cleared of suspicion.

The robbery is the first in exclusive Long Island society circles since the $180,000 theft at the home of Jesse Livermore for which "Boston Billy" Monaghan and Arthur Barry are serving 20-year terms in Sing Sing.

CANADIANS HOP FOR LONDON, TURN BACK

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 29.—(AP.)—The monoplane Sir John Carling, which took off early this morning for London, Eng., returned to its starting point today, driven back by a storm it ran into south of Oakville.

Capt. Terry Tully and Lieut. James Medcalf took off in the Stinson-Detroiter monoplane at 5:50 o'clock this morning and were back at their starting point at 11 o'clock.

Although the weather was fine at the take-off, the aviators ran into a heavy rainstorm while flying over Lake Ontario. When they reached Oakville, just west of Toronto, they decided that storm conditions were so severe that it would be unwise to continue.

The loot was valued at $100.

TINNERS' TOOLS FAIL ON SAFE

Tinners' tools used by robbers on a safe in the office of George J. Schmidt & Co., roofers, at 1011 East Ohio street, last night proved a poor substitute for drills and nitroglycerin. The only damage done to the safe was to its finish. The robbers jimmied every door and drawer in the place. Nothing of value was stolen.

DEATH

Although the crash of an obsolete JN-4 type old army plane, condemned and classed as dangerous to fly by the War Department, killed its pilot and seriously injured a student aviator at Bettis Field, souvenir hunters flocked to the scene to secure small bits of the wreckage. The plane was taking off and had reached an altitude of about 200 feet when the motor failed and threw it into a tail-spin.

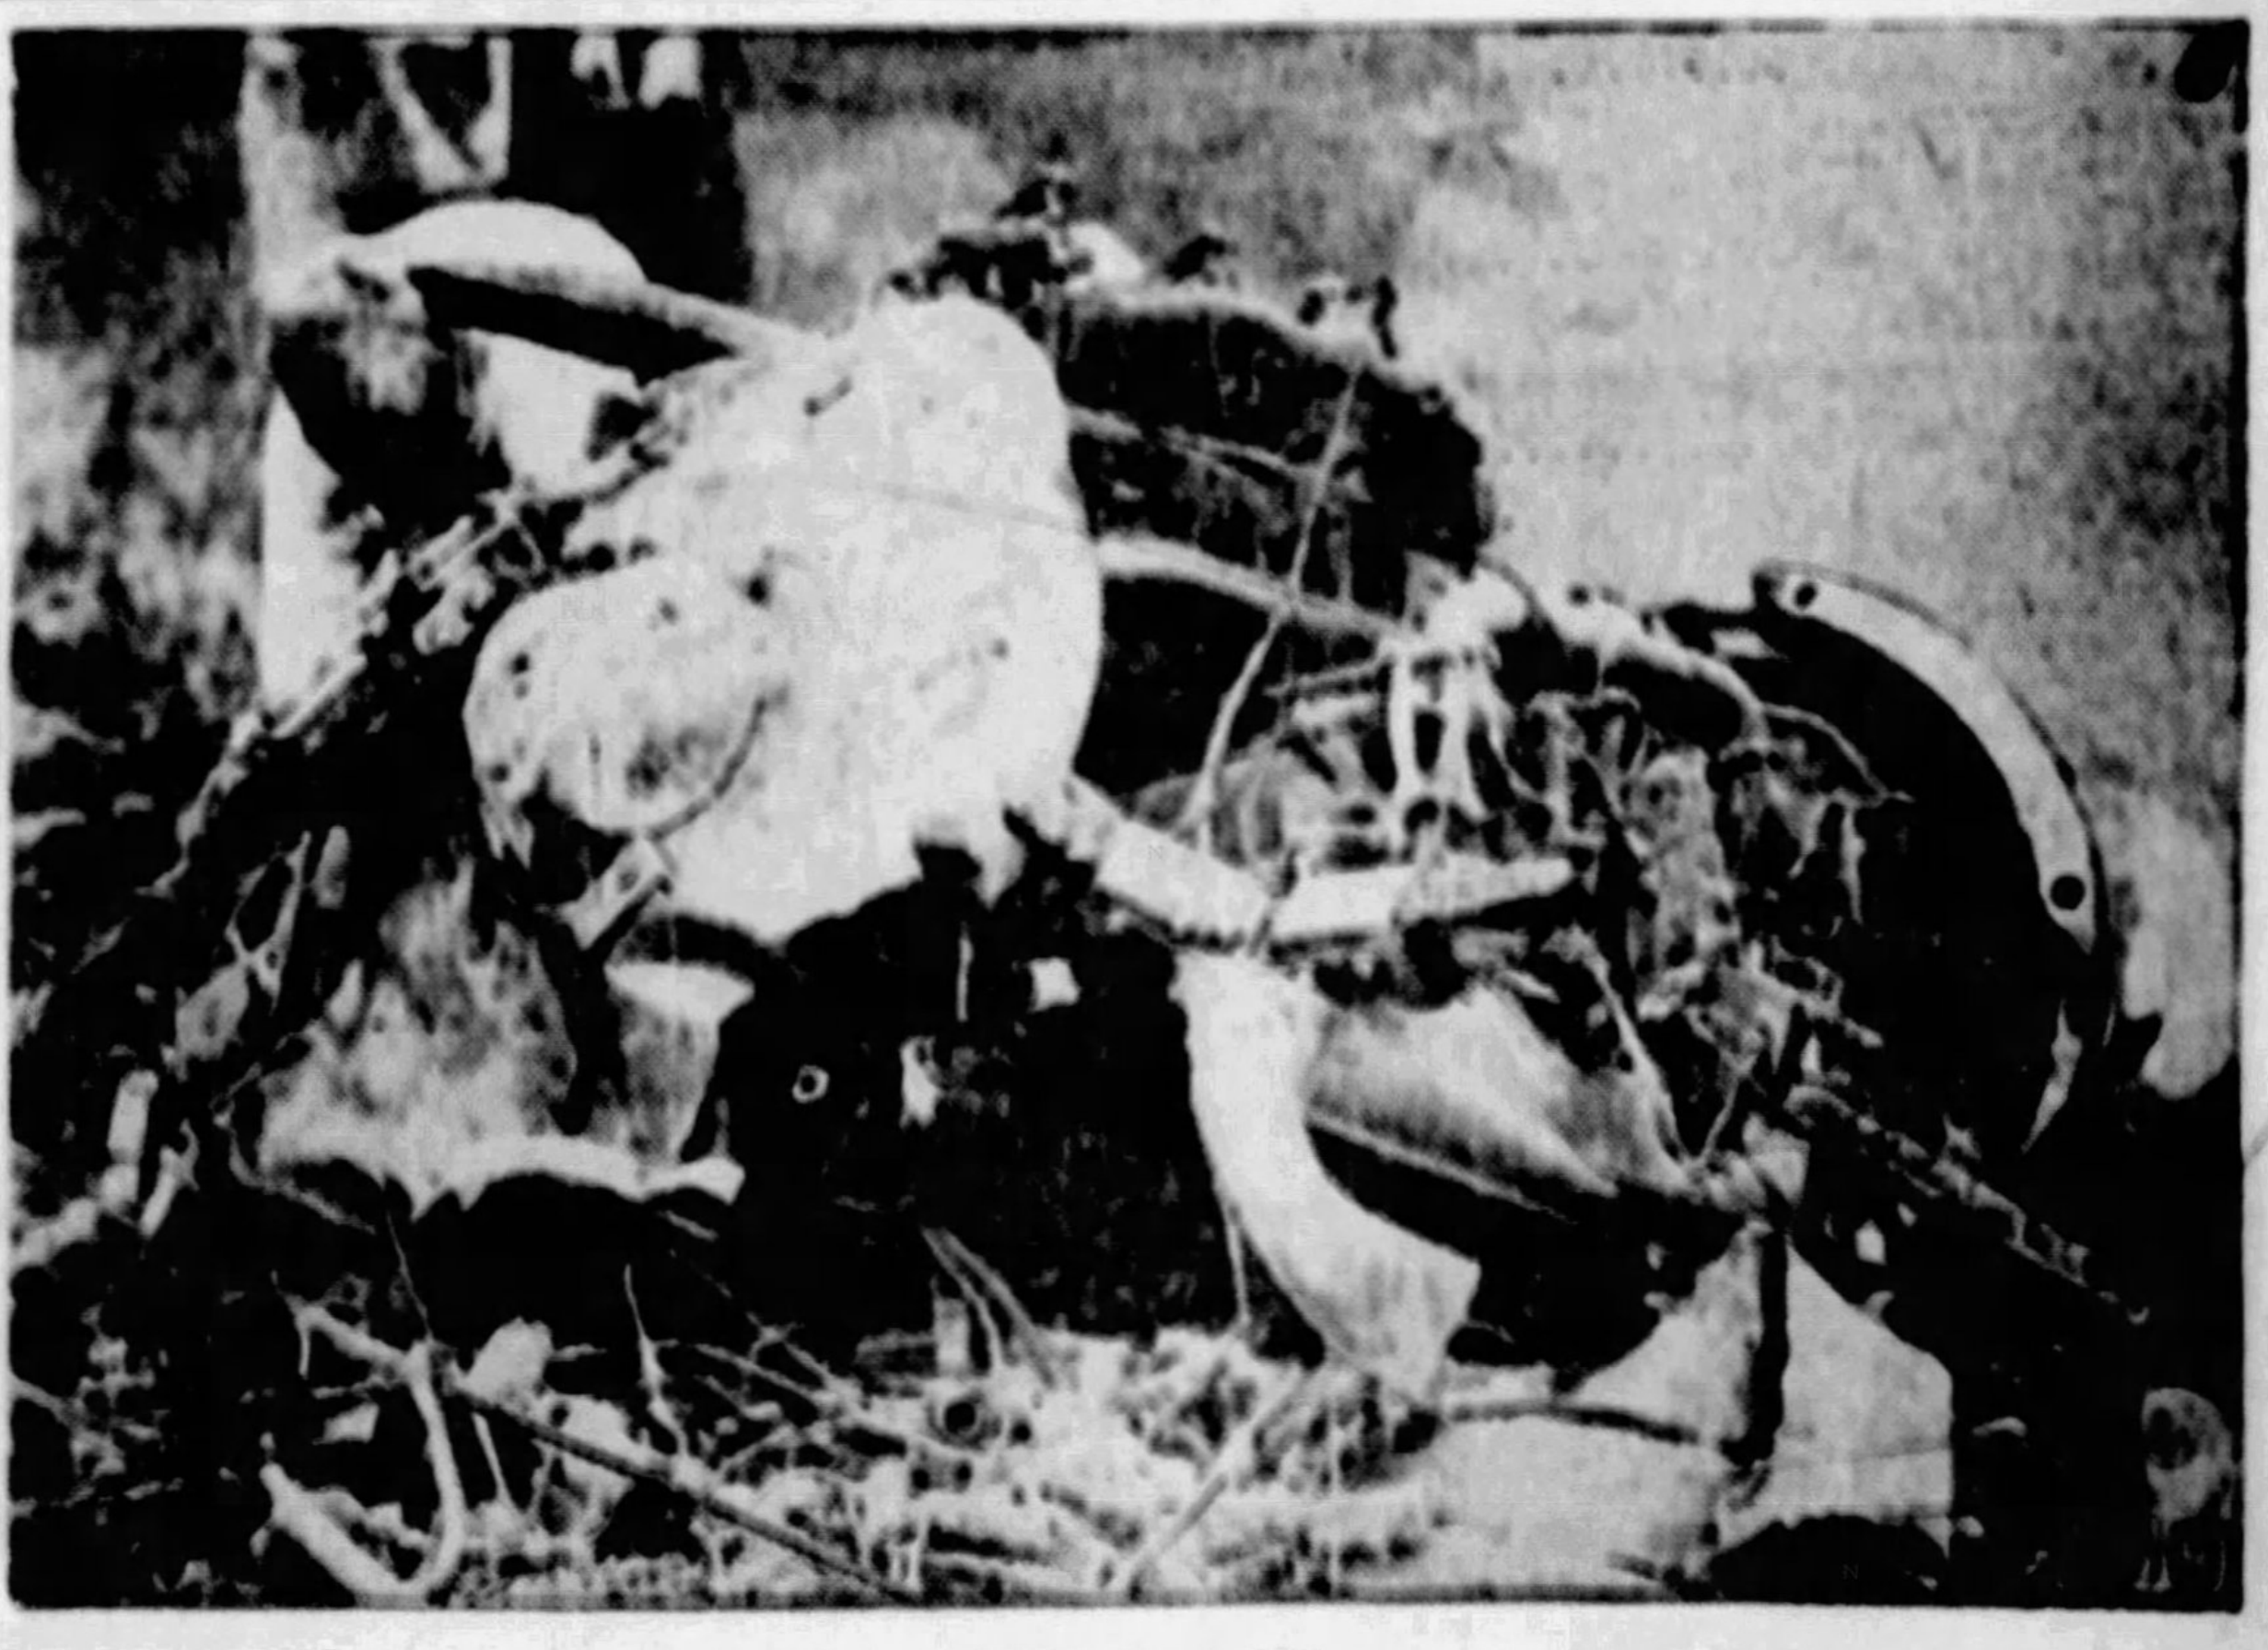
KILLED

James T. Clawson, 25, 2215 Grandview avenue, McKeesport, piloting the ship, was killed. He was a figure about Pittsburgh airfields because he was a street car conductor. Clifford Burnworth, 23, 200 North Negley avenue, owner of the plane, recently purchased, was the student-passenger injured. He is at McKeesport Hospital, where Clawson died, in critical condition.



WRECKAGE

The wreckage of the plane, which was burned after it crashed. Burnworth had retained Clawson as his private instructor and had purchased the plane to learn its operation. Clawson, who had a reputation as a competent flier, also owned a plane and 11 months ago was lost for a short time when he made a forced landing in woods near Masontown while flying on an advertising trip for a local concern.

MURDER AFTER AUTO RIDE IS MYSTERY

PROVIDENCE, Ky., Aug. 29.—(AP.)—Death in an Evansville (Ind.) hospital early this morning of Miss Pauline De Armon added to the difficulties of officers seeking to solve the mystery of an attack upon the [illegible]-year-old orphan girl and the murder of Fred Russell, her 21-year-old fiance.

Although the attack is believed to have taken place on Wednesday night or Thursday morning of last week, Miss De Armon still was alive yesterday when a searching party found her lying near the body of Russell at a point just off an unfrequented road leading to the old fair grounds near here. She was rushed to the hospital at Evansville but died at 12:15 o'clock this morning without regaining consciousness.

Meanwhile six persons, including two brothers and a sister, were held in the county jail at Dixon, near here, in connection with the crime. Although all denied any implication when taken into custody yesterday, officers planned to question them further today. They are: Claude, John and Ethel Stevens, Joe Howard, Harland Reynolds and Homer Winstead, all of Providence.

It was Winstead and Howard who on last Friday discovered the automobile in which Russell and Miss De Armon were riding Wednesday night. They found it abandoned near the spot where the couple was discovered. Each of the other four was reported to have been with Miss De Armon and her fiance sometime Wednesday or Wednesday night.

12 BEST NOVEL LIST STARTS DISPUTE

The application of the new psychology to the lives of famous people is responsible for the appearance in the last few years of many new biographies of men about whom the "last word" might reasonably be supposed to have been said, in the able and scholarly books already written. Perhaps none of these biographies has had a more interested reading than "Benjamin Franklin, the First Civilized American," by Phillips Russell. He calls Franklin the first civilized American "because at an American period eminent for narrowness, superstition and bleak beliefs he was mirthful, generous, open minded, learned, tolerant and humor loving. Because he was the first American man of the world in the sense that he was the first American world man."

While Mr. Russell has used no new sources of information, he has been able to utilize material from Franklin's own writings which have heretofore not been published—thus taking advantage of the relative freedom in this generation from the strict censorship which has uniformly been maintained toward the laxity of some of our early heroes. However unfortunate the result of this freer writing has been in the case of some great careers, in the case of Franklin it means a fuller and more accurate portrait than any that has preceded it.

A BOOK OF SNAKES.

Raymond L. Ditmars, the curator of reptiles of the New York Zoological Park, has long been the leading American authority on the reptilian world. His latest book is "Reptiles of the World," which includes not only the snakes but the lizards, crocodilians, tortoises and turtles of the world. It is a larger and more general work than his "Reptile Book," a popular identification manual which has been in use many years. So extensive is Mr. Ditmars' knowledge and so contagious his enthusiasm as he describes the varieties of his "finds" in all parts of the universe and their adaptation to their environment, that one insensibly shares his mood till the turning of a page reveals one of the two hundred large photographic illustrations, and gazes on perhaps a cobra with its powerful head raised in striking attitude. The most comfortable section of the volume, for the average person, is that devoted to the more clumsy and less dangerous tortoises and turtles.

THE TWELVE BEST.

Not long ago there was printed in a London paper Arnold Bennett's list of the twelve novels which he considered the best in all the world. Curiously, they are all by Russian authors: four by Dostoevski: "The Brothers Karamazov," "The Idiot," "Memoirs of the House of the Dead," "Crime and Punishment;" three by Tolstoi: "Anna Karenina," "War and Peace," "Resurrection"; four by Turgenev: "Torrents of Spring," "Virgin Soil," "On the Eve," "Fathers and Children," and Gogol's "Dead Souls."

William Lyon Phelps comments on this list in his section, "As I Like It," in a recent Scribner. Certainly Mr. Phelps cannot be accused of a grain of prejudice against the Russian writers, since it was his admirable, able and very enthusiastic "Essays on Russian Novelists," published 16 years ago, which introduced the majority of American readers to them; yet he disagrees with Mr. Bennett's list. He says: "I share Mr. Bennett's admiration for the mighty Russians, but not to this exclusive limit. In the year 1911 I published a sentence which I see no reason to retract—'Russian fiction, like German music, is the best in the world.' But I should never claim for the Russians the first 12 books. I should certainly rank 'David Copperfield' above 'The Idiot.' Even if I were making up a list of the best 12 Russian novels, it would not be identical with Mr. Bennett's. I should substitute Turgenev's 'A House of Gentlefolk' for 'Torrents of Spring' or 'Virgin Soil.' And I should put Gogol's 'Taras Bulba' ahead of 'Dead Souls.'" And then Prof. Phelps lists, in fairly chronologic order, his own choice of "the best 15 novels of the world":

Defoe—"Robinson Crusoe." Swift—"Gulliver's Travels." Richardson—"Clarissa." Fielding—"Tom Jones." Balzac—"Eugenie Grandet." Dumas—"The Three Musketeers" and sequels. Dickens—"David Copperfield." Hawthorne—"The Scarlet Letter." Thackeray—"Henry Esmond." Flaubert—"Madame Bovary." Turgenev—"Fathers and Children." Hugo—"Les Miserables." Tolstoi—"Anna Karenina." Dostoevski—"The Brothers Karamazov." Twain—"Huckleberry Finn."

EXTEND TIME ON PRIZE FLIGHT

CLEVELAND, Aug. 29.—The Cleveland Chamber of Commerce today renewed its $25,000 prize offer for the first non-stop aeroplane flight from Paris to Cleveland. The original offer stipulated that the flight end in Cleveland between August 6 and August 28. The time limit has now been extended to August, 1928. This extension of time will afford American fliers an opportunity to compete for the prize in event that none of the six planes anticipating a crossing this year succeed in making the westward crossing of the Atlantic.

Two German planes, three French and one American have announced their intention to attempt the Cleveland flight this year. Adverse weather conditions have prevented their start.

CLOAK MAKERS SEEK TO OUST NON-UNIONS

NEW YORK.—A drive to eliminate nonunion cloak and dress shops in Greater New York, indorsed by Raymond V. Ingersoll, impartial chairman of the cloak industry, is being conducted by the Cloak and Dressmakers' Joint Board.

The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, with which the board is affiliated, accuses Communists of having opened the way for irresponsible manufacturers who declined to observe accepted regulations within the industry. The drive has been in progress two weeks and has brought 85 shops into the union, according to Julius Hochman, manager of the joint board.

MARY MILLNACK SPEAKS FOR YOUTH

At a noonday luncheon where I was guest the other day there arose a discussion about youth. It happened to be that I was the only young person present. And it would not have happened only for holding the title of "Miss Pittsburgh 1927." But they turned to me for an opinion of my own generation.

Really, though, I just can't help feeling that the youth of today is better off than were our grandparents and even our parents. It was pointed out that we look for so much fun. They always have wanted fun, but today we have so many kinds of diversion to turn to and there are so many more young people to seek this fun, that it is only more noticeable.

And there are so many more advantages, too. The modern school offers much more than other generations could get. Then, too, there are the libraries that bring both education and enjoyment. It used to be a buggy ride was a stylish diversion, but today the automobile is a step in advance.

So I told them all these ideas and other thoughts, but I don't think it was taken seriously. I figure that they just couldn't see through the eyes so familiar to us. But I know we are just all the same as our elder people, only we have the new advantages and make the most of them.

Mary Millnack

"Miss Pittsburgh 1927."

GIVE BOYS BAD LIQUOR, HELD

NEW YORK—While two small boys were in Bellevue Hospital seriously ill as the result of drinking bad liquor, three men, alleged to have given it to them as soda water, were held without bail by Magistrate Flood in Harlem Court for hearing on charges of felonious assault. The men are Nicolaio Celtron and Nicholas Tocci, both of 300 West Sixty-ninth street, and Albert Fiori, of 411 East One Hundred and Eighth street.

The boys, Joseph Lastia, 12, of 384 West Sixty-ninth street, and John de Vino, 10, of 183 West End avenue, said that last Saturday night they met the men in the street and went to a "party" at the Sixty-ninth street address. They then went to Fiori's apartment, they said, where they got liquor under the guise of soda water.

The boys charged that the men became frightened at the effect of the liquor and took them to the street at One Hundred and Eighteenth street and First avenue. A patrolman found them and sent them to the hospital.

CITY UNFURLS FLAGS TO WELCOME VETERANS

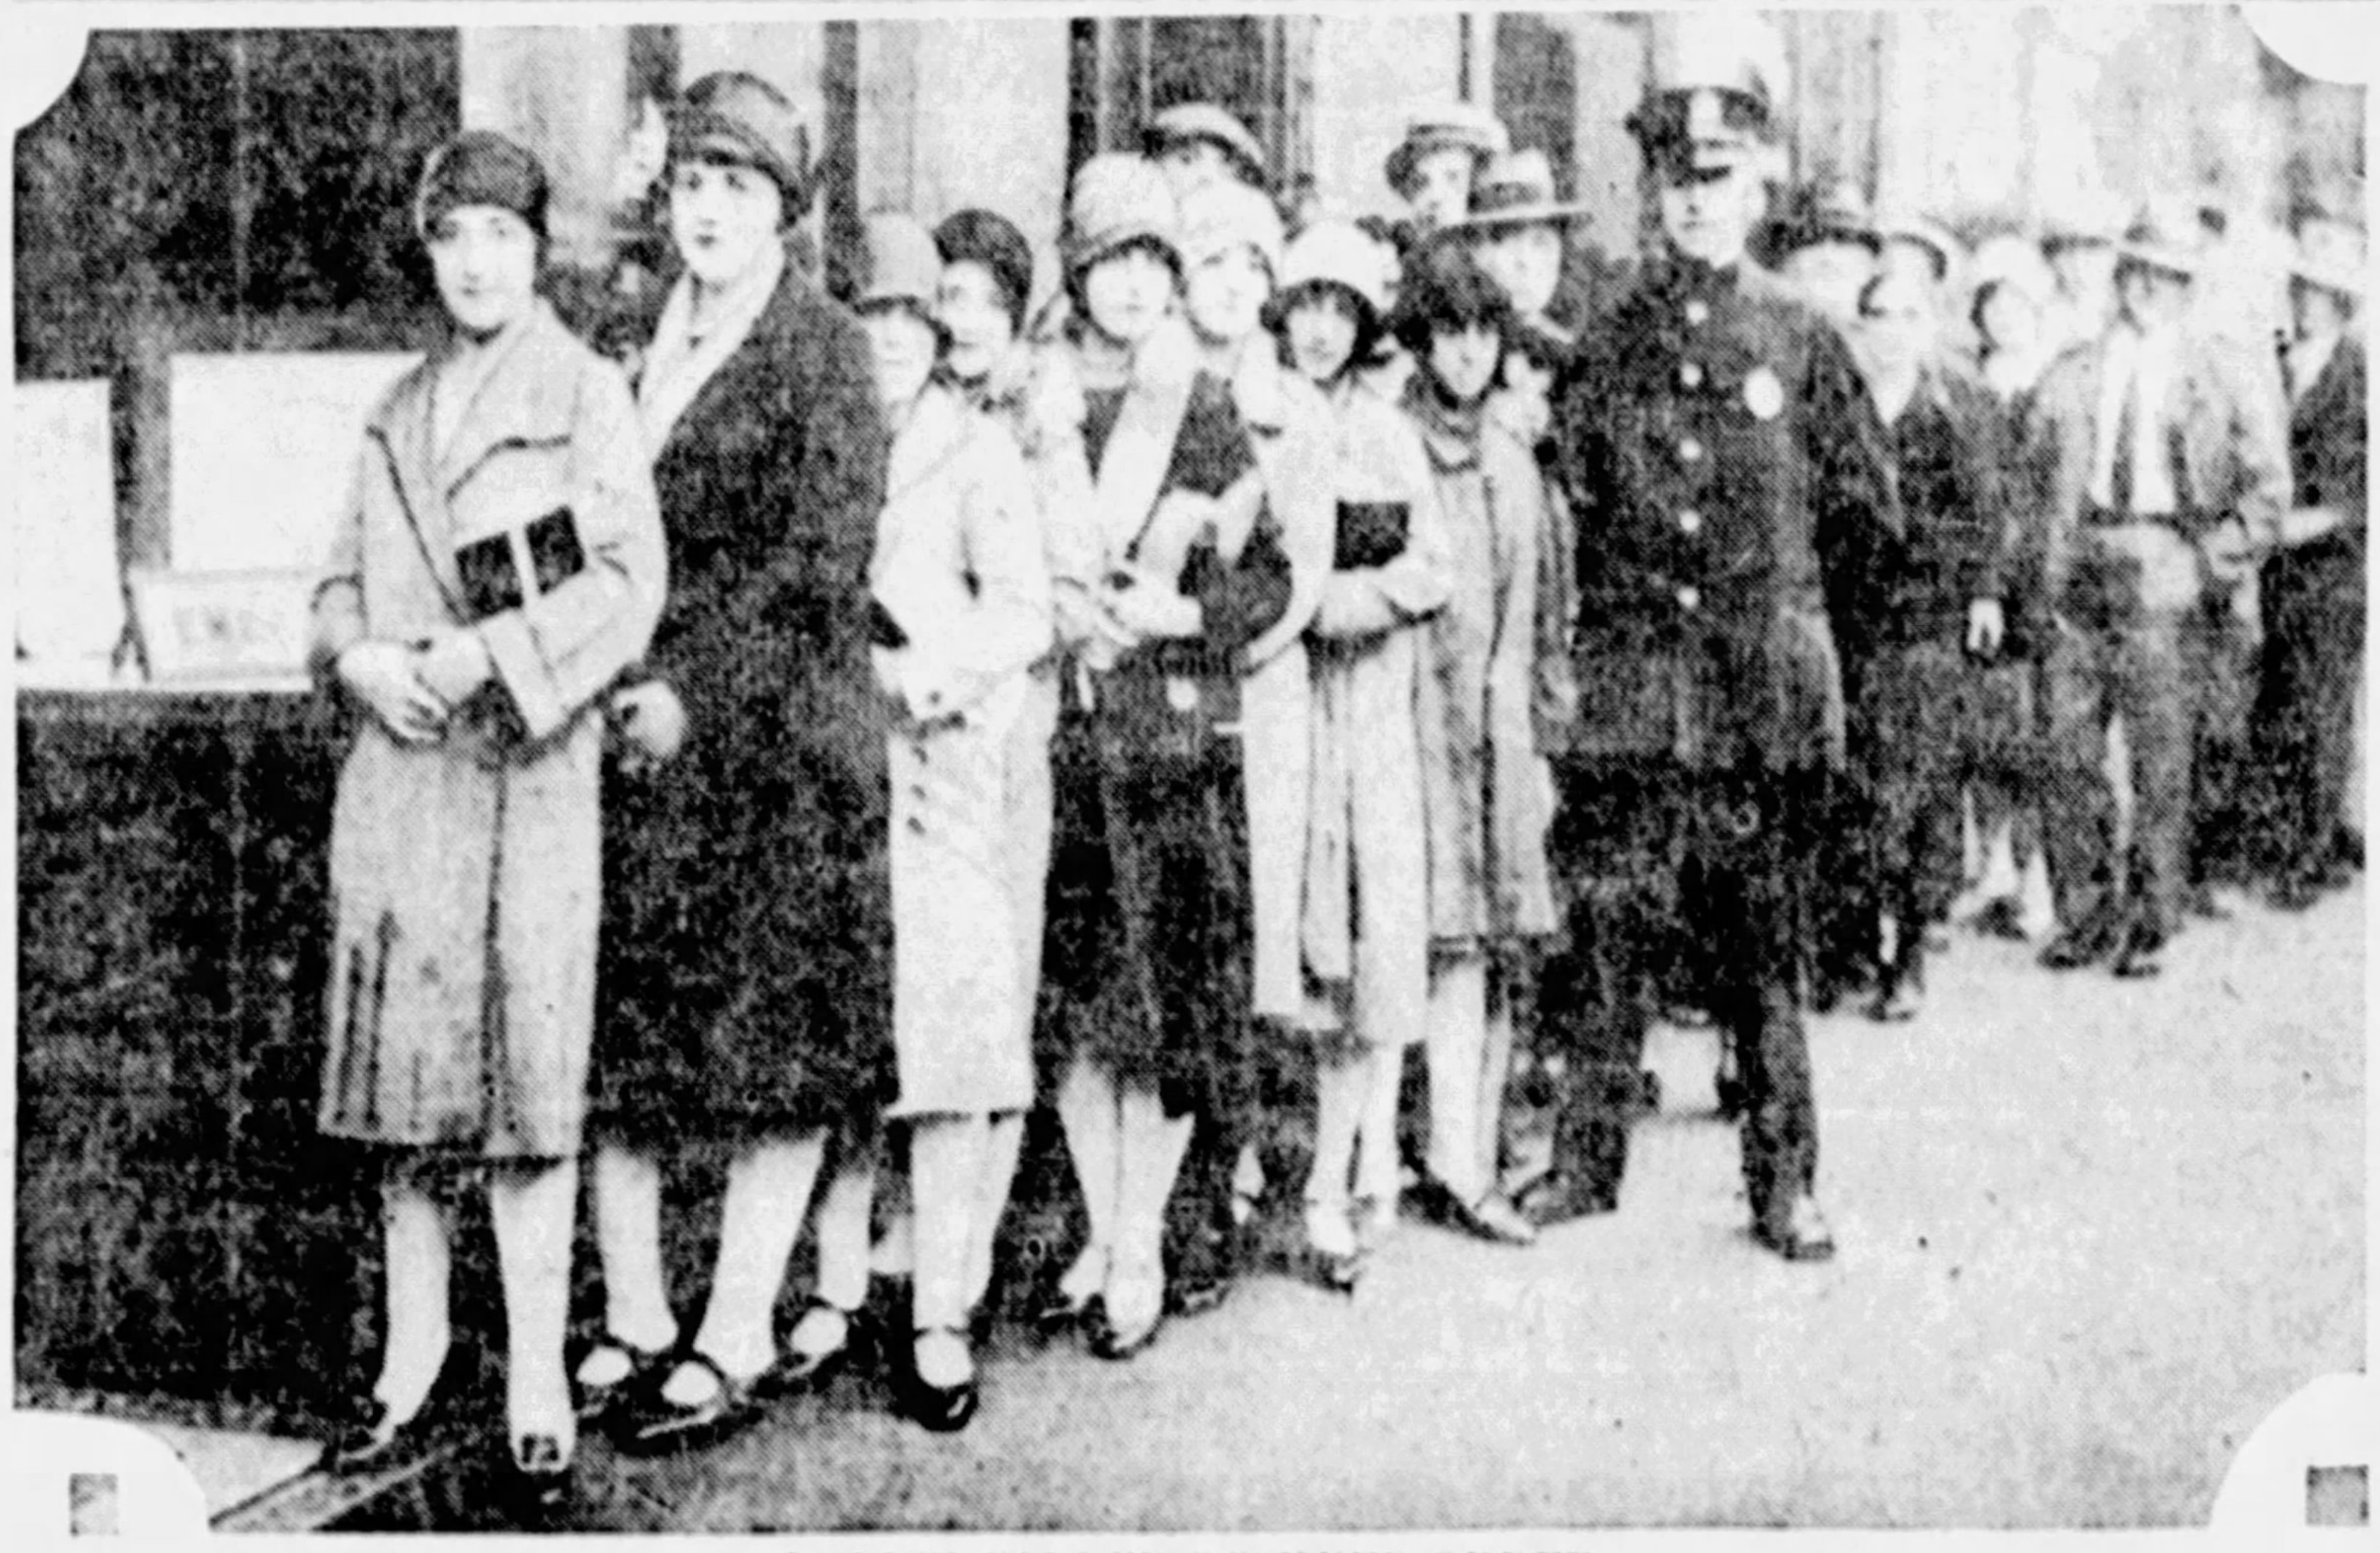
MASS OF COLOR WILL GREET 80TH MEN

Downtown Pittsburgh blazed out in a riot of patriotic color this morning as a welcome to the veterans of the Eightieth Division, who open their tenth anniversary celebration here Wednesday. Flags and bunting stream from light poles and trolley wires and large banners bear the names of towns in France in the battle area of the division.

In addition to sightseeing busses which will be in service continuously during the five days of the convention carrying the visiting veterans to all parts of the city without charge, a special street car pass has been provided by the Pittsburgh Railways Company which the delegates may secure at Moose Temple at a reduction in price which will enable them to reach every part of the city at all times by trolley.

Reports from Altoona, Johnstown, Greensburg, Uniontown, Indiana, DuBois, Oil City, Warren, Corry, Erie, New Kensington, Hollidaysburg, New Castle, McKeesport, Washington, Waynesburg and other points indicate that the veterans in these localities will be strongly represented at the convention.

CROWDS FIGHT TO VIEW SACCO, VANZETTI BODIES



POLICE CALLED TO KEEP ORDER

Boston police were summoned to the small Hanover street undertaking rooms, where the bodies of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, executed at Charlestown State Prison, Mass., for the murder of a Braintree paymaster seven years ago, lay in state. Crowds, stretched in long lines along the sidewalks, fought for admittance to view the bodies.

M'KEESPORT DIVER DIES AS HEAD HITS POOL BASE

Jay Carey, 22, of 1110 Market street, McKeesport, was killed yesterday while staging an impromptu diving exhibition in the McKeesport municipal swimming pool. His head struck the concrete bottom of the pool when he make his eighth dive and he was dead when life guards pulled him from the water.

SACCO SERMON HERE KEPT OFF RADIO

Branding the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti "un-American" because it was done against the will of the people, the Rev. Father James R. Cox attributed it to poor statesmanship on the part of Gov. Alvin T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, before a large audience in Old St. Patrick's Catholic Church Sunday morning and evening. The execution was an error, he said, because there was a reasonable doubt of their guilt.

A radio announcement during the morning service that the sermon would not be broadcast because of "trouble at the church" caused much confusion and misunderstanding. It was learned that there was no trouble, but that Father Cox had agreed with officials of the broadcasting station that the sermon would not be put on the air. The efforts of Mrs. Elizabeth D. Armstrong, Pittsburgh club woman, to have the sermon stopped by appealing to federal and local authorities also added to the confusion.

Father Cox likened, by inference, Gov. Fuller to King Louis XIV of France, who, when told that the people objected to some of his rulings said, "I am the state!"

Von Sternberg Is Busy Cutting Von Stroheim's "Wedding March" From Over 50 Reels to About 12

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29.—Business going on as usual despite tennis matches, flicker lulls, beachings, bridge, servant disasters, and socialistic rebellions.

The Actors Equity is an antiquated appellation today. Bigger and stronger brotherhood shines upon the cinematropolis.

Larger and sturdier sewers are being installed in torn-up streets to cope with the customary "unusual" weather of winter rains.

Display billboards herald a "greater movie season" and "children still cry for it."

"Red Lips, Why Are You Blue," is a popular song here.

Studio gateman insist upon snooting the hoi polli, and several supervisors have purchased dictionaries. Every road leads to flicker lots and all conversation revolves around ditto. The proper pronoun "I" has undergone a face lifting, a glandular rejuvenation and resumes its place as chief leader of verbal exchanges.

All of which spells Sinema, the matured girl scout of entertainment.

And so without further ado, to the business of the day.

Announcing that Eric Von Stroheim, the centipede of celluloid feet, is enslaved in his brain cells upon the shores of Catalina, whence he departed and remains sufficiently long to write the script for John Barrymore's "Still Next" United Artists picture, "The Tempest." Von Stroheim, however, will not direct it. M. Tourjansky megaphone debuts in this capacity.

While the truant Erich rounds chaos into continuity, another von is cutting his (Stroheim's) last Famous Players' production, "Wedding Bells." This Von is Josef Von Sternberg, director of "Underworld." Joe was given a pair of scissors, a bottle of throat liquid to combat hoarseness, an diet loose on 51 reels of "Wedding Bells." After several weeks concentrated effort, he has scissored the picture to 15 reels. Three more reels come out, and the product will then be ready for fall release. It has been in preparation over a year.

As regards Mr. Von Stroheim's directorial plans, there is zero at the moment to report.

MUSICAL PLAYS OPENERS

The Alvin will reopen with a Labor Day matinee, Monday, September 5, with Clark and McCullough in the musical comedy, "The Ramblers," which has done service in New York. Marie Saxon, of dancing fame, will be in the cast, which also holds Georgia O'Ramey and more than 100 others.

George White's new musical comedy, "Manhattan Mary," starring Ed Wynn and featuring Elizabeth Hines, will open in the Nixon Monday, September 5.

This is the last week of "Old Ironsides" in the Nixon. There are two shows daily. In the cast are George Bancroft, Wallace Beery, Esther Ralston, Johnny Walker, Charles Farrell and Charles Hill Mailes.

Thurston Hall, well known leading man, will make his initial appearance with the George Sharp Production Stock company in the Pitt tonight in Don Mullally's comedy, "Laff That Off." This played long runs in New York and Chicago and was presented in the Pitt last season on its tour of the principal cities. Ann Forrest will play opposite Mr. Hall in "Laff That Off."

For one week, opening with Labor Day matinee, "Around the World," a musical extravaganza, will be in the Gayety, bringing Howard Blair, Harold Kennedy, J. Randall O'Neil as comics, Mlle. Hilji, Margie Wilson, Alice Richey and a chorus of 24.

Ned Wayburn and his "Variety Show," featuring the Four Ortons, and Al and Fanny Stedman, will be seen on the stage of the Davis in the Keith-Albee vaudeville bill, the week of September 5.

Starring Norma Talmadge, "Camille," modern film version of the Dumas story, will be shown in the Grand and Liberty next week.

Capital Idea -:- Just "Before Taking" -:- Friendly Enemies

IN WASHINGTON for photoplay scenes, with the Will Rogers company, are Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Ann Rork, who were met by an International News cameraman.

NEW PENN THEATER one week before opening date, next Monday. Frequent application of Loew's celebrated Face Cream will change its complexion gradually in the next few days. The public will note the "After-Taking" effect Labor Day.

IN THE FILM, "Sorrell and Son" Alice Joyce and Anna Q. Nilsson are far from friendly. We present this smiling evidence that they are not foes in real life. In this picture they play together the first time.

FIRES AT SACCO FUNERAL HELD 'RED' REVENGE

SERIES OF FIRES LAID TO RADICALS

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—(AP.)—A series of fires of suspected incendiary origin and thought in Cambridge, at least, to be the work of Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers was under investigation in these two adjoining cities today while police of both moved to protect fire engine houses which suffered in four of the blazes.

Eight incendiary fires, all within a mile and a half of each other kept the fire apparatus of both cities on the jump yesterday afternoon and last night.

Two fire houses, each in Cambridge and this city were set afire during the absence of the companies at one or another of the series of blazes and under conditions which left no doubt that the outbreaks were executed by the same person or group.

Five of the fires were in Cambridge. Those in the fire houses were set while the apparatus was busy battling flames in a barn. The fire companies returned to find their own quarters ablaze and then two chemical plants were discovered burning.

100,000 SEE PROCESSION.

The cremated remains of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, executed radicals, today were in charge of Mrs. Rose Sacco, widow of the one, and Miss Luigia Vanzetti, sister of the other, after a funeral procession which was diverted forcibly from the State House and was marked by clashes with the police.

RIP AMERICAN FLAG.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—(AP.)—An American flag was torn to shreds at the base of the Nelson memorial in the course of a Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration in Trafalgar square yesterday. A man who had unfolled the flag with the intention of saturating it with kerosene and burning it desisted when called upon to do so by officials. Others, however, seized the flag and in a few minutes it was ripped to pieces.

CHALLENGES STATEMENT ON GRAND CANYON ART

To the editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

I would like to call your attention to the fact that an article on the Grand Canyon, published in the Sun-Telegraph on August 18, contradicts certain well established facts. The first photographs of the Grand Canyon were taken by the Kolb brothers who went from Green River, Wyoming, to the coast in 1914. Their experiences were set forth in a book by Ellsworth Kolb entitled "Down the Colorado from Wyoming to Mexico." The government expedition in 1924 also took very complete moving pictures of this trip. The writer navigated part of this river last year and moving pictures were taken.

SHOOTS WIFE AS SHE SLEEPS, KILLS HIMSELF

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 29.—Henry P. Thomas, 40, an auditor employed by the Southern Bell Telephone Company, shot his wife twice through the brain, turned the weapon on himself and sent a bullet through his own head in their bedroom here. The woman had apparently been killed as she slept. Both were clad in their sleeping garments. What prompted the rash act has not been ascertained.

Safeguarding a Schoolgirl Complexion
By VILMA BANKY

© 1927 Fanchon Beauty Features

Only ONE soap is safe for your face—a TRUE complexion soap

USE powder and make-up all you wish. But if you seek a good complexion, never leave them on over night. For the first rule in modern skin care is to keep the skin clean, pores frequently freed of accumulations.

That means soap and water—regularly. But it means, too, a TRUE COMPLEXION soap only. A soap MADE for skin use—to protect and beautify.

Thus, largely on expert advice, millions use Palmolive Soap; touch their faces with no other. It is made of cosmetic oils. It is made for one purpose only—to protect and beautify the skin.

Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be naturally dry, apply a little good cold cream. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

Do that regularly, and particularly at night. Note then how much better your skin in even one week.

Get Palmolive today. Costs but 10c the cake. Use no other on your face. But be sure you get GENUINE Palmolive. Crude imitations, represented to be of olive and palm oils, are not the same as Palmolive. Remember that and TAKE CARE. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U. S. A.

Vaughn is in a serious condition in the Allegheny General Hospital. Sally Faces a Crisis—Jail for "Beau" or Marriage to Ted Sloan—Which?

What Has Gone Before

SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family which consists of MRS. JEROME; the twins, BEAU and MILLIE; and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health, so Sally does the housework mornings and officework for grouchy MR. PEEVEY afternoons. In the flat below the Jeromes lives young TED SLOAN, an automobile salesman, who wants her to marry him and keep on working. But the only man in whom she is truly interested is JOHN NYE, whose real estate offices are just across the hall from Mr. Peevey's. Nye hires the siren Millie as his stenographer-secretary after Sally has refused the place because Millie was out of work. He becomes blindly infatuated with her, and Sally is both heartsick and jealous. Millie and Beau rarely give Sally any money for the upkeep of the home. Occasionally a check comes from the absent father, and once in a while either Beau or Millie pays $10 as "board" money. But most of the burden falls on Sally. Suddenly, however, Beau blossoms out with many new clothes and a surplus of money. Sally becomes suspicious. Sally goes dancing with Ted while her mother and her spinster aunt, EMILY JEROME, are at a movie. Ted tries to make love to her, and when she repulses him, shows her how Beau altered his $10 check to $110.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY—

"YES, I did," Ted answered, steering her through the crowd by her shoulders. She hated the feeling of his hands on them, but she left them there. "But he altered it—and collected a hundred dollars more!—Men have gone to jail for less, Sally!"

Then in the brightness of the hall outside, he showed her the check—the pale blue one. It was Beau's check, and it was for $110, too.

"He gave me that check in payment," Ted said coldly. I told him I'd say nothing if he'd pay me back . . . His check came back to me marked 'N. S. F.' . . . The dirty crook!"

"What does 'N. S. F.' mean?" Sally asked mechanically looking at the letters on Beau's check. She had expected something like this for weeks. But now that it had actually come she was stunned.

"It means that he didn't have sufficient fund in the bank to cash a check like that," the boy explained. "He knew it when he gave it to me. He tried to 'gip' me twice! Well, I'm not through with him, let me tell you! I'll put him where he belongs. I'd been months saving that $100!"

In the bright light his good-looking face with its gray eyes and red hair seemed suddenly rat-like and mean to Sally. Whether it was a trick of the lighting or whether it really was rat-like at times, she couldn't tell.

"Oh, Ted, you wouldn't do anything to—to hurt Beau, would you?" she asked, and unconsciously her hands were clasped on her breast as if she were praying. Her eyes were soft and bright and wide with fear and her mouth trembled.

But Ted was not looking at her. He was looking down at the two slips of paper—the two frail bits of paper that could mean so much agony and punishment to Beau.

"I don't know why I should be so darned soft about this thing," Ted said in a hard, bitter tone. "None of you people ever treat me like a human being. You tell me not to touch you when you know I'm wild about you . . . . Your aunt treats me as if I were dirt under her feet, and your mother pretends she's sick to keep you from going out with me—"

"Oh, Ted, that's because she doesn't want me to marry you. She's so afraid that I will," Sally was beginning when he cut her short.

"Well, will you?" he asked, turning on her sharply. "It's all up to you—If you'll say the word, I'll tear these checks up this minute!" He held them between his fingers, and she saw that he meant what he said.

She looked him straight in the eyes and shook her head.

"No," she said quietly. "Beau would be the last person on earth to want me to do such a thing. He'd rather take his medicine."

Ted laughed a nasty laugh. "He would, would he? Don't fool yourself—Ask him tonight, and see! Ask him!"

Sally turned on her heel and walked into the women's dressing room where a hundred girls were struggling to get to the mirrors to put fresh make-up on their smooth, fresh faces.

When she came out he was waiting for her, puffing stolidly on a cigaret. Under his arm was his new gray felt hat with a loud scarlet-and-blue silk band.

It seemed to Sally as if she never had loathed anything or anybody quite so much as she loathed him and his loud hat-band at that particular moment. . . . It seemed to typify him and everything that he stood for in some obscure, half-understood way.

He turned and put out a hand towards her, touched her arm.

"Ready?" he asked.

But she shook him off, glared at him with two great angry eyes, and started out of the dance hall alone.

Then suddenly she turned on one of her light heels, and swung back to him for a second. She flung one sentence at him.

"I'll see that Beau gives you that money tonight, if I have to go out and steal it myself!" said Sally.

CHAPTER XVIII.

OUTSIDE the Blue Lagoon an autumn storm was raging. Rain was coming down in sheets, and a cold high wind howled and tore about the streets.

Sally shivered as she stepped out into the streaming darkness and started along the wet, gleaming sidewalks. The downpour drenched her silk coat and thin dress in no time, but she put her head down and struggled on towards the street car line at the corner.

She had no notion of where she was going or what she was going to do. Her thoughts were as wild as the weather itself . . . Beau had stolen more than a hundred dollars from Ted Sloan, and Ted had proof of it. Proof that could send Beau to prison! . . . Somehow that money must be found, and be paid back to Ted tonight. Every nickel of it! . . . But where was it to be found? Where? Especially at this time of night.

"I don't think that Ted really would turn Beau over to the law," Sally told herself, sensibly. "I'm sure he would not go that far—and yet he might. You never can tell what people will do when they're angry."

And Ted surely had been insanely angry back there among the golden lights and the haunting music of The Blue Lagoon.

"Yes, I've got to get the money," Sally finally decided, remembering his white face and the look in his eyes as he handed her the two checks—the pink one and the blue one. "But where to get it—that's the question."

She racked her confused brain as she went along, chilled to the bone and buffeted by the wind—and hardly conscious that she was cold and wet and shaking all over.

She reached the corner and saw a street car coming along through the rain like a lighted ship on a stormy sea.

Just as it slowed down to stop Ted's little car skidded around the corner and stopped beside the curb. He called to her. His words came to her in snatches above the rush of the wind:

"Hi, you!—can't be out on a

REDFERN HOPE IS AGAIN REVIVED

CARACAS, Venezuela, Aug. 29.—(AP.)—It was reported here today that an airplane was sighted over the delta of the Orinoco River at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, flying in a southerly direction.

The Orinoco delta is on the course mapped out by Paul Redfern, young aviator, who left Brunswick, Ga., Thursday afternoon in a lone attempt to establish a world non-stop record by flying 4,600 miles to Rio Janeiro, Brazil.

His route lay over the path of the Gulf Stream, east of the Bahamas, across the extreme tip of Porto Rico and thence over the eastern part of the Caribbean Sea to the Venezuelan coast.

Redfern planned to continue over Dutch Guiana and the northeastern part of Brazil until he reached Macapa, on the north bank of the Amazon estuary. If conditions were favorable he planned to continue to Pernambuco, 1,200 miles farther down the coast or to Rio, another 1,200 miles.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 29.—(AP.)—The fate of Paul Redfern remained shrouded in mystery today as the hours continued to mount with no news from the intrepid flier who winged his way out over the Atlantic last Thursday on his perilous venture to Brazil.

The green and gold monoplane, Port of Brunswick, hours ago had been forced down in its journey by the exhaustion of fuel if Redfern even then had escaped a tropical disturbance along his route. The flier carried fuel for 52 hours of flying; this supply would have been depleted about the middle of Saturday afternoon at the latest.

ANTI-BLUE LAW DRIVE PLANNED

A membership campaign in Western Pennsylvania by the National Association opposed to Blue Laws was discussed today at a conference between Linn A. E. Gale, national secretary, and Hugh P. Meese, of Braddock, national committeeman for Pennsylvania. They said they would attempt to unite the many groups in Pittsburgh opposed to the Blue laws.

Mr. Gale said plans were under way for an appeal to the United States Supreme Court from the recent Pennsylvania decision against the Philadelphia American League baseball club for playing Sunday ball. The argument will be made by Clarence Darrow, Chicago attorney, chief counsel for the association, Mr. Gale said. He added that Sinclair Lewis and Rupert Hughes were directors of his organization.

Rain Prevents Wedding Above Clouds, But Not in Home

By Universal Service

HACKENSACK, N. J., Aug. 29.—Miss Helen Romano, of Lodi, and Charles West, an aeroplane engineer, who were to have been married 2,000 feet above the ground on Saturday as a feature of the flying circus at Teterboro, for the benefit of the crippled kiddies' fund of the Hackensack Lodge of Elks, said it was bad luck to postpone a wedding, even on account of rain, so they were quietly married Saturday night at the bride's home.

But the Elks are not going to disappoint their friends. Today the committee decided to give a handsome wedding gift to any couple in New York, Brooklyn, or any city in New Jersey who will be married in midair next Saturday afternoon, when the exhibitions will be resumed.

GOES UNDER KNIFE

BLANCHE SWEET

Blanche Sweet, blonde and preferable star of the silver sheet, was taken to a hospital in Hollywood. She underwent a minor operation. She was reported to be doing nicely today.

To Pick Best Plane Builder Tomorrow

The winner of the Greater Pittsburgh airplane trophy will be decided Tuesday afternoon.

In Schenley Oval, at 2 o'clock, the final meeting and competition of the National Aircraft Model contest will be held.

Every builder and entrant in the contest, which is being conducted by the Bureau of Recreation and the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will show his plane. The plane and its owner should be at the Oval shortly after 1:30. The contests will begin promptly at 2 o'clock.

The committee, headed by Mayor Charles H. Kline, will judge and award the great silver trophy, several hundred gold and silver medals. The committee includes D. Barr Peat, manager of Bettis Field and a friend of Colonel Lindbergh; Raymond M. Marlier, president of the Pittsburgh Aero Club; W. C. Batchelor, Superintendent of Recreation, who has been conducting the contest; James J. Wagner of Mayer flying field, who is also chairman of junior activities, National Aeronautics Association; Colonel Harry Fry, chairman of aeronautics, Chamber of Commerce; Capt. Thomas S. Voss, commandant of Rodgers Field; Marcus Aaron, president of the Board of Public Education; Daniel Winters, president of City Council, and Warren I. Bickford, chairman of the committee on recreation, Civic Club of Allegheny County.

Considerable competition is indicated. Several crack miniature planes from cities and towns outside Pittsburgh are to be in the race. The report of the plane contests will be sent to the national committee, and if any of the contestants are picked by that committee, they will be sent to Memphis, Tenn., October 8.

HOLD SUSPECT IN STABBING AT PICNIC

The Croatian Poor Society picnic took a serious turn yesterday when Joseph Srokovcic, 25, of 276 Butler street, was stabbed in the abdomen. County detectives are holding John Swartz, 32, of 47 Chessman avenue, pending the result of Joseph's injuries. Swartz told the detectives the injured man fell on an upturned butcher knife.

POLICEMAN SENTENCED 30 DAYS IN WORKHOUSE

After having been arrested three times within a week on complaint of his wife, Patrolman Arthur Shull, of 1633 Perrysville avenue, was sentenced to serve 30 days in the workhouse yesterday by Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court. He was charged with abusing his family. Shull was suspended and will be given a hearing before the police trial board when his sentence ends.

BLOCK BURNED IN DUQUESNE; 1 DEAD

Joseph Boris, Duquesne fireman, was reported recovering today from injuries suffered yesterday during the fire which resulted in the death of Charles Linn, 22, of 307 Kennedy avenue, Duquesne, and property damage estimated at $150,000.

An entire business block, including 10 buildings, was destroyed and 22 families were made homeless. Linn was killed when he was hurled from a high ladder and by a high tension electric line. Boris also was knocked from a ladder and suffered shock from coming in contact with live wire.

The scene of the fire is the block on Milford avenue between River avenue and Grant street and extends back to Pear alley. Firemen of Duquesne, McKeesport, Homestead, West Homestead and Munhall fought the flames for several hours. Fire Chief Lawrence Trainor said the cause of the fire, which originated in the store of I. Pearl, 42 Milford avenue, had not been determined.

Buildings badly damaged or destroyed were:

Store of I. Pearl; three-story brick hotel of A. Fontaflow; two-story barber shop of John Gross and homes of two families; three-story building of Albert Fodor, with music store of Mrs. I. Farkel and homes of six families; three-story building of M. Schrager, grocery and butcher shop on first floor, and homes of four families; three-story building owned by Jennie Oliver, clothing store of S. Schrager on first floor and homes of five families above; two-story men's furnishing store of J. Horschavitz; one-story wholesale fruit and produce store of John Graff; three-story man's furnishing store of D. Frank and homes of two families; one-story bowling alley and pool room of Julius Phillips; notion store of Jennie Oliver and homes of five families on two upper floors.

MAN CUT IN ROW OVER WOMAN

His alleged attentions to another man's wife resented, police say, Angelo Ercoliage, 40, is in the West Penn Hospital, seriously cut in the abdomen, left arm and hand. Michael Romano, 40, alleged to have done the cutting; his wife, Mrs. Minnie Romano, 22, over whom the trouble started, and James Trazano, 47, a witness, are in the Forty-third Street Police Station. All live at 45 Pearl street, where Romano is said to have attacked Ercoliage with a penknife last night.

White House Fish Pool Urged by Rogers For Economy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Bobby Jones is to Atlanta what the movies are to California, and Lindbergh is to America.

If golf players took a speck of pride in what they do, Jones' playing should really be a help to humanity. After seeing him play, thousands of able bodied men should be shamed into doing some useful work.

Yours,
Congressman-at-Large,
HON. ROGERS.

P. S.—My first official duty as congressman-at-large, which was bestowed on me last night, is to change the library of the overhauled White House into a fishing pool. That's economy for the taxpayers.

Will Rogers.

Sally's Shoulders

ENGROSSING DIFFERENT LIVELY DRAMATIC

By BEATRICE BURTON

Sally Faces a Crisis—Jail for "Beau" or Marriage to Ted Sloan—Which?

night, that this must be losing your mind—talk this thing over sensibly" and so on.

Sally paid not the slightest bit of attention to him.

With the tail of her eye she could see him leaning out of his wet little car, waving one arm at her as he yelled into the wind. Then, just as the street car slid to a stop and she started towards it, he jumped out.

But Sally was too quick for him. In the twinkling of an eye she was on the platform, with the door closing behind her. She had escaped.

There were only a half dozen people in the car and all of them stared at her sodden clothes and dripping hair.

Sally did not even see them, so wrapped up in her own gloomy thoughts was she. She barely saw the conductor when she leaned towards him across the fare box and spoke to him.

"Tell me—you pass E. Eighty-fifth street, don't you?"

"Yes, lady." He nodded, looking her up and down curiously.

"I'll get off there. Let me know when we come to it, please," said Sally, her troubled eyes on the windows with the darkness and the rain behind them.

It was perfectly clear to her all at once where she was going for that money!

Not to Aunt Emily, who would demand to know what that money was to be used for. Not to John Nye, who would probably lend it to her because of his affection for Millie.

Sally was not going to either of these people, but to Mr. Peevey! She had made up her mind to go to him, almost without thinking. It just seemed to her that some inner voice had suggested him to her as her "best bet" in this terrible trouble that had swooped down upon her like a hawk upon some helpless prey. Afterward it seemed to her that the thought of him had been a direct answer to prayer.

Every now and then we poor struggling human things do something without quite knowing why we do it. Afterward, when it turns out to be the very thing we should have done, we give all the credit to Luck or Chance.

"It was just Fate," we say. . . . But really wasn't it God? Who knows?

At any rate that night Sally Jerome had an odd feeling that she was doing something that she had done before when she knocked on the door of Mr. Peevey's tall dark house on E. Eighty-fifth street.

Her heart beat wildly as she did it. Mr. Peevey was always so cross when his lunch was late that she could imagine how furious he would be if he were rudely wakened from his sleep.

She waited for a minute, and then rang again. Almost at once a light flashed on within the house, and through the glass pane in the door Sally could see Mr. Peevey coming down the stairs.

He was in a red bath-robe and his thin hair stood up all over his small head. He looked positively murderous.

"Yeh? Who's there?" he asked, sharply, opening the door a tiny crack and putting one eye to it, as if he expected nothing less than a burglar or a cut-throat at that hour of the night.

"It's Sally Jerome." The girl's clear voice came out of the darkness bravely. "I've come to you for help, Mr. Peevey."

At that he opened the door, and she stepped into the warmth of the hall, blinking a little in the light.

"I want a hundred dollars—now—tonight," she said, and it seemed to her that she could say no more.

Her courage suddenly had deserted her and left her weak and horror-stricken. . . . Why, what crazy thing was this she was doing? Coming to Mr. Peevey, of all people, for money! . . . Why hadn't she gone to Aunt Emily? Surely Aunt Emily would have lent her the money rather than see Beau turned over to the police! . . . And anyway, why couldn't she have thrown herself on Ted Sloan's mercy; begged him to give Beau the chance to make good his bad check?

"Peevey'll never part with a dollar of his without getting the whole miserable story," she thought, and she knew she never could tell it to him. Never!

"A hundred dollars," he was saying now, and his voice was oddly gentle. He stood looking at her, with his head on one side, a grotesque little figure in his long red robe.

His old eyes took her in; took in the white face, the drooping mouth, the look of downright misery in the blue eyes that usually were so full of the joy of living. He saw that something had gone all wrong with Sally.

"Why, yes, I guess I've got that much money in the house," he said, quietly. "How will you pay it back? Two dollars a week?" He looked after his own interests even when he was being a good Samaritan.

"I'll pay it back any way you want it back!" cried Sally. "Only let me have it——" He started up the stairs while she was still talking to him.

It came to her again, as she stood there waiting for him to come back, that she had lived through this scene before. It seemed to her that she had known all along that this would happen—that somehow or other he would make everything right if only she went to him. Her courage came back to her in a rush.

But when he had counted out five $20 bills into her hand, and she was out in the noisy darkness once more, it all seemed like a dream.

"I don't know why I went to him. I must have been crazy!" she said to herself. "And he certainly must have been out of his mind to lend it to me—without even asking why I wanted it—without even the scratch of a pen to show that I had it from him!"

Months later she understood just why he had let her have it. But not then.

Feeling as if some miracle had happened to her, she reached home and unlocked the door of the flat.

The living room was in darkness, but from the rear hall came a dim shaft of light.

As Sally entered the dining room she could see Beau standing at the telephone. He was saying something that she could not make out. Then, as he saw her, he banged the receiver down upon its hook and came toward her.

"Come on in here! I want to talk to you," he whispered, hoarsely, and Sally turned back into the living room and switched on a lamp.

"Sit down," Beau went on, in that same hoarse whisper, and she dropped down into a chair.

In the light she could see that his blue eyes had a wild look in them, and there were sharp little lines that went from his nose to the corners of his mouth. Beau looked 10 years older than he ever had before, in all his lazy, happy-go-lucky young life.

"Listen, Sally," he said, not looking at her, "I'm in a heck of a mess!—I've got to have some money, and I've got to have it quick!"

He shook a cigarette from a dirty little paper packet and pasted it on his lower lip. While he was lighting it, Sally spoke to him.

"Beau, I've known you were in trouble," she began, and opened her handbag with cold, stiff fingers. "I've been so worried—"

"Yes, and you'd just better be worried," he took her up, "because I'm just about two inches this side of the county jail. Now, listen, this is what I did——"

"I know what you did! I know all about it!" Sally interrupted him eagerly, "and tonight I promised Ted Sloan you'd give him back that hundred and ten dollars!—Here it is. You take it right downstairs to him! Never mind if you have to get him out of bed. Just give it to him—that's all!" She began to cry now that everything was settled and Beau was out of danger.

To Be Continued.

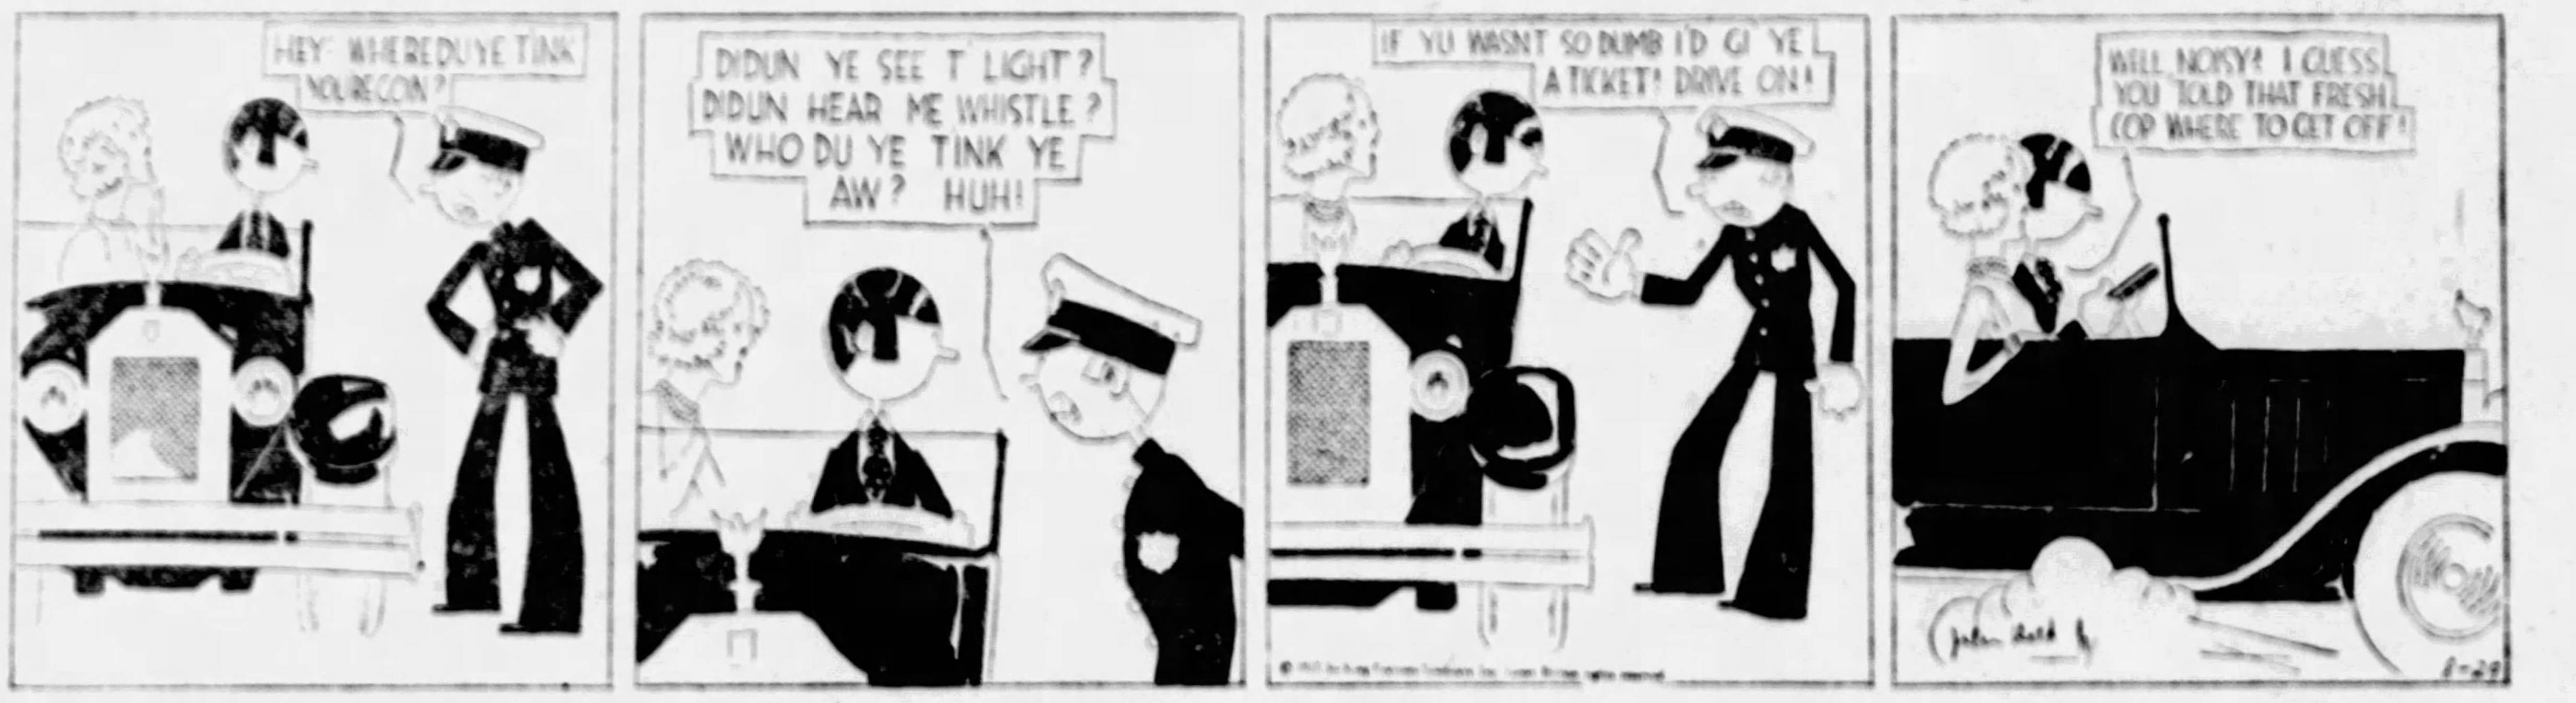
Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.



HEY! WHERE DU YE TINK YOU'RE GOIN'?
DIDUN YE SEE T' LIGHT? DIDUN HEAR ME WHISTLE? WHO DU YE TINK YE AW? HUH!
IF YU WASN'T SO DUMB I'D GI' YE A TICKET! DRIVE ON!
WELL, NOISY! I GUESS YOU TOLD THAT FRESH COP WHERE TO GET OFF!
John Held Jr.
8-29

"My dear, I simply must tell you about the FUNniest experience I had with NOIsy in his FLIVver. You know how sort of VAGUEly he DRIVES, my dear. Well, ANYways, we were dashing MADly home from the POlo match the other day and you know that COP who always SMILES at me on the CORner there by the DRUG store where you turn LEFT to come into town from the COUNtry club? Well, my dear, he wasn't SMIling at me on this occasion because NOIsy was trying to light his PIPE as usual, my dear, and the Car was sort of WANDering round all over creAtion and we ran through a TRAFfic light—can you BEAR it? Well, my dear, this COP whistled VIolently, but NOIsy kept right on without paying the SLIGHTest attention, because I mean he WOULD, my dear—he's just the TYPE! So I had to simply SCREAM at him to get him to STOP, and when this COP came up to us he was practically ready to ROLL over and BUTter himself with RAGE and I mean he BAWLED Noisy OUT something awful, my dear, and I was SIMply FUrious because I have practically ALways been awfully SWEET about SMIling at him but it didn't seem to make the SLIGHTest DIFference because he just CONcentrated on NOIsy and ignored ME completely. But NOIsy, my dear, was SIMply MARvelous because he didn't say a WORD when this cop bawled him out, so the cop was comPLETEly BAFfled and just told him to drive ON—can you BEAR it, my dear?"

MILADY BEAUTIFUL

By LOIS LEEDS

Grooming the Eyebrows.

DEAR MISS LEEDS—(1) Does the practice of putting grease on the eyelids encourage growth of hairs? (2) Does brushing unruly eyebrows increase their growth and thickness? (3) Do large hats make tall people look taller?

EIGHTEEN.

Answer—(1) Putting vaseline or oil on the eyebrows encourages their growth if the practice is kept up long enough. It usually takes several months to bring results with a daily application of the grease. The eyelids are naturally free from noticeable hairs, so that the use of a food cream or grease paint on them will not grow hairs. (2) Thick eyebrows may be thinned by plucking the straggling hairs around the edges, especially the lower edge. Regular brushing may stimulate their growth somewhat, but it is necessary to shape them into a graceful arch with the eyebrow brush. Brush the lower hairs upward and the upper ones downward so that they meet in a neat line through the middle of the eyebrows. (3) Hats with large, drooping brims tend to make the wearer look shorter; hats with high crowns add to one's apparent height.

Blackheads and Pimples.

Dear Miss Leeds—(1) What can I do to get rid of pimples on my back and shoulders? (2) How can I correct enlarged pores and blackheads on my face? (3) Are high heels or low heels more becoming to a person who is bow-legged? (4) I am 20 years old, 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 118 pounds. Is that the average weight?

PEGGY.

Answer—(1) For a local treatment, cleanse the skin thoroughly with soap and water every night, rinse well and then bathe the parts in boric-acid solution. Allow this lotion to dry on the skin and then rub in an acne salve. Here is a recipe for such a salve: One-half dram ichthyol, one dram zinc oxide, one dram starch, one and one-half drams petrolatum. You must also watch your diet. Omit candy, pastries and heavy fried foods. Eat plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables. Drink orange juice freely. Do not eat meat more than once a day. Avoid constipation. Every morning take a stimulating cold or tepid bath followed by a brisk rubdown with a coarse towel. (2) Please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet on "Complexion Ills" that gives treatment for your skin condition in detail. (3) Low heels are best in your case. (4) Your weight is good for your age and height.

Artificial Dimples.

Dear Miss Leeds—Some time ago while reading your beauty aids I noticed a way you prescribed for making dimples which would stay in for about a day. Will you please print the method again?

ENVIOUS OF DIMPLES.

Answer—I think it must have been some other writer who gave directions for making dimples or else there was a misprint in my column, as I do not recommend artificial dimples. A cosmetic surgeon could make a permanent dimple for you by cutting the cheek in a certain way. Do not try to make a dent in your cheek, since to do so is likely to set up an irritation that may lead to the formation of a pimple or something worse.

Horoscope

GOOD and evil planetary influences contend today, according to astrologers, who find certain adverse aspects strong.

This is a day favorable to enterprising efforts of many sorts and should be favorable to merchants and traveling men.

There is a good sign for all who begin long journeys, for they will benefit through acquisition of knowledge.

They who travel under this auspicious rule will do well not to seek transportation in the air.

There is a sign read as presaging a serious airplane accident that could not be avoided, but nevertheless causes unusual comment.

Deception may be rather easy today and for this reason special bargains are to be studied carefully.

Among the many reform campaigns visioned by the seers is one to bring back the old reverence for the truth and the whole truth.

Watchfulness of speech now will be often recommended by those who take serious account of modern carelessness regarding the use of words.

All the signs appear to promise for the world reactions that assure return to high standards of living. As the new era advances the seers point out that the post-war period will be recognized as a time of real growth and lasting progress.

According to the new Moon of this week there may be danger of fevers and even cholera. Sanitary measures should not be relaxed in any way.

Appendicitis, also, is indicated as likely to be greatly on the increase in the early autumn.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year in which financial worries become imaginary as well as real.

Children born on this day are likely to be inclined to intellectual pursuits, rather psychic and able to triumph over all sorts of difficulties.

Lemon Sponge Pie.

Cream together one cup white sugar and butter half as large as egg. Add two teaspoons flour, pinch salt, juice and grated rind one lemon, two well-beaten egg yolks, one cup sweet milk and lastly well-beaten whites two eggs. Bake in one crust. It makes a sponge cake on top and lemon jelly on bottom.

WHAT'S the ANSWER?

1. What is a mandrake?
2. Why was the Great Wall of China built?
3. Why is a man stronger than a woman?
4. Who was the Old Man of the Mountain?
5. What is a Utopia?
6. Who was Mother Goose?
7. How do arteries differ from veins?
8. Why was Venice built where it is?
9. What is a Madonna?
10. How did the thimble get its name?

The answers to these questions may be found in tomorrow's paper.

Here are the answers to Saturday's questions:

1. Thrall is an old Anglo-Saxon word meaning a servant or a slave.
2. Jean Louis Meissonier (1815-1891) was a French painter who was famous for the detail work of his pictures.
3. The first man who held the title of President of the United States was John Hanson (1715-1786), who was first president of the first Congress of the Confederation. His title was President of the United States.
4. In Australia the rabbit is a pest. It was brought over by some of the early colonists, and it multiplied so rapidly because of the lack of a winter spell that it nearly did away with the sheep in Australia, since sheep dislike pastures over which it has passed.
5. Geoffrey Chaucer was the first poet laureate of England, under Edward III.
6. John Huss (1369-1415) was a Bohemian reformer and preacher. He was condemned by the Council of Constance and burned as a heretic.
7. In England, in 1815, a rotten borough was one which returned members to the House of Commons presumably by election, either by the members of the council or by voters. But the voters were so few that elections were easily influenced, and this made it possible for a member of the House of Lords to have representatives sitting in the other house.
8. A bluestocking is a learned or literary woman, especially if pedantic or undomestic.
9. Matoaka is another name for Pocahontas.
10. Pennsylvania is named in honor of Admiral Penn, the father of William Penn, who colonized it in 1682. The name means "Penn's Woods."

Swiss Cheese Sandwiches.

Mix three tablespoonfuls of grated Swiss cheese with a tablespoonful of a well seasoned mixed mustard. Add a teaspoonful of onion juice and a half a saltspoonful of paprika. When smooth spread on lightly buttered whole wheat or rye bread. This quantity should make four sandwiches.

Graham Muffins.

Mix and sift together 4 cups graham flour, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 4 level teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Beat 1 egg until light, add 2 cups sweet milk and stir gradually into dry mixture. Beat thoroughly, half fill buttered muffin tins, and bake in hot oven about 20 minutes.

For the Lovelorn

By ELEANOR GALE

Another Broken-Hearted

Dear Miss Gale:

May I enter your lovelorn column? I have been a constant reader of your column ever since I found what love really meant. I am a girl 19 years of age, am through high school and, of course, at that age am able to use my own mind. Miss Gale, three months ago I did not ever think of having to come to you for any advice, but now since you have mended many a broken heart I thought I would let you help mend mine also.

Now, Miss Gale, here is my trouble. I had been going with a boy for over a year and he was two months older than myself. Several months ago he dismissed me and never did come to call on me again. He left me without any explanation whatever. The next week I passed him on the street but made no effort to speak to him, as I thought that he had played me too dirty. Now, we have not spoken to this day. He lied to me very deeply, Miss Gale, but nevertheless I love him just the same. He has told me that he loved me and cared for me and would not go with another girl in this town, but if I ever would quit him he would get some one out of the town. Now, Miss Gale, I love him so much, think of him day and night and often cry over the thoughts of how he left me. I pass him so much on the street, Miss Gale, and do not know whether to speak or not, and I think he is in the same boat. Now what should I do the next time I pass him face to face? I said that I would not give in to him first this time as this is the fifth time that we have quit going together. The last four times he came back with my coaxing and letter writing. He told me that if I would not have written to him or called him up he would think that I did not care for him any longer. Another thing, Miss Gale, this boy friend has quit speaking to me also. Miss Gale, he always treated me wonderful and respected me. He was very much jealous of me. What shall I do? Do you think he is ashamed of himself for lying, as he knows that I know he lied to me.

Miss Gale, I agree with you on the petting, smoking and drinking questions, and also those every-night dancing babies or shebas, if that's what you would like to call them. I see no harm in a good night kiss from your steady if you let him be the only one, do you, Miss Gale? Since we do not go together I have been out with three different fellows and because they would insist upon kissing "the evening away" I left them as flat as a pancake. How can some of these young girls go out with a different fellow every night and let them kiss them? They are not respected in the least and their youth would simply be ruined, to a respectable fellow's point of view. Do they not realize that by this old saying, "There are better fish to be caught in the pond," that they could get a respectable, up-to-date, nice young man who also respect a lady?

I hope that I have not taken up too much of your precious time, Miss Gale, and hope that my luck soon changes [illegible] you have given your advice.

Thanking you for the space and wish you oceans and oceans of luck in this great world, I am,

ANOTHER BROKEN HEART.

I think the best thing for you to do is to keep out of this boy's way entirely. If he lies to you and deceives you now, what could you expect if you married him? Don't lower your pride again by urging him to return. You are much better off without him.

Peel Off Freckles, Tan or Sunburn
Summer sun and winds cause tan, sunburn, discolorations and other skin troubles, which spoil a normally good complexion. When used as directed, a little pure mercolized wax, procurable wherever superior toiletries are sold, will peel off the skin, without discomfort, a little each day until freckles, tan, liver spots, large pores, and all blemishes vanish. The under skin will appear clear, smooth and white, with that look of radiant freshness that every woman can have. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty.

Married Life of Helen and Warren

HELEN'S OVER-POLITE EFFUSIONS PENALIZED BY THEIR CAUSTIC GUEST.

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

"WHAT'S her name, anyway?" Warren jerked his tie into an [illegible] bow.

"Gilman—something like that. Wait, I'll get the letter."

Darting into the library Helen rummaged through the desk. A thin foreign envelope:

". . . my sister-in-law, Miss Gillam, will be in New York for 10 days. As this is her first trip, anything you can do for her I will greatly appreciate . . ."

"It's Gillam. Dear, try not to forget—you're awful on names."

"Randall's got his nerve—always shipping somebody on us. His niece last year—what a pill she was! But this one's worse. I'm fed up with his relatives."

"But he's your friend—you must be nice to her," picking up his clothes.

"Well, steer her into your room after dinner," vigorously plying his brushes. "Don't feel up to entertaining anybody tonight."

"It's after 7 now," worried Helen, now at the window. "I hope she has the address right."

Light-twinkling taxis—but all speeding by.

"Why in blazes didn't you have her for lunch—or a matinee? That would let me out. Always ring 'em in for dinner."

"Dear, don't look so grouchy! You must be civil. She'll do the talking—the English always do. There she is now," as the bell rang.

"What's that name?" shrugging into his dinner coat. "Gilmore?"

"Gillam, dear, Gillam. Say it! Now do try to remember."

The next moment Helen was receiving a tall, imposing Englishwoman.

A green velvet wrap over her beaded gown. Pearl-tasseled earrings, several ropes of near-pearls, the usual profusion of bracelets. Only the English could wear so much jewelry with distinction.

"I do hope I'm not dreadfully late?" dropping her wrap. "Your traffic—how does one ever get anywhere? London is crowded—but nothing like this!"

"Yes, New York is very congested. Would you like powder?" Helen opened her dressing table drawer.

"No, thank you. American women use cosmetics so much, don't they?"

Every English remark ends with a question, but an answer seldom expected.

Out in the library now. Introducing Warren.

"Mr. Randall has spoken of you so often—I feel I know you," clinking bracelets as she sank into a chair.

"Yes, we always see a good deal of Randall in London. How is he?" crushing his cigar in the ash-tray. "When's he coming over?"

"Dinner's served," interrupted Katie from the doorway.

Helen's glow of pride as they entered the dining room. The table never more attractive. The new old-gold candle shades most flattering.

"Might I have a glass without ice? How you Americans drink ice water! Isn't it very bad for you? Oh, thank you. Your restaurants—the first thing they give you! Even in my hotel room—fancy, a tap of iced water!"

"So you're staying only 10 days? Seems hardly worth the trip."

"Quite long enough—in this noise and rush! Don't you find it nerve-racking?"

"Too rare for you, Miss—Gilmore?" blundered Warren, when he carved the roast.

"Gillam," frigidly. "Yes, rather. That outside piece will do nicely."

"Have you been in any of our shops?" Helen offered the celery.

"Yes, you have some beautiful shops," condescendingly. "But I find everything dreadfully high! Thank you. Your shop-girls look so smart. But on the street—such unsuitable costumes! Evening gowns, really!"

"You're dead right there!" exploded Warren. "Way some of these Dumb Doras doll up to go to work! Might be straight from last night's party. Mouths like raw meat—and their mugs caked with calsomine. Wouldn't have 'em in my office."

"Their mugs?" Miss Gillam's eyebrows raised.

"Mr. Curtis will use the most awful slang," apologized Helen, passing the olives. "He means their faces."

"Ah, yes, your American slang. I find it quite unintelligible," with argument-forbidding finality.

When the conversation lagged, Helen prodded it on with the stock lead.

"How do our skyscrapers impress you?"

"Terrific! I hope we never have them in London! No wonder your streets are congested! I saw the crowd pouring from one of those huge towers—like a mob!"

All through dinner, and afterwards in the library, Miss Gillam voiced a continual flow of criticism—America in general and New York in particular.

Her caustic observations her own? Or culled from other English visitors? It all sounded so familiar.

Now denouncing hotel prices, Helen goaded to retaliation.

"Our rates may be high, but they're inclusive. We take furnished chambers in London, and pay for service—yet the extras! Last year they charged us for chimney cleaning. Always window washing, brass polish and floor wax—and even paper to line the drawers!"

"Well, you only pay for what you have. Here one doesn't know what one's paying for. But you Americans are all so wealthy—it doesn't matter. Thank you," taking a cigaret from Warren's proffered case. "But we're taxed so heavily for the war debt—our money comes over here—"

Absurd to feel resentful. Nothing personal in all this. Just the usual British attitude.

And they were fine in so many ways. Honest, straightforward. Good to animals—Helen modified as she thought of that. Most of the humane societies started in England.

Trying for a safe subject. To reach Warren, steering the conversation to her beloved antiques. The [illegible] Rag Market things she had bought there.

"Every Friday, isn't it? Caledonia Road? No, I've never been out that way. You Americans are so enterprising how you dash about London. Places we never think of going," an irritating note of superiority.

"I found this there." Helen took an ivory silhouette from the mantel. "Oh, I'm afraid that's dusty—Katie's getting so careless."

"How do you keep anything clean? London's spotless compared to New York. No wonder every other shop's a dry cleaner! And the streets! You have dustmen? One would never think it. And I thought Americans were so particular!"

"At least our restaurants are clean," defended Helen. "And our dining cars the cleanest in the world. Perhaps I shouldn't say so—but in Europe they're just filthy! We try never to eat in them."

"Oh, indeed? You're thinking of continental trains, of course."

"English trains, too," flushed but determined. "I don't think English restaurants are so clean, either. Certainly the lunchrooms aren't."

"Indeed?" with mounting eyebrows. "Really, I don't patronize lunchrooms."

"You needn't to see they're dirty," flamed Helen. "And that awful odor of cheap grease you get all over London—"

"Here, don't start on that!" Warren reached for the ash-tray. "That's Mrs. Curtis' obsession, Miss Gilbert. She expects everything cooked in butter. The governor's talking tonight—see if he's on. No, too late."

"I'll try, anyway," Helen turned to the radio, eager for this diversion.

". . . I'm the Lord High Executioner, . . ."

The Mikado. For the next half hour entertained by Gilbert and Sullivan. English! Exempt from Miss Gillam's criticism.

Almost 11. Helen tense, exhausted.

Would she never go? Why staying so late? More critical views to air?

The hall clock striking. Helen concentrating on each stroke. Trying mental coercion. Willing her to go!

But it didn't work! Now dilating on her rough trip over.

". . . still ill when I landed. But your inspectors kept me on that awful dock two hours! Fancy that! Everything torn out of my trunk. Really, so rude!"

Helen watching the clock more openly. The sole entertainer now, Warren rudely evading responsibility behind his paper.

"Are you sleepy, too?" at a pink-mouthed yawn from Pussy Purr-Mew.

But even this crude hint failed to register.

Past 11 before Miss Gillam finally glanced at her bulbous wrist-watch.

"Perhaps the streets won't be so crowded now. Would you call a taxi?"

"I'll have the hall-boy get one," with alacrity. "That'll be quicker."

A brief wait. Helen, now fearing she had not been overcourteous, effusively tried to make amends.

"We've enjoyed having you so much! If there's anything we can do while you're here—do let us know!"

"That's very kind," drawing on her long gloves. "There's just one thing I should like— But I don't want to impose on you."

"Oh, not at all! We'll be very glad indeed," gushed Helen.

"I've heard so much about your Harlem night clubs. Slumming, I fancy you'd call it. But really, I'm frightfully keen to see one."

"A Harlem night club?" brusqued Warren. "Never been ourselves."

"Oh, an experience for you, too? Of course, if you'd really rather not—"

"No, no, we'd love to go!" Helen felt she must atone for his curtness.

"You're free Saturday? Splendid! You'll call for me at the hotel? About 11, then. Awfully nice of you!"

Seeing her to the elevator. Holding a fixed smile till the car shot down.

"Galloping goldfish!" exploded Warren. "Why in blazes d'you let us in for that?"

"I didn't dream she'd take me up! I was just trying to be nice—I felt we hadn't been—"

"A Harlem night club! And tote around that frost! What's her idea, anyway—something more to pan?"

"Dear, I could scream!" dropping limply on the couch. "I was just being polite—but I always have to pay for it—"

"Because you're so darn hypocritical," getting out his pipe. "Spilling a lot of slush you don't mean! Always slather it on for the exit. Serves you right when they call your bluff. But why ring me in? Why must I be stung? Too late now to turn down this nervy dame—but never again! No more gushing me into any rubber-necking parties!"

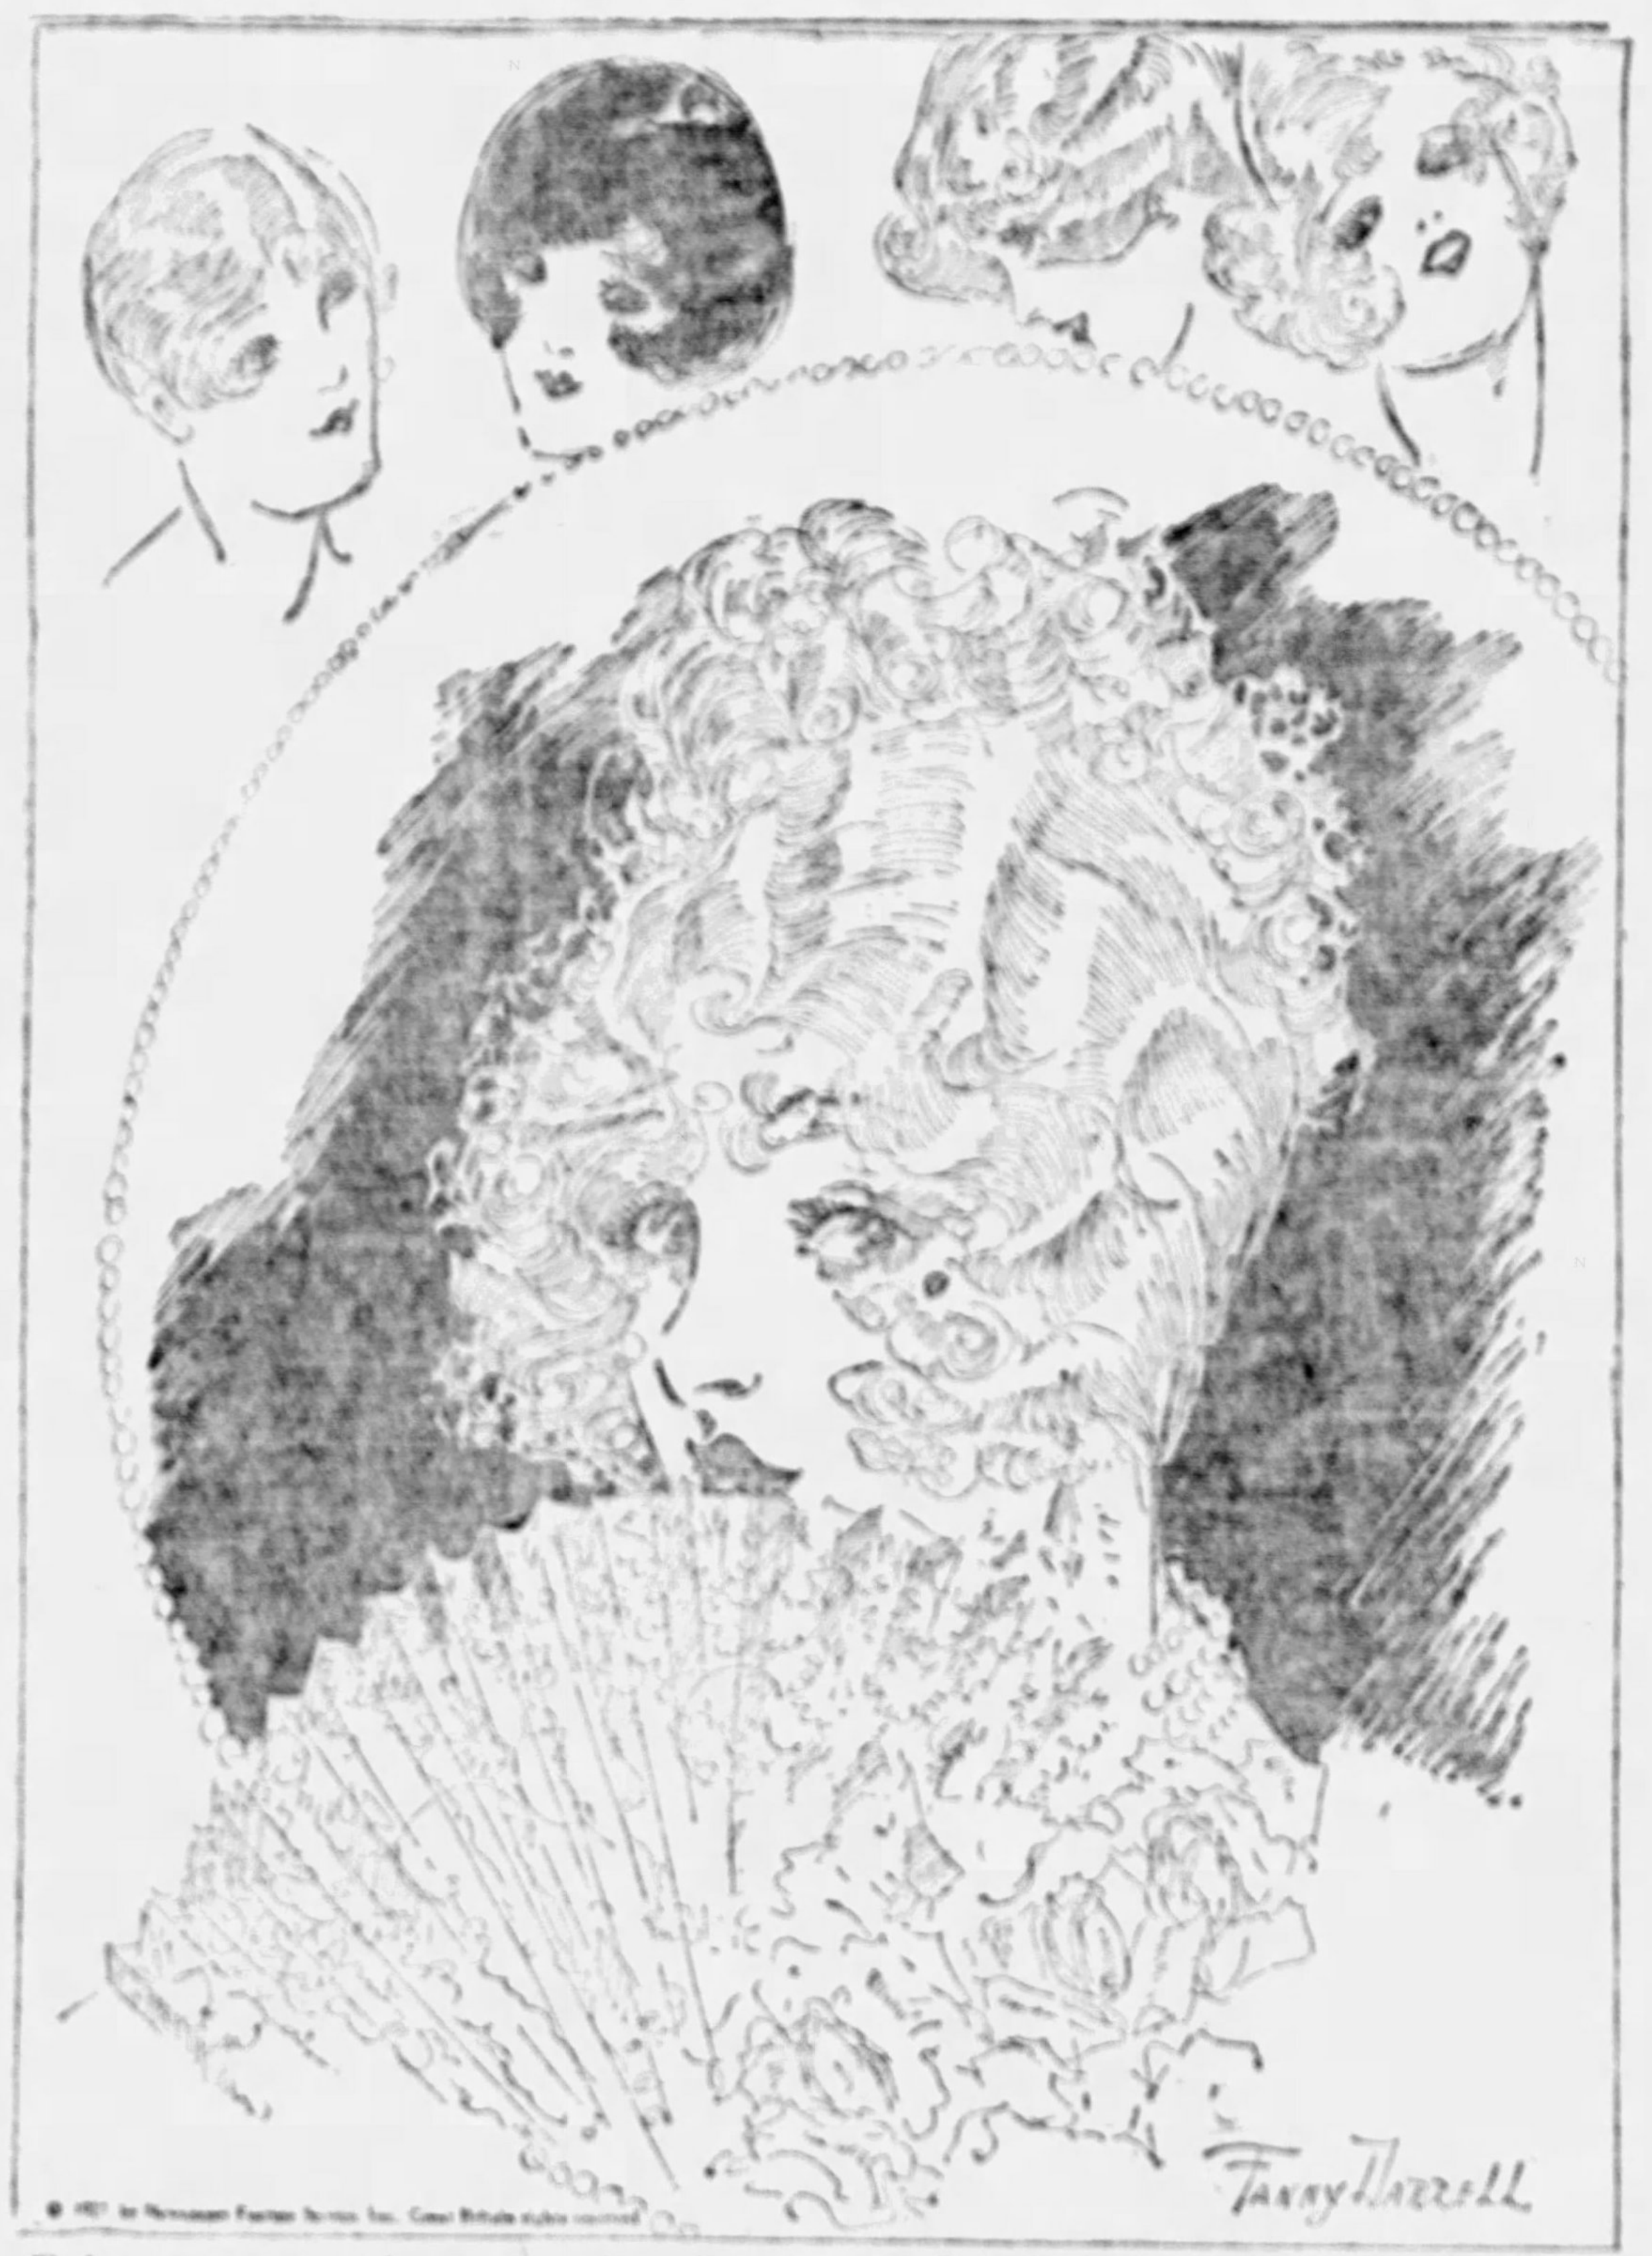
Forgotten Foibles -:- By Fanny Darrell



IT does not seem so long ago and yet how many of us can remember? In these days of the sleek silhouette, abbreviated skirt and freedom of thought and expression, the artifices of yesterday seem remote indeed. The girl of today may devote as much time to the selection of her raiment, but her methods of enchantment have undergone a radical change.

Recall the elaborate coiffure of those days! How many hours were spent before the mirror to capture each stray tendril of escaping locks! Forgotten are the devices employed by the coquette of not-so-long-ago. The pretty lace fan so skillfully manipulated by lily-white hands, the alluring beauty spot, the lace handkerchief, all are but memories now.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland, M.D.

U.S. Senator from New York

HANDLING THE BABY DURING FIRST YEAR.

GROWN people resort to all sorts of devices to give themselves exercise. They play golf, tennis and croquet. They walk and run and swim. They ride horseback, go to the gymnasium, and give themselves all sorts of calisthenics and "exercise."

DR. COPELAND

A baby must have physical exercise. It will get it all by itself if given half a chance. After the quiet of the first few weeks of life, it begins its performances to make the muscles hard.

Put the baby on a sheet on the floor and watch it. You will be delighted with its maneuvers. It will kick its legs, throw its arms about and give you a fine demonstration of perpetual motion.

Do you know how to handle a baby? You must bear in mind that it is a frail piece of humanity. You can't handle it as you would a pillow or a bag of wheat.

The spine is weak. The bones and muscles are frail. In lifting it, use the clothing as a means of raising the body from the crib. Then slip one hand under the back to support that tender spinal column.

Don't grab the baby around the chest. Don't lift it by putting the hands under the arms, as an older child may be raised. A pillow or your arm should support its back.

Take pains to support the head, too. The neck muscles are not ready to hold the head. Harm may be done by rough and careless handling.

It is cruel the way some babies are wrapped up and smothered in the heap of unnecessary clothing. You would think an Egyptian mummy was being embalmed, the way some youngsters are wrapped.

In warm weather, or in a warm room, it is safe and wise to place the infant on a sheet on the floor, or on a wide sofa. Strip off all the clothing and let the baby kick and squirm to its heart's content.

The youngster will develop its own muscles if given a chance. No manner of dressing is correct unless it has this chance.

Bear in mind that a baby must have exercise, fresh air, sunlight, proper food and plenty of sleep, just as an adult must have. You can't tuck a baby into an airless, cheerless place and have it thrive. It just won't!

My plea today is for untrammeled limbs and freedom to use its muscles. Encourage the baby to kick and jump and coo. By doing so you are promoting its chance to be strong and long-lived.

Quicksands of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

A New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

NEVER has my spirit felt so menaced by something mysterious, impalpable as when I lay in my room waiting for the hot tea I had asked Katie to make in lieu of other breakfast because of my headache—the excuse I had given her for not eating my usual meal. The thought of even the tea was repugnant to me, but I knew Katie's loving fussiness too well to refuse all nourishment. Drinking the tea would satisfy her for awhile, and I desired nothing so much as to be left absolutely alone.

It seemed to me that I was in the center of a lighted circle where I could be seen plainly, but outside of which I could distinguish nothing. And I felt almost as if I could hear the swish of something more terrible than I ever had known creeping around that circle, watching me, waiting its own horrible time to leap upon me.

I choked down the tea when Katie had brought it, and directed her not to distrub me until I should summon her again.

"Tell Mrs. Bickett and Miss Mary that I was kept awake by a headache last night, and am trying to get some rest this morning."

"All right, I fexx." She sounded her usual slogan and vanished, and I resumed my weary round of terrified speculation as to the reason for my husband's incomprehensible behavior. Nothing so trivial as a motor ride with Philip Veritzen was responsible for his deadly wrath. I knew that. But I had no clue to what really was infuriating him, except that I felt Edith Fairfax was somewhere concerned in it.

At last, exhausted with my vigil, I fell asleep, and when I awoke several hours afterward physically refreshed, I summoned all the will power I possessed, and resolved to spend no more time or strength in agonizing over something I could not help. I looked back over my years of marriage, and tried to balance Dicky's accounts and mine, and while I found much to regret on my part, I could not honestly tell myself that I had cheated my husband in any way, while he—

But I would not linger upon that point. It was enough to have acquitted myself of blame, and I arose, dressed and went into the living room, finding Katherine with Junior and Mary there, for it was almost time for lunch. My little lad greeted me ecstatically, and the clasp of his arms steeled my determination to go on as if nothing had happened.

"Run and tell Katie mother will have luncheon with you," I said, and as he scampered off to the kitchenette, Katherine broke off a sympathetic inquiry as to my headache to laugh delightedly.

"That is what one might call a distinctly superfluous errand," she said. "Mary's mouth and mine have been watering for a half hour over the luncheon Katie is preparing because her poor Missis Graham have nottings but cup tea for breakfast. Your favorite bisque, warm biscuits, smothered chicken with cream gravy—we hope you'll have a headache soon again, don't we, Mary?"

Mary smiled in assent, but there was not the quick flashing merriment at any sally which always has made her face so attractive. Instead, there was a touch of weariness about it as if she smiled because she felt she must, rather than because of any real impulse to do so.

During the delicious luncheon which Katie served us a little later, I watched her furtively, decided that, while she was apparently well, she was more fatigued than she should be. I would be glad indeed, I reflected, when the summer should lighten her studies and I could take her down to the farm where the Braithwaites had promised to bring her young brothers. I meant to make her live the life of an athletic child during those months, and keep her out of doors constantly.

When Katherine and Junior, with Mary, had departed again for the walk which they always took after luncheon before escorting Mary to her French tutor, I settled down to work, resolutely putting my own problems and Mary's out of my mind and rejoicing in the prospect of an absolutely clear afternoon. But I had worked only an hour when Katie brought me a card on which I read the name, "Mr. Noel Veritzen."

Iced Coffee Dishes

CHILLED coffee dishes made from the left over breakfast coffee are delectable in warm weather, since they are both refreshing and slightly stimulating. An iced coffee shake may even be preferred to hot coffee for a breakfast drink on a hot, sultry morning.

For an individual glass place in a tall iced tea glass half a cup of very strong strained coffee and add sugar to taste, a pinch of ground cinnamon and a few drops of vanilla extract. Chill on the ice (over night) and in the morning fill the glass three-quarters full with chilled rich milk. Stir in half a cup of cracked ice and shake vigorously until it foams up. Top with a mound of sweetened whipped cream.

Iced coffee with orange is a novelty. To one quart of strong cold coffee add one cup of sweetened orange juice. Drop a tablespoonful of powdered ice in each glass and top with whipped cream.

Apple Charlotte

Pare, core and steam six large apples until tender; press through sieve, add juice and grated rind 1 lemon and sweeten to taste. Soften ¼ box gelatin in ½ cup cold water, place over boiling water until dissolved, then add to apples. Place dish in pan iced water, stir until mixture begins to thicken, fold in 1 pint whipped cream and turn into mold to harden. Serve with boiled custard sauce.

MEDITATIONS OF A MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

WHY MEN DON'T UNDERSTAND WOMEN.

One of the things that no man will ever understand "this side of Paradise" is the way in which a woman's mind works.

* * *

To him, its workings are as unfathomable as the channels of the Atlantic Ocean and as devious as the course of a mountain stream. Her thoughts do not flow according to any mariner's chart but dart, leap, double and interlace in a fascinating fashion that keeps him in a perpetual fog of bewilderment.

Helen Rowland.

No man can understand, for instance, why the sight of an innocent squirrel running up a tree in mid-August should remind a woman that he promised her a new fur coat for Christmas!

* * *

Or why the fragrance of fresh-cut lilacs should make her lean sentimentally on his arm and ask him if he still loves her as much as he did in their courting days.

Or why a field of goldenrod should remind her that she must get at the fall cleaning and decide on the new breakfast-room curtains.

Or why the toot of a distant tug-boat whistle should remind her that her imported perfume is all gone or that she needs a new Paris hat or that the Oriental rugs should go to the cleaners.

It is a deep, dark mystery to any man, why the sight of a lame beggar limping past should prompt his wife to ask him if he got his feet wet yesterday and when he is going to put on his woolens. Or why the faint sound of an asthmatic old gentleman coughing, next door, should inspire her to pull the covers up over her husband's shoulders, put her arm around his neck and wonder what on earth she'll DO if he should DIE!

* * *

Or why the shriek of a passing fire-engine should remind her that she forgot to put her best silver in the safety-vault or that it is almost time to renew the insurance on the furniture.

No man can understand why the fleeting glimpse of a tooth-powder poster depicting a fascinating blonde smiling up at an adoring young man should start his wife probing him about the new stenographer in his office and make her look distrait and thoughtful for the rest of the evening.

* * *

Or why the sight of a silk hat should remind her that he promised to get seats for the opera, this season. Or why the pie-throwing quarrel scene between husband and wife in a movie comedy should make her clutch his arm and kiss him on the chin under cover of the darkness.

* * *

The only sights, sounds and smells that stir a MAN'S imagination are those connected with the dinner-bell!

* * *

And naturally, he can never, never understand that a woman's imagination works on a hair-trigger and responds to the touch like a polo pony!

* * *

But that's the way women ARE!

Tempting Cheese Sauces

RICE, macaroni, toast, vegetables, croquettes and scallops can be made into interesting dishes, sufficiently hearty and satisfying for the summer menu, by serving them with a well-seasoned cheese sauce. Once a good cheese sauce is made, it may be varied in any of the ways mentioned below; and so may be served on many occasions, without need of further variety.

For a good cheese sauce use 4 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2 cups scalded milk, 1-3 to 1 cup cheese, few grains cayenne.

Melt fat in saucepan, add flour and salt, stir until smooth, add milk heated in double boiler and stir until sauce boils. Add cheese to suit the family taste, grated or put through the food chopper and a few grains cayenne, and place over hot water until cheese melts. Chicken stock may be used in place of all or part of the milk.

Select one of the following seasonings to give variety, depending upon the food the sauce is to be served with.

A teaspoon of anchovy sauce, 1 teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce, a few drops of onion juice, 1 teaspoon of prepared mustard, 1 cup finely cut celery, 1 finely chopped green pepper, 1 cup of finely cut sauted mushrooms, 1 cup chopped cold boiled or baked ham, 2 hard cooked eggs finely chopped, 1 cup cold cooked lima beans, 2 thin sausages sliced, 2 tablespoons tomato catsup.

The Sucker Game—An Expose of the Pari-Mutuel Betting System!

You can't beat the races, even with the "iron men," as the pari-mutuel machines in operation at many American tracks, are called. Frank G. Menke, veteran sports observer, tells you why in a series of four articles beginning in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph and entitled "The Sucker Game."

If you keep on playing, sooner or later all of your money will remain in the machines, as the legal "take" of the track operators.

And there is no way to be sure that you are getting a fair and honest deal, because there is no manner of really checking up on the men who declare the official odds after the race is run.

You'll be surprised and shocked when you read this astounding series of articles, especially if you have been in the habit of "playing the races" and hoping for a grand cleanup. You'll learn that the longer you play the less chance you have of breaking even.

You just simply can't beat the races. Read and be convinced through the articles

IF THE Pirates do not make a Garrison finish and fight their way to the front in the five weeks that remain of the National League pennant campaign, it will not be possible for them to attribute their failure to an unfavorable schedule.

There will be no room for an alibi in that direction, for as the remainder of the playing program shapes up it must be admitted to be decidedly favorable to Pittsburgh's chances.

Of course, there has got to be some real ball playing, too, a much better grade than the Bucs have been delivering in recent weeks on the whole, but if the Bushmen only come through on that score—and with something like $6,000 each looming up ahead of them as an extra inducement, there is no good reason in the world why they should not—the schedule conditions promise to be of no little help to them in making their final drive a successful one.

TO begin with, approximately two-thirds of Pittsburgh's remaining games will be played on the home grounds. The Corsairs still have 37 contests to be decided, and of that number no fewer than 25 are booked for Forbes Field against only 12 on foreign loam. Four games are to be decided in Philadelphia, four in Chicago and four in Cincinnati, but all the rest will be staged at Forbes Field.

The make-up of the slate offers another advantage in the fact that in the great majority of their engagements the Pirates will have the weaker clubs of the league as opponents. This is shown by the fact that of their total of 37 remaining events, only 11 are scheduled against first division clubs. This number is made up of five against Chicago, two against St. Louis and four against New York.

THE other side of the book shows 26 games to be played against the teams of the second division. Cincinnati is to be met eight times, Philadelphia seven times, Boston six times and Brooklyn five times.

So, with only 11 games to be played against the teams of the first division, and 26 against the weaker outfits of the second flight, the Forbes Field ballers certainly could not ask for more favorable conditions under which to make their last spurt for the peak.

THE lateral pass is going to help football not a little this year, in the opinion of Hugo Bezdek, Penn State coach, who leaves for State College today after spending a few days with friends in Pittsburgh.

"The fact that the ball will not be lost if the pass is not successful will encourage all teams to try this play frequently," said the Blue and White mentor, "and the result will be a more open game that will make the outcome of a contest more uncertain and add largely to the enjoyment afforded the spectators."

Bezdek, by the way, is entitled to much credit for the bringing about of the popular changes in the gridiron rules, particularly that which prohibits a run being made by a player on the opposing side when he recovers a ball on certain fumbles.

"Five years ago at a meeting of coaches in New York I suggested that it was unfair to allow a run after a fumbled kick, for instance, had been recovered by a player on the other side," said "Bez." "They only laughed at me then, but they have finally come to see the unfairness of the thing and have ruled it out.

"Under the old system, it actually meant two penalties for the team that fumbled. That team not only lost the ball, but the other side was allowed to make a run in addition, perhaps a long run for a score.

"A single penalty, the loss of the ball alone, is sufficient, and I am glad that the rule-makers have finally come to view the matter in that light, and have changed the rules accordingly."

THE Penn State coach also predicts that the day is coming when first downs and amount of ground gained will be given a scoring value, even if the ball is not carried across the line for a touchdown.

"It isn't fair to ignore the yardage gained if no touchdown is made, as at present," Hugo declared. "I recall a game between Michigan and Minnesota in which Minnesota made 19 first downs to Michigan's two. Minnesota made a touchdown but missed the goal kick for extra point. Michigan later managed to get the ball on a fumble, scored a touchdown and then kicked goal, winning the game by a score of 7 to 6 though outplayed at every point.

"First down and yardage gained should have a scoring value and some day they will get it."

MAJOR LEAGUE SCOUTS ARE LOOKING HIM OVER

Bobby Crookshank of the Cathedral Chapel team, which recently sent young Regis Lehney, a left-hander, up to the Pirates for a trial. Crookshank last week turned in his second no-hit game of the season, against the Fellenbaums of Braddock. Before that the Greenfield Semi-pros failed to register a safety off his delivery. He defeated the latter team again yesterday. Bobby has a good fast ball and a sharp-breaking curve. He is a product of the Hazelwood sandlots and one of the most promising young pitchers of the last few years in the Pittsburgh district. Scouts for several major league clubs have looked him over recently.

Bobby Proves Himself King

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 29.—(AP.)—The incomparable Bobby Jones today may gaze upon the world of golf and view but little left for him to conquer. Having won his third national amateur title at Minikahda Saturday, Jones has only one major title to acquire—the British amateur—and three major American golfing records to equal.

Bobby has yet to win one more United States amateur title to tie Jerome Travers' mark, and he must capture the American amateur and open championships in the same year to equal Chick Evans' achievement. In addition, Evans holds another golfing mark which Jones has yet to tie—a low of 286 to win the national open.

JUST A "KID" AT 25.

It was on Minikahda's famous links that Evans, in record pace, won the national open in 1916 with 286 strokes, and for 11 years the course had been content with the golf it had produced. But along came the young man, who at 25 years of age, is generally acclaimed the premier golfer of the world, having just won the British open with a record score of 285.

This sturdy southerner displayed such scintillating golf that he not only set a course record of 67 in the second medal round over the 6,669 yards of rugged golfing ground, but he eliminated by golf, almost, if not quite so good, by wide margins such veteran stars as Jimmy Johnston, of Minikahda; Francis Ouimet, of Boston, and Chick Evans himself in the final round Saturday 8 and 7.

In defeating Evans, the reinstated champion duplicated his record of 31-36—67 for Minikahda, while par is 35-37—72. He was not so fast in the second round. But, having gained a lead of 6 up in the first circuit, was able to increase that advantage to 7 up at the twenty-seventh hole, although Evans, displaying for a time the golf of 1916, cut the lead to 4 up with a birdie on the twenty-third hole.

Ruth Increases Lead Over Gehrig to Two Homers

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(INS.)—Babe Ruth is two up on Buster Gehrig today in their home run duel, this being the greatest advantage enjoyed by either slugger in some time. The Babe's forty-second homer yesterday was his second in two days. He is traveling at a faster pace than Gehrig, but is six behind his record of 1921, when he walloped 59.

Ruth's homer yesterday was his only hit. Gehrig got two bingles, both were singles.

NEHF RELEASED BY REDS

CINCINNATI, Aug. 29.—(AP.)—Artie Nehf, southpaw pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds, was telegraphed in Boston, today, notice of his unconditional release to the club by President August Hermann. Before coming to the Reds, two years ago, Nehf had previously pitched for the New York Giants and Boston Braves.

SKIBOS BEGIN GRID WORK

Carnegie Tech pried off the lid of its football campaign this afternoon when a squad of 35 to 40 promising candidates, augmented by the presence of 11 lettermen from last season's varsity squad, began training under the watchful eye of Coach Wally Steffen, who arrived early today from Chicago to send the Skibos through their initial drill.

The Tartans are the second of Pittsburgh's higher schools of learning to inaugurate football training, the Duquesne University squad having been called out last Thursday by Coach Elmer Layden, former Notre Dame star, who is making his debut as the Bluff mentor.

Next week will find all of Pittsburgh's schools in active training for the first time this year, the Pitt Panthers leaving for their football camp at Windber early next Monday.

The Dukes, their enthusiasm greater than ever since the signing of Layden as coach, have progressed splendidly during their first week of training, although only light sessions were held on the Bluff. This week will likely find the Dukes going through more strenuous workouts.

When Coach Steffen arrived at Carnegie Tech today he found everything in readiness for the opening workout of the Skibos. Assistant Coach Bob Waddell and Trainer Bert Munhall have been working for several weeks in preparation for the initial workout on the Skibo campus and little time was lost in distributing uniforms this afternoon.

C. M. C. TO MEET

A special meeting of the North Side C. M. C. gridders will be held tomorrow evening at 8:30 in the club rooms. A manager for the season will be elected. All of last season's players, together with any others wishing tryouts should be on hand.

Program of Bouts Carded Tonight At Duquesne

Main bout, 10 rounds—Cuddy DeMarco of McKeesport vs. Johnny Mellow of Detroit, junior-welterweights.

Semi-final, six rounds—Young Rudy of Charleroi vs. Teddy Welch of McKeesport.

Second bout, six rounds—Bobby Young of Duquesne vs. Ralph Martzo of Bloomfield.

Opening bout, six rounds—Tommy Ward of the South Side vs. Jimmy Belmont of Braddock.

First bout goes on at 8:30, daylight saving time.

TERRIS, M'GRAW TO MEET AGAIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Sid Terris and Phil McGraw, the outstanding contenders for the lightweight championship, have agreed that it will take another match to settle the question of which is entitled to challenge Sammy Mandell.

They staged what was conceded to be the best fight of the year at Ebbets Field last Wednesday night, Terris winning a 10-round decision after being knocked down four times in the first round.

At a meeting held at Promoter Humbert Fugazy's office Saturday representatives of the boxers tentatively accepted September 14 as the date for the return match.

The bout will be staged at Ebbets Field, but this time the distance will be increased to 15 rounds.

Only one obstacle stands in the path of the September 14 date. Terris is matched to box Hilario Martinez at the Queensboro A. C. on September 6. The bout originally was scheduled for this week, but all bouts at that club were set back a week by inclement weather.

Terris sustained a bad cut over one eye in the McGraw bout, and he wants as much time as possible for the wound to heal.

Rivals Clash At Duquesne

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

TONIGHT'S the night Cuddy DeMarco of McKeesport and Johnny Mellow of Detroit renew their own private little war, meeting in the 10-round windup of a card at the Duquesne Steel Works baseball park in the second outdoor professional show of this section.

Interest in the battle is of such a nature that a good-sized crowd is assured if the weather is fair and

The boxers weighed in at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

DeMarco and Mellow first met in the Palisades Roller Rink, McKeesport, winter before last and after 10 hectic sessions the judges couldn't pick a winner and the referee, Red Robinson, called it a draw. Both boxers have been claiming ever since that they were gypped, and the rematch is the only way of settling the argument.

DeMarco is much the cleverer boxer, but Mellow, who is one of those chunky guys, packs the harder punch. He dropped Cuddy in their first setto. Johnny will be making his fifth appearance in the Pittsburgh district, having boxed four bouts in rapid succession in McKeesport. He whipped K. O. Ferry and Freddie Boylestein and drew with Dick Conlon, in addition to his bout with DeMarco.

A nifty preliminary card is billed for tonight. Young Rudy of Charleroi, DeMarco's stablemate, meets Teddy Welch of McKeesport in the semi-final; Bobby Young of Duquesne returns from a long campaign in Detroit to box Ralph Martzo of Bloomfield in the second bout, and Jimmy Belmont of Braddock and Tommy Ward of the South Side hook up in the opener at 8:30, daylight saving time.

RITCHIE BOXES AGAIN

Willie Ritchie, former lightweight champion, is still pressing his "comeback" luck. Tonight, at San Francisco, he meets Dick Hoppe, one of the Coast stars, in a 10-round preliminary to a battle between Sergt. Sammy Baker and Johnny Adams.

Benny Touchstone of Florida, who knocked out Johnny Urban of Pittsburgh in four rounds in Madison Square Garden, New York, the other night, is one of the most likely looking of the younger heavies and the critics of the Big Town are loud in singing his praises. Touchstone was under the management of Duke Barry, former Connellsville promoter, for a time in Florida.

Jack Britton, granted a reprieve by the New York Commission, which at first barred him on account of his age, boxes Georgie Levine in the windup at Dexter Park, New York, tonight.

Exhibiting of the official moving pictures of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight began this morning at the Olympic, State and Regent Theaters. The films will be shown all week.

LITTLE BILL STROKES BALL WITH SEVERITY OF OLD

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 29.—(AP.)—The smaller half of the formidable team of Johnston and Williams, which has lined up for the national tennis doubles at the Longwood Cricket Club here, was in "great physical condition," he said today.

Little Bill Johnston has never been bothered by his transcontinental journeys from his home in California and he evidenced this by practice on the covered courts when he stroked the ball with the severity of old.

THROUGH the SPORT LENS by HAVEY BOYLE

Havey J. Boyle.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Mrs. Dempsey, known to followers of the silver screen as Estelle Taylor, yesterday watched her husband, Jack Dempsey (not Jack Taylor, as you might imagine) go through a workout at his training quarters at the Lincoln Fields race track, not so near to here. Once Dempsey drew blood from a sparring partner and Mrs. Dempsey turned her pretty head away. Mrs. Dempsey was dressed in a—well, never mind, at any rate she looked o.k. She stood on the balcony on the race track clubhouse, far above the motley throng which surged around the ring.

MOTORISTS and other people who have at one time or another fell into the clutches of the horrible law would have enjoyed the sight at Dempsey's camp yesterday. It appears that someone brought a policeman to camp, a man named Bill Marshall, who was anxious to get a workout with the former champion. Judging from the way Dempsey handled Officer Marshall, Jack must have been arrested many a time. If he gave Marshall a punch for each arrest then the former champion must have been arrested a few hundred times. Jack hit Officer Marshall with everything but a niblick. Apparently there were many in the audience who at one time or another have been told by harsh policemen they were going too slow or too fast, that they missed the light, or that their parked car was six inches too close to a fire plug, because every time Dempsey took a sock at Officer Marshall the motorists assembled all sent up great shouts of glee. Easily, officer Marshall could sue the former champion for assault and battery.

ALTOGETHER there were 7,000 on hand to see the Sunday performance. Dempsey worked hard on the Sabbath. He went on the road, worked at the pulling machine, punching bag and then played a rousing overture on Officer Marshall's organ, sometimes called the nose or beezer. The fans assembled enjoyed the sight of the Dempsey-Marshall affair so much that some one in the crowd suggested that the crowds would be increased if Dempsey announced, following the shellacking he handed the officer, he would take on a series of Pullman porters who won't allow Pullman guests to sleep much after 5 in the morning; hotel clerks who yell out loud that all the $3 rooms are gone, and waiters who stand close to the diner waiting for a chance to do some meaningless turn which they trust will increase the expected tip a few per cent.

MR. FLYNN again supervised Dempsey's work, and at the conclusion of the performance expressed keen satisfaction over the progress being made. Officer Marshall's report was not filed, but the chances are he thinks Tunney stands but a poor chance. Mr. Flynn, who likes Dempsey's condition at this stage and is satisfied his boxing is gradually improving the former champion himself, was in good humor in discussing his condition. He said he is feeling a hundred times better than he felt in preparing for Tunney last year. He added that, although not in good shape last year, he escaped with only swollen eyes. He might have added, of course, that his eyes were swollen so badly that he could hardly see Tunney, but perhaps that was an oversight. And again, those who saw him last year getting ready came away with an impression that he looked perfect, an impression they retained until after the second round of the Tunney fight.

THREE things will particularly bother Dempsey against Tunney. He seems to be short of wind, his legs are none too strong, and at present he is taking too many punches from fellows far inferior to Tunney. He may overcome all these weaknesses, but he will have to be quite a magician to get a new pair of legs between now and September 22. In the Sharkey fight his legs gave him considerable trouble and legs somehow do not grow stronger with age. Dempsey, even in his workouts, does considerable puffing, loud puffing in fact. The fact he is taking so much road work indicates he is concerned about his wind. Road work is the most distasteful of all training work and the fact that Dempsey is going in heavily for this indicates he seeks considerable improvement.

A PITTSBURGH boy, accustomed to a closed Sunday, finds himself looking at the calendar out here. Nearly everything is open here, except the race tracks. And they are closed possibly just because the horses are tired. Theaters, movies, big league ball games, semi-pro games in the public parks, concerts, in fact all kinds of amusement places are open on Sunday and Chicago people seem to enjoy these liberties. At least all the places seem to draw big crowds.

SOLDIERS FIELD, where the big fight is to be held, is a very short distance from the Loop district, the center of all activity. It is as close to the heart of things as the Point Bridge is from Fifth avenue and Smithfield street. Those who attend the fight will find they are within easy walking distance of the field if they come in at almost anyone of the many railroad stations here. It also is surrounded on all four sides by wide driveways. One disquieting thing about Soldiers Field, however, is that the construction of the permanent stands will not allow for the temporary seats on the field to be elevated.

Three Squads Open Practice

THE scholastic grid season was inaugurated today when three high schools brought out their candidates for practice—Wilkinsburg, Bellevue and Jeannette. And with the opening of the fall semester next week, virtually every member of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association will have its footballers girding for the league tests.

Endeavoring to install a new system at Wilkinsburg, Elmer Carroll, erstwhile coach at Greensburg High School, took his first glimpse at the squad at Wilkinsburg this afternoon. He is eager to get away to an early start so that the members of the team will be familiar with his system when the season rolls around. The new coach is somewhat pessimistic at this time.

Jeannette High school's batch of candidates was the first to set out for camp. This crew left yesterday for Camp Wesco, near Ligonier, in the foothills of the mountains, to study under Coaches Jordan and Harrick for a week. Although the mentors would like to stay longer, it is against W. P. I. A. L. rules. They opened practice this morning. Coach Elmer McGrew had his Bellevue squad on hand also to begin a rebuilding process necessitated by the loss of a number of first team players of last year. At that, it is thought Bellevue has some good material in hand and McGrew hopes to mold a team that will improve on last season's record; he was not satisfied with the team's progress in 1926.

GREENSBURG, Aug. 29.—Greensburg High School's 1927 grid campaign unofficially opened this morning when 30 members of the football squad in charge of Coaches Earl E. Loucks and Avra Pershing left for a week's preliminary trip in the mountains, near Champion, in Fayette county. The squad will work out for a week, returning next Monday.

PROS QUALIFY FOR P. G. A. EVENT

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

VIRTUALLY every golf professional of the Tri-State District was playing over the superb links of the Fox Chapel Country Club this morning in the first 18 holes of the 36-hole district qualifying round of the National Professional Golf Association's match play championship, which is to be staged at the Dallas Country Club the week of October 31, with Sir Walter Hagen defending his crown. Play started at 9:30.

The course, which is situated far in the back of Aspinwall, is in better condition at this time than it ever has been in. It has some of the most difficult traps of any links in this district.

The day was a little bit chilly, foretelling the coming of fall, yet, although gray clouds hung overhead for a time, it appeared that the weather would clear up for the afternoon round. It was anticipated that the low score would be around 147 for the 36 holes.

CADDIES IN TOURNEY

Caddies of the Schenley Park municipal links began their 18-hole medal play club championship over the public layout this morning under the direction of Caddie Master Andy Petrolia. Suits of clothes, shoes, shirts, ties and whatnot will be distributed among the boys following the competition. It is rumored that the women of the club have planned a delightful repast, also, for the laddies.

SOCCER by TOM BIRKS

THE first real exhibition game of the season was flashed at Harmarville yesterday when two of the American League clubs, Pittsburgh Internationals and Harmarville, swung into action.

The Pittsburghers won all right, but it was a matter of experience against the youth of the upriver team. Manager Robinson is going to pin his faith on the youngsters around Harmarville who played on last season's team.

The Internationals had quite a number of players of long experience, but at that the locals tied them up for the better part of the first half. Our old friend Jock McKendle was playing center forward, but it is possible that when the season proper opens he will be found playing between the sticks.

Gallatin also played a pre-season game with Mustard Hollow. The McKeesporters must have a pretty good outfit, they holding the Monongahela boys to a tie game. Gallatin has a wealth of talent around that neck of the woods, and should the teams take soccer seriously the upriver league should prove a good venture.

The Inside Story of DEMPSEY'S 'COMEBACK'

By Leo P. Flynn, Manager and Trainer of the former heavyweight Champion

(COPYRIGHT, 1927, BY UNIVERSAL SERVICE.)

CHAPTER IX—Conclusion.

I HAVE now reached that part of my story where I am about to have the laugh on the Can't-Be-Doners.

I was told that Dempsey was through; that he could never be put in condition for a real fight. I thought otherwise and proved it.

I was told that even if he achieved the impossible and did get in shape, he could never beat the younger and faster Sharkey. He knocked out Sharkey, which answers that.

Now, I am being told that his hour of defeat is merely postponed. He can never win over Gene Tunney, they say. It's never been done before; therefore, they conclude that it can't be done.

It's certainly hard to convince some people.

I believe that Jack Dempsey will complete his "comeback" by regaining the heavyweight championship at Chicago on the night of September 22. He will accomplish the feat that no other heavyweight champion has been able to do.

Not only am I confident of victory, but I will go even stronger. I expect him to win by a knockout.

MAKES PREDICTION

I want to make one prediction, and I want everyone to remember it.

THE FIRST TIME GENE TUNNEY SIDESTEPS AGAINST JACK DEMPSEY, THE FIGHT WILL END. DEMPSEY WILL SCORE A KNOCKOUT THEN AND THERE.

Remember that prediction. Many smart boxing men claim that Tunney won the title by sidestepping Dempsey. He'll sidestep into a punch he will never forget if he tries it this time.

I want to ask a question about Gene Tunney.

Whom did he ever lick?

I know what you're going to tell me. "Dempsey!"

Tunney didn't beat Dempsey. Dempsey beat himself. If the Dempsey who fought Jack Sharkey had been in the ring against Gene Tunney, Gene would have been knocked out in the fourth round.

There was no co-ordination of mind and matter in the Dempsey of Philadelphia. He had Tunney on the verge of a knockout, but he was not alert enough to grasp his opportunity. The Dempsey of Philadelphia had so many things to worry him that he could not concentrate on the fight.

RIDICULES GENE'S RECORD

Contrast his action in the fourth round against Tunney with his rapid-fire movement in the seventh against Sharkey and you will catch my point. He had taken advantage of his opening with Sharkey before anyone else realized it was there.

Dempsey was the fastest thinker in the Yankee Stadium that night.

Whom else has Tunney beaten?

It took him 15 rounds to knock out Carpentier five years after Dempsey had stopped Georges in three.

You can throw out Gibbons. Tommy was never any good after Jack Dempsey finished with him.

Tunney couldn't even knock out Dan O'Dowd, and Dan hasn't been able to fight in eight years. He went 10 long rounds with Johnny Risko, a fellow Dempsey would stop in two rounds.

The only fighter I give Tunney credit for beating is the late Harry Greb. He had Greb's number. Greb could annihilate fellows who could beat Tunney, but he couldn't beat Gene.

The Dempsey who will enter the ring on September 22 will be a stranger to Tunney. Tunney has never fought him before.

The Dempsey who will fight Tunney this time is 50 per cent better than the Dempsey who fought him last time. Every bit of poison is out of his system. He is speedier and stronger. He has no mental troubles.

DEMPSEY TAKES ON WEIGHT

By the way, don't be surprised if Dempsey enters the ring weighing 200 pounds. He weighed only 194 for Sharkey and he has never weighed more than that for any of his fights.

In closing, I would like to point out the significant experience of Jack Renault, who is a good heavyweight. Renault retired from the game for a year and then made a "comeback" against Romero-Rojas, a man he once knocked out in one round. Rojas won the decision.

Tunney has had a long loaf. Dempsey has a fight under his belt, a tough fight, one that is bound to give him a lot of confidence.

The old champion will be the new champion on September 22.

That's my story and I'm stuck on it.

(THE END)

Sandlot Grid Teams Ready

MANAGER JOE KOKOSH, late of the Twenty-seventh Ward Traders, has announced that there will be no Trader outfit in the field this season. The 1925 champions had a bad season financially last year, and now most of the players are already lined up with other outfits. This also goes for the popular Woods Run mentor, who plans to play with another aggregation.

The Sharpsburg Tigers will be back on the gridiron this season with a first-class attraction. The club expects to be the best that ever has played at Merton Field. For games write Attel Lauer, Penn and Linden avenues, Sharpsburg, Pa.

Herman's Homewood club, formerly the A. M. Thomas club, will be back again this season. Irish Taylor is going to book only first-class attractions for the Playgrounds.

The Homestead Iroquois will be out again this season with a light first-class club. Teams in this class should write Ed Geier, 115 West Third street, Homestead, Pa.

Another newcomer with the Carrick Scholastics will be on the gridiron this season. The club is composed of former Carrick High players. A good coach will drill the team. For games write D. H. Mamula, 620 Wabash Building, Pittsburgh.

The combining of the Upland Odds and the Collier Colts of last season has resulted in the Hermitage club. Russ Prata will manage the club this season.

Johnny Kirk and Francis Mangan will sponsor an independent football team representing the South Side this fall. They plan to make it one of the strongest ever assembled in that section. William Magidson will be booking manager and Leo (Harp) Cassidy coach. The manager may be reached at 1016 Carson street or by calling Hemlock 9120 after 9:30 evenings.

Coach Jake Fargen expects to have a good aggregation of gridiron artists out Bloomfield way to represent the Tigers this season. Two practice sessions have already been held and some good talent is assured. For games write 124 Edmond street, Pittsburgh.

With the Speedway available it is figured that Teater and George Kasputis will take the club to the other end of Bridgeville this season for the Firemen's gridiron campaign. Tehnelli is expected to be back with the Firemen this season.

One of the greatest lightweight gridiron teams ever produced in Western Pennsylvania, the Pitcairn Mohawks, will be back again this season. Last season the outfit, guided by Cliff Adams, lost that tough elimination game to McChesneytown. This season, however, Loudy Adams will be back with the rest of the stars to put Pitcairn on the gridiron map.

Another club will represent the East End on the gridiron this fall in the Homewood Scholastics. The club will be composed of former high school stars. The team will play Saturday at Homewood and Sunday out of town. Write Manager Herman, 7352 Kelly street, Pittsburgh, or call Franklin 9151-R.

Tunney Concerned Over Referee

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(INS.)—The referee question is bothering the master minds at Gene Tunney's training camp. Bill McCabe, the veteran ringman who handled John L. Sullivan, and who is here with Gene as a member of his board of strategy, is in constant touch with Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, at Chicago, and he has his nostrils dilated for every little breeze. He wants everything to smell clean when the bell rings for the first round on September 22 and he is making the selection of the referee his job.

No indication has been given out here as to who it will be, but McCabe is determined to arouse enough popular interest in the third man in the ring to satisfy everybody. Bill will insist that Dempsey's hands be taped in the ring, within full sight of the customers, as they were last year at Philadelphia.

The rain caused Tunney's workout yesterday afternoon to be canceled, thus giving the champion three consecutive days of rest. He seemed pleased with the idea, declaring that he is right where he wanted to be at this time and two weeks of intensive training at his Cedar Crest Country Club quarters will put him in condition for Dempsey.

There probably will be only two more workouts before Gene leaves for Chicago Thursday. He does not expect to stay in the Windy City, but will proceed immediately to his new training camp. McCabe and a staff of trainers and sparring partners will accompany the champion.

GRAYS AND ELKS SPLIT DUAL BILL AT SHARON

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 29.—The Homestead Grays and Beaver Falls Elks split even in a doubleheader played at the Elks' Park this afternoon before a crowd of 2,500. The Elks won the first fray, 4 to 1, but dropped the second, 7 to 2. The opening battle was decided by Johnny Pearson's double in the eighth with the bases loaded. Until that time it was a pitching battle between Owens and Hilty.

Owens, defeated in the first fray, came back to win the second when his mates jumped on Hospidor early and hard.

Yankees Set Record For Home Runs in Junior League

By Universal Service.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 29.—Another record for the Yankees!

When Koenig hit his home run in the fourth inning of yesterday's game it ran the Yankees' season up to 126—one more than the American League record of 125. Babe Ruth hit the one hundred and twenty-fifth in the first inning.

The Yanks need 15 more homers to break the world's record of 140 set in 1884 by the Chicago Nationals.

GRAYS AND ELKS MEET AT BRADDOCK TONIGHT

The Homestead Grays and the Beaver Falls Elks will resume their 1927 series at Edgar Thomson Park, Braddock, this evening and another warm diamond argument is in prospect. Tri-borough district fans saw Beaver Falls trim the Grays last season.

Can't Go Wrong On Yanks

OCEAN GROVE, N. J., Aug. 28.—(INS.)—Belief that Dempsey would defeat Tunney and that the Yankees would win the American League pennant was voiced here yesterday by Billy Sunday, the well known evangelist.

CHILLY SAUCE By CHILLY DOYLE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29.—Announcement by the Pittsburgh management that it had acquired Pitcher Fred Fussell from the Wichita Falls club of the Texas League stirred some memories in Paul Waner. Paul felt mixed emotions—the great hitter thinks he is fortunate in being able to play ball, which is a thankful feeling, and Paul doubtless shudders when he thinks of a Fussell swift pitch that felled him at the plate and almost fractured his skull.

THE new left-hander of the Pirate family worked for Wade Killefer at Seattle while Brother Paul was with the San Francisco Seals. The Pirate slugger was only a movie at the time. After getting on his feet Paul thought he could finish the game, but there was a bad reaction. However, this had no lasting effect, and to watch the kingpin batter at the plate one would think he never had been floored.

JOHN MILJUS was a teammate of Fussell's at Seattle. John says the lefthander has quite a lot of stuff. Fussell spent quite a period with the Cubs while Bill Killefer was manager. Eventually he was sold to brother Wade's outfit. Later he was transferred to the Texas League where his work has been closely watched by Bob Tarleton, Pirate scout.

SPEAKING of southpaws, the Pirates also own a young man of lefthand persuasion who was well liked by all who made up the Pirate entourage at Paso Robles last spring. The youngster in question is George Peery, teammate of Adam Comorosky at Wichita of the Western League.

JUST coming 21, Peery is a sorrel-topped hurler with lots of class. He is one of those dapper boys who radiate athletic ability; George can sock the ball well and he moves gracefully in a baseball suit. The acquisition of Fussell gives the Pittsburgh club ownership of at least four southpaws. I figure Peery will come into his own before many years.

Bobby Jones, Atlanta's Idol, Gets Great Welcome Home

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 29.—(AP.)—Holding in his arms the gigantic gold cup that signifies victory in the American amateur golf tourney, Bobby Jones returned home today to hear once more the cheers of his own home crowd for this young genius of the links.

Since 1923 when he first came triumphantly home with the American open title, the outward complexion of Atlanta's perennial welcomes to her golfing hero has not changed perceptibly. Six times since he has returned, bearing seven major titles, for last year he came back balancing two crowns at once on his sorrel thatch before Atlanta had opportunity to pay him any homage. Bobby Jones' homecomings always look the same—for every man, woman or child who knows the game of golf and hundreds of others who do not, throng the station to shout their praises.

Through the years these ovations have lost no enthusiasm and the vast concourse that overflowed the terminal station today was as loud and as long in its plaudits as that spontaneous crowd that met him on his first major triumph in 1923, after all the South had waited seemingly endless years for its favorite to break through the wall of bad luck which had seemed to it to have held him off from triumph since 1914.

STOCKS TOUCH NEW HIGHS AFTER DIP

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP.)—The stock market gave another impressive demonstration of its recuperative power today, a bad sinking spell during the forenoon being followed by a brisk recovery which carried several of the leading industrials to record high levels. Heavy selling of General Motors, which tumbled 5 points to 244¼, precipitated the break, but this stock recovered its loss and climbed to a new peak price at 251½. United States Steel common and General Electric also reached new high ground.

Bankse called about $15,000,000 in loans during the day, but call money was in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 3½ per cent. There was little news over the week-end to influence the price movement, although the prediction of a better than normal upturn in fall business by one of the leading economic services had a bullish effect on sentiment.

Oil shares, several of which sank to new low records in early trading, rallied with the rest of the list. Recent selling of Pan-American issues was based on unconfirmed rumors that the annual $6 dividend would be cut in half at the September meeting. Vulcan Detinning broke sharply on the announcement that the stock exchange was investigating recent transactions in that issue.

Trading in the rails was rather quiet, presumably because of the recent disappointing July earnings statement. Liquidation of the carrier stocks has been held in check, however, by predictions of a sharp upturn in freight traffic next month, due to the delayed movement of crops.

Dupont, Colorado Fuel, Shubert Theaters, General Railway Signal, Timken Roller Bearing and Case Threshing machine all recorded substantial gains.

The closing was firm. A small amount of stock available for speculative purposes caused remarkable advances among ordinarily inactive shares when moderate purchasing orders were executed in late dealings. Warren Brothers rushed up 19 points and Reynolds Tobacco "B", United Drug, Wilson & Co. preferred, and Kelly Springfield 8 per cent preferred also made noteworthy gains. Total sales approximated 2,220,000 shares.

Farrell Logical Man.

James A. Farrell is the logical successor to Elbert H. Gary as head of the Steel Corporation, the Daily Metal Market contends editorially. The paper points out that the corporation does not need to select a financier or a lawyer as those fields already are ably represented on its directorate. What it wants are powers of organization, management and business policy and these Farrell has. "Aside from a strictly metallurgical knowledge along scientific lines," the editorial says, "he probably is better versed in the ramifications and commercial possibilities of the steel business than any other man on earth." It adds that Mr. Farrell would enjoy the confidence of the public and of the workers.

Coal Influence on P. R. R.

Largely due to a falling off in coal traffic gross revenues of the Pennsylvania Railroad in July amounted to $[illegible], against $[illegible] in July, 1926, decrease $4,[illegible]. Decrease in coal traffic in July was not so much due to the existing strike in the soft coal fields as it was to the fact that bituminous shipments were greatly stimulated in 1926 by export demand for coal as a result of the British strike. There has been a slowing down in soft coal shipments from mines located along the Pennsylvania lines and also in shipments received from connections. [illegible]

United States Cast Iron Pipe.

United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company is expected to show a sharp decline in earnings for 1927, as compared with last year. It is felt the company will be fortunate if earnings equal $20 a share on 120,000 common stock shares after preferred dividends. This will compare with net income of $5,049,367 in 1926, or $35.93 on the common. The current year has witnessed severe price-cutting with prices breaking to the lowest levels in 10 years. A few weeks back a sale was effected at $29.50, base Birmingham, and several sales were reported at levels well under that figure. In Chicago a few days ago a quotation was made of $28, base Birmingham, or $2 a ton below the previous low bid at Milwaukee, and a 579-ton order was placed by Chicago with the United States Cast Iron Pipe at the $28 figure, or $34.20 delivered.

Railway Signal Tops 150.

General Railway Signal went into new high ground above 150, thus crossing the figure predicted by the "extreme" optimists when the stock was selling at half that price a year or so ago. The company has sufficient orders on its books to keep its plants operating at capacity indefinitely. Its earnings over the last few years have shown remarkable growth. Net in 1924 was $811,965. In 1925 it jumped to $1,788,171 and in 1926 to $2,927,734, thus scoring a 100 per cent increase in two successive years. Expansion has now reached the point where it can no longer make such tremendous strides. But the demand for automatic train control, block signaling and car-retarding devices appear to assure the company's prosperity for many years. Moreover, replacement business is developing on such a scale that it will probably become in time an important feature of the company's activities.

VULCAN TRADING BEING PROBED

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP.)—Transactions in common stock of the Vulcan Detinning Company from August 22 to 27, during which the shares advanced 40 points, closing the week with a net gain of 13¾ points, are being investigated by officials of the New York stock exchange.

Members of the exchange have been asked to furnish by noon, August 31, a list of all transactions for the week, giving volume and prices and names of members or firms with whom transactions were made, and customers for whom they acted. The name of every individual or firm having a position in the stock at the close of business August 22, giving "long" or "short" positions, also was requested.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—(AP.)—Heavy selling of future deliveries of all grain took place today and a general break in prices was witnessed. Raising of estimates of the probable harvest yield of wheat in Canada had a decided bearish effect and so too did slowness of export demand for wheat for North America, together with big receipts at Minneapolis. Harvesting was reported as making rapid progress both in Canada and Europe.

Wheat closed heavy, 3⅛ to 4c net lower; corn 2⅝ to 3⅝c off; oats 1½ to 2¼ down, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 10c.

One leading expert who has just returned to Chicago from a tour of the Canadian prairie provinces reported today that the wheat crop there would be probably more than 400,000,000 bushels. He said that had it not been for rust and frost the outturn could easily reach 500,000,000 bushels, the stand was so uniformly good. As a result of rust and frost, however, the crop is spotted throughout large sections, Saskatchewan and Manitoba in particular.

European and Southern Hemisphere advices today in regard to the wheat crop outlook were also a disappointment to friends of higher prices. Improved weather was noted both in Great Britain and in continental European countries with harvest making rapid progress. Beneficial rains were reported in Australia and sufficient moisture for the present in Argentina.

At noon wheat was 3¼@3½c net lower and corn down 3⅛@3½c.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—A sensational advance featured the cotton market today, active months selling more than a cent a pound above the closing quotations Saturday on a broadening of the recent buying movement promoted by unfavorable private crop advices and weather reports.

Expectations of a bullish report on the boll weevil situation tomorrow no doubt contributed to the advance, which carried prices well above the 22½-cent level for December.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Bond prices continued to rule at high levels in today's market, although volume of trading was again decidedly small. Aside from easy money conditions, there was little in the financial situation to support quotations, and yet many issues were at, or just under their high figures for the year.

A few convertible issues were attractive to traders, but the movement of such liens was much less active than in several sessions. Southern Pacific 4s were in the van of this group, changing hands in rather small amounts around their 1927 high of 96⅛. Erie "D" 4s were fractionally higher.

General Motors Acceptance 6s changed hands in moderate amounts just under their best price, but transactions elsewhere were rather widely scattered. High grade railway mortgages appeared to be at a practical standstill.

The foreign group had for its feature a point jump in Berlin elevated 6½s, which sold as high as 97⅝, a new peak price. Italian 7s were also bought in moderate demand around 95¾, about midway between the high and low levels of the year.

United States government securities were dull.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

Demand for practically all lines of fruit and vegetables at the wholesale produce district was slow today. The market was dull although several changes in the quotations were made. Green corn in basket lots, mushrooms in basket lots, box and crate lettuce and Georgia sweet potatoes were lower. The fruit market was quiet. Apples by the bushel, plums, pears in box lots, rockford cantaloupes and honeydew melons by the crate sold at lower quotations.

The egg and cheese market held firm and sold at about unchanged prices. The butter market was steady with no change in the quotations.

The poultry market was firm on hens. On all other poultry the market was easy. Springers were in liberal supply.

Carlot supplies were heavy, a total of 728 cars being on track. Included in the arrivals were 13 cars of apples, 1 cabbage, 11 cantaloupes, 1 celery, 51 grapes, 11 lettuce, 17 onions, 12 oranges, 14 peaches, 23 pears, 5 prunes, 2 peas, 27 potatoes, 11 sweet potatoes, 1 tomatoes, 10 watermelons, 2 plums, 4 cucumbers and 1 beans.

Hay receipts were light with the market steady. The grain market was firm with all prices increased 1 cent.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP.)—There was an absence of general moving force in market operations on the curb exchange at the beginning of the new week, some issues reflecting profit taking, while bullish demonstrations were continued in others. A number of stocks again moved up to new high records and some had wide fluctuations, but the majority of stocks were in supply and their movements were generally to lower levels.

Singer Manufacturing, which had an advance of 8½ points on Saturday made a further gain of over 3 points, and Realty Associates of Brooklyn also maintained a strong tone, making a further gain of over 5 points. Johns Manville, after advancing over a point, reacted about 3 points. There was a special movement in Lackawanna Securities, which started late last week at 79 and closed on Saturday at 73¾. These shares opened with active trading, but were pressed on the market and had a quick decline to 65. Curtis Publishing sold "ex" the regular and extra dividends at 190, an advance of 6 points from its last preceding sale. Pittsburgh Steel and Bolt had an advance of over 7 points that carried it over 50. Curtiss Aero was again in demand, advancing more than a point and touching 34. There was another display of strength in the chain store group, Metropolitan Chain Stores and Silver Brothers being features.

Standard Oil of Indiana continued strong in the petroleum group, indicating the influence of the expected new stock issue assumed to be for exchange into Pan American Eastern stocks. Nearly all the other oil stocks showed a heavy tone, Humble and Ohio Oil both sustaining fractional losses.

Public utilities were generally heavy, but American Gas and Electric had a gain of a point, part of which was lost, and Blackstone Valley reacted more than 3 points from the day's high.

Newmont Mining made a gain of 2¼ points to the new high record of 97⅞.

Arkansas Gas Active On Local Board

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt and Arkansas Gas were the active issues on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange at the opening today, the former reflecting an especially urgent demand with only a moderate amount of stock available. First sales of Screw and Bolt were at 50, a new high record and a fractional advance over Saturday's closing level. Spirited bidding for the stock at 50 soon eliminated the supply at that figure and the price began a steady upward movement which carried it to 51 before the end of the first hour. There was nothing new in the way of information on the stock and brokers who were engaged on the buying side ascribed the advance to investment purchasing based on persistent rumors that the dividend will be increased to $3 a year as compared with current payments at the rate of $2 annually.

Arkansas came into the market strong at 9½, but failed to better that figure in the early dealings. Subsequent offerings were sufficient to force the quotation back to 9⅛, but there was evidence of pressure.

Lone Star Gas was quiet most of of the day. Early sales were at slight fractional concessions from Saturday's closing but later buying closed the narrow gap. A few odd lots of Standard Sanitary changed hands at 92¼ to 92, comparing with the previous close at 92¾.

Trading in Screw and Bolt experienced a lull during the afternoon with a moderate drop from the high price established on the morning bulge.

OLD COLONY TRUST COMPANY AND S. PARKMAN SHAW, Jr., BOSTON, TRUSTEES

Mr. George Hannauer, President of the Company, summarizes as follows:

BOSTON AND MAINE RAILROAD: The Boston and Maine Railroad operates 2,082 miles of road, including 1,599 miles of road owned and 450 miles which are operated under long term leases. The Company serves central and northern New England, including the central and northern part of Massachusetts, nearly all of New Hampshire, southeastern Maine and a part of Vermont.

The Boston and Maine is now a unified system. Certain properties such as Fitchburg, Boston & Lowell, Concord & Montreal, Connecticut River, and Manchester & Lawrence Railroads, which were formerly operated under lease have become through consolidation an integral part of this system and constitute an important part of the security for these bonds.

SECURITY: These $30,942,000 First Mortgage Gold Bonds, Series AC 5%, rank equally with $90,916,979 of other bonds secured under the same mortgage. This mortgage is, in the opinion of counsel, a first mortgage upon the Railroad system, including the lessee's interest in the principal leasehold lines, subject, as to the property acquired from Worcester, Nashua & Rochester Railroad Company and Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway Railroad, to $1,575,000 of outstanding prior lien bonds. At the time the property of these two companies was acquired 119 miles of the road owned by them was subject to these prior lien bonds.

These bonds are therefore secured (1) by a first mortgage on 1,480 miles of road owned by the Company; (2) by a first mortgage on the lessee's interest in the leased lines covering 400 miles of road; (3) by a mortgage on the remaining 119 miles of road, subject to the $1,575,000 prior mortgage bonds above mentioned; and (4) by a first mortgage on the terminal properties owned, with unimportant exceptions, including the extensive railway and passenger terminals in Boston, which are assessed for approximately $30,000,000.

VALUATION: The value of the Railroad, excluding leased lines, as tentatively determined by the Interstate Commerce Commission together with subsequent additions amounts to over $255,000,000. This valuation is after deducting approximately $45,000,000 for depreciation. As total funded debt including equipment trust obligations amounts to only $129,934,579, there will be over $1,960 of property value for each $1,000 of indebtedness.

EARNINGS AND EXPENSES:

Years Ended Dec. 31	1926	1925	1924*
Operating Revenues	$81,625,375	$81,628,763	$80,486,711
Non Operating Revenue	1,876,049	987,311	597,533
Gross Revenues	$83,501,424	$82,616,074	$81,084,244
Operating and Other Expenses and Taxes	68,784,270	69,220,947	70,942,371
Net Income Available for Fixed Charges	$14,717,154	$13,395,127	$10,141,873

*Including two roads operated separately prior to 1925.

Upon completion of this financing the interest requirement on funded debt will amount to $6,467,645 and the requirement for rental of leased lines $1,139,132, a total of $7,606,777. For seven months ended July 31, 1927, Gross Revenues were $45,589,560 and Net Income available for fixed charges was $7,851,790.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds of this issue of Bonds are to be applied toward the retirement of $29,298,500 of the Company's bonds now or formerly owned by the United States Government, and the reimbursement of the company for $1,644,000 of bonds acquired from the public.

FINANCIAL CONDITION: The Company's financial position is excellent. On August 24, 1927, cash, government bonds and other readily marketable securities exceeded $13,000,000. At the same time it had no bank loans and no current indebtedness other than that incurred in the ordinary course of business and there is $5,345,550 coming in during the next two years in payment for Prior Preference Stock already subscribed for.

We recommend these bonds for investment

Price 93¼ and interest, yielding 5.41%

Bonds are offered for sale, when, as and if issued and received by us subject to approval by the stockholders, authorization by Interstate Commerce Commission, and approval of all legal details by Messrs. EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Dear Aunt Bella—

As I was reading my newspaper the other morning, my glass eye dropped out and rolled upon the floor where my young son was playing marbles. The next afternoon imagine my embarrassment when a friend informed me that I was wearing a marble with an American flag instead of my glass eye.

MAURINE TRIES TO SHUSH COUSIN ROY

Panther-Man's Temperature Reaches High Mark Review of "Maurine."

Roy

Today we stagger to page 150 and find Maurine still seated on the poison oak in the forest—her ears fluttering slightly as orphan Cousin Roy asks her to be his bride. If you are a subscriber to this paper, you already know that Maurine really loved Vivian Dangerfield, and Vivian loved her. But Helen Trevor, Maurine's house guest, was so goofy over Vivian that Maurine as a matter of common courtesy, smothered her own desires.

Maurine speaks—

Roy's form was like a panther's in its grace,
So lithe and supple and of medium height,
And garbed in all the elegance of fashion,
His large black eyes were full of fire and passion,
And in expression fearless, firm and bright.
His hair was like the very deeps of night,
And hung in raven clusters 'round a face
Of dark and flashing beauty. As I gazed
Upon the handsome face to me upraised,
I could not help but say, "Oh, foolish boy!
Why did you shatter my delusion, Roy,
By turning to a lover? Why indeed?"

Why, indeed! Roy had been a valued friend, yes. But she did not expect that he would suddenly go daffy and drool at the mouth. Quick as a flash, Roy answered—

BUGS BAER Says

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

AND, boy, how he travels.

After having seen Mayor Jimmy Walker dashing between his ever-blooming lapels, England now has an idea of how the Prince of Wales should dress.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Jimmy has met all the mayors of England, Ireland and Scotland and has defeated them without opening more than one trunk.

The lord mayor of Lond[illegible]orted to unfair competition when he [illegible]rse-blanket studded with royal conf[illegible]d imperial explosives.

But Jimmy evened up that contest by letting out a reef in his spats and crowding polka dots into his necktie.

We will say one thing for Jimmy. He is putting up a great fight, even though he has been outweighed by every mayor he has met.

The mayor of Southampton was 10 stone heavier than our James. A stone is 14 pounds. But New York's battling bantam whipped him without shedding his dressing robe.

Possibly, that dressing robe had something to do with the victory. It is a silk bungalow apron spangled with heliotrope sunburst and California ramblers.

It is the most gorgeous Mother Hubbard that Father Hubbard ever wore. Europe has been dazzled by that multi-colored male kimono. England couldn't object to Jimmy parading around in a dressing robe so long as the rules permit Scotch regiments to march east and west in kilts.

England was disappointed because Jimmy bowled over competition. The folks were hoping to see what the mayor had in those other 56 trunks.

Berlin was easy because Berlin thinks that all mayors have baggy knees and balloon vests. All Jimmy had to do was to snap his cuffs in Germany and another victory was chalked up.

It will not be so easy in Paris, but Jimmy still has 56 trunks and an unexplored high hat in reserve.

He has corrected the erroneous impression of clothes established by the Prince of Wales. The only royal robes we have in America are dressing gowns and Turkish towels.

You notice that Jimmy has not resorted to a monocle. When he wants to see anything he uses a telescope.

In the meantime, for Jimmy's homecoming, the steps of City Hall will be put on a tugboat and carried out to the liner at Quarantine. This will enable James to make his welcoming speech to himself without getting out of bed.

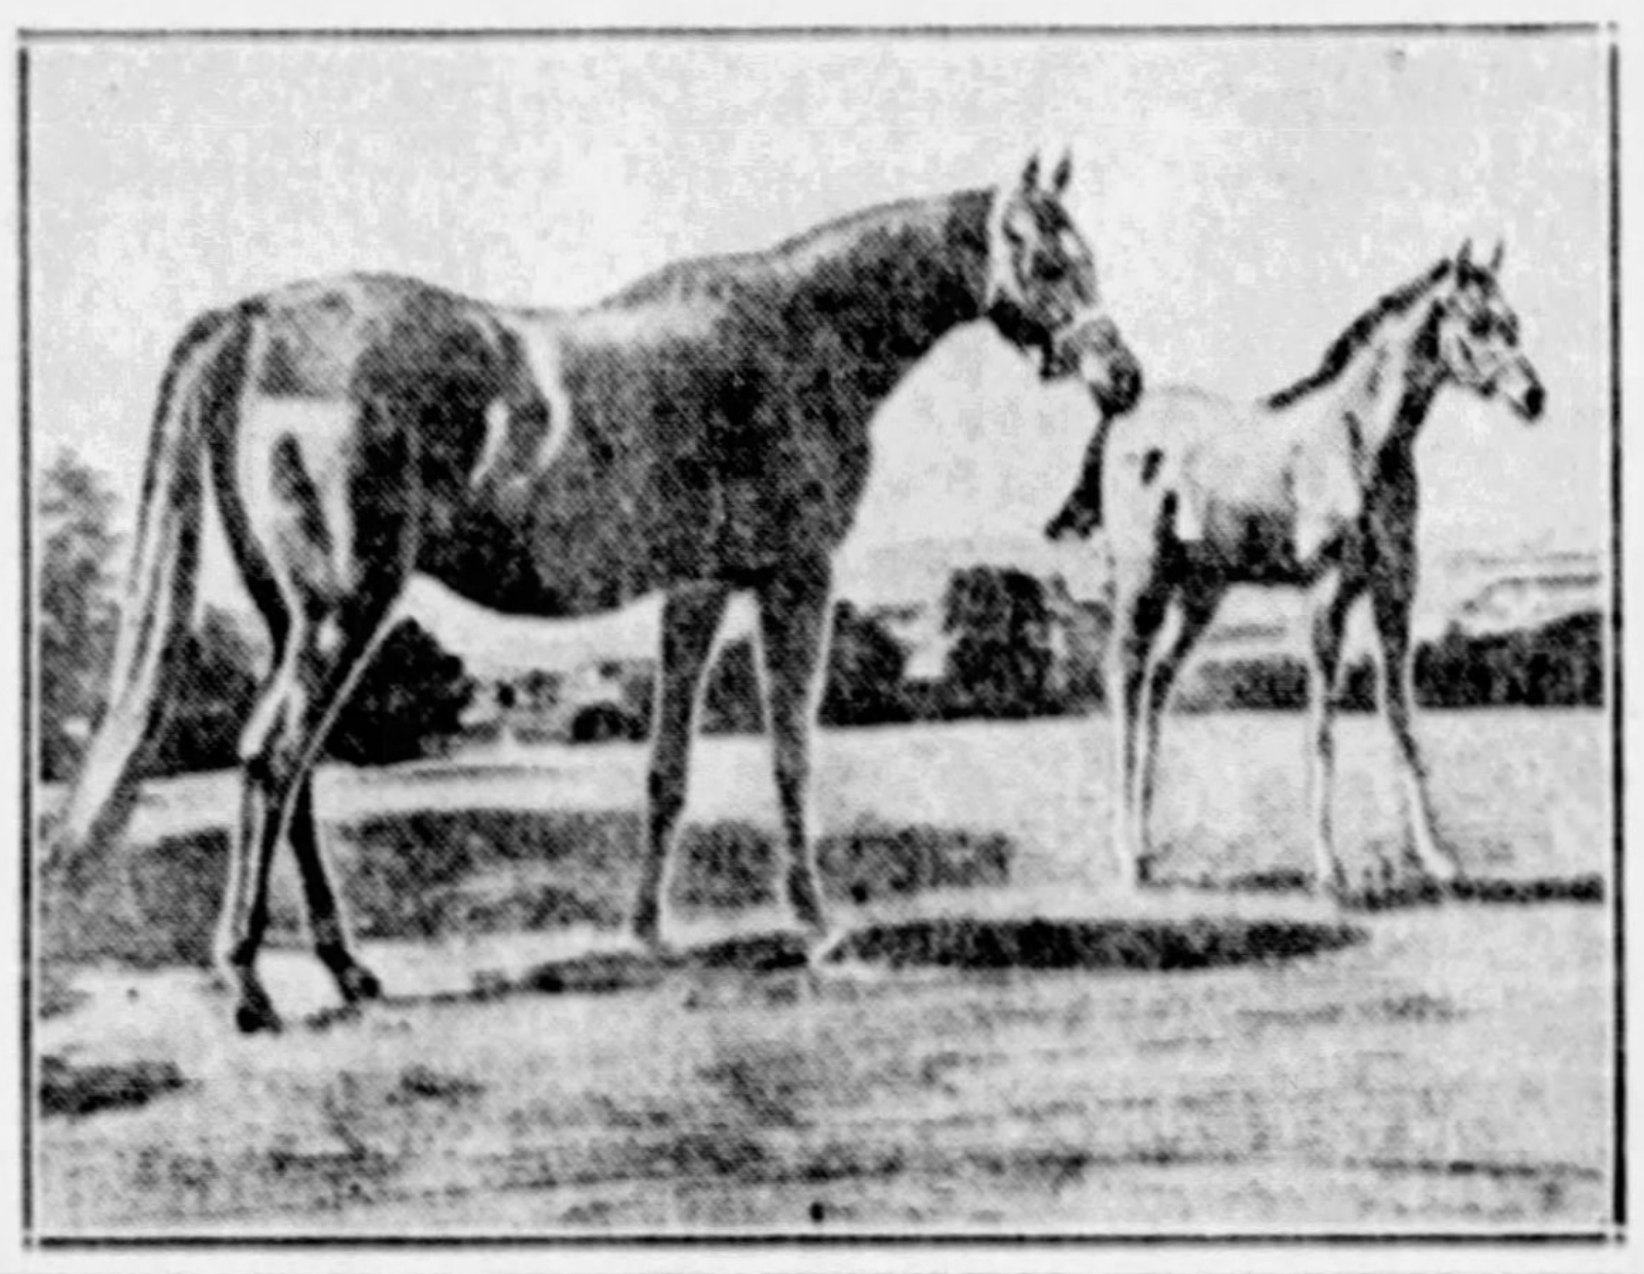
A Fortunate Mother

Wealth Takes Good Care of Diadem.



THIS IS DIADEM, GAME MARE AND FORTUNATE MOTHER

The Hon. George Lambton, who trained this beautiful thoroughbred racing mare, calls her "the best mare I ever trained."

Lord D'Abernon, owner of the mare, called her "the gamest mare that ever raced in England." She was so game that his Lordship had not the heart to withdraw her from racing early, as is usually done with valuable brood mares. He kept her racing to an extent that, according to trainers, is apt to damage the "get" of the mare, using too much of her strength for racing, not leaving enough for her offspring.

This mare was entered in 39 races, won 24, including "The One Thousand Guineas," was second eight times, third three times, "unplaced" only four times.

This mare's daughter, the beautiful filly Dian, won a big race at Ascot this year.

Other mothers, compelled to work, will learn with interest that this equine mother of the racetrack was apparently NOT injured by her long racing career.

Her colts and fillies are winning races as she did. The handsome young colt beside her is named Diadochos, and had for father the great racing horse Son-in-Law.

Observe the marvelous care that is taken of THIS mother. Beautiful pastures are kept for her and her children as they come along, one each year. Carefully chosen food is given to her. She looks forward to a happy old age, free from all possibility of worry, and knows that a career is marked out for each of her children. She doesn't even have to worry about an incompetent father for those children. Care is taken to select the BEST fathers.

Quite a contrast, you will say, between the career of this mother and the care given to her and the fate of some other mothers that live in slums in crowded cities, taking care of half a dozen or more children, doing all the work, with plenty of cause for worry.

However, we must remember that a good racing mare is valuable, and a colt may be worth a quarter of a million dollars. The average human mother has no particular value, and her children have no special value, either.

That is the way it is just now. Things may change in 500 or 1,000 years.

How to Be Cunning

Young girls who must get a husband—first, because it is the thing to do; second, because marriage is the only natural life; third, because the earth needs to be populated—will be interested in the fact that to be CUNNING means nearly always TO GET MARRIED.

Men admire beauty, they admire intelligence, they admire pink cheeks, among many other things.

But a charming young female possessing that peculiar quality described as being "cunning" has a little better chance than any other girl.

You may be beautiful and cold. You are never CUNNING AND COLD.

To be cunning is to appeal to man's foolish idea that he is woman's superior. A cunning little girl that looks up at him with modest eyes and a "oh, you great big man" expression does not remain in the matrimonial market long. She is taken home, signed up, blissfully enters into "woman's noblest career."

Of being cunning, there are at least a million ways.

Making an apron is cunning, and freckles are cunning. Hair down in braids, have boyish bob, is very cunning. There is the cunning of the simple position.

Of course, men ought to have brains enough to judge for themselves. They ought to see the beautiful soul and intellect of woman shining back of the forehead.

Therefore, the only thing to do is to be as beautiful as you can, also as "cunning" as you can.

Scalps Insured 50 Years Ago

Fifty-five years ago "scalp insurance" was in vogue in Texas, so we learn from recently disclosed records of the Lone Star state.

A policy dated in 1870 shows that one G. S. Picket, contemplating a trip into West Texas, deposited the sum of seventy-five cents for "frontier protection," or, as it was popularly known, "scalp insurance."

Benjamin Franklin carried $5,000 of life insurance, which was effective only if he lived up to a number of restrictions. Should he desire to visit a city or travel west of the Mississippi, he had to obtain permission of the insurance company and pay an extra premium.

In those days cities meant smallpox and other epidemics, and west of the Father of Waters was a land wherein food and water were scarce and the attentions of the redskins were pressing.

Mid-West Markets Lure

New Yorkers have been told by Robert J. Eustace, of Toledo, that many eastern manufacturers are decentralizing their plants.

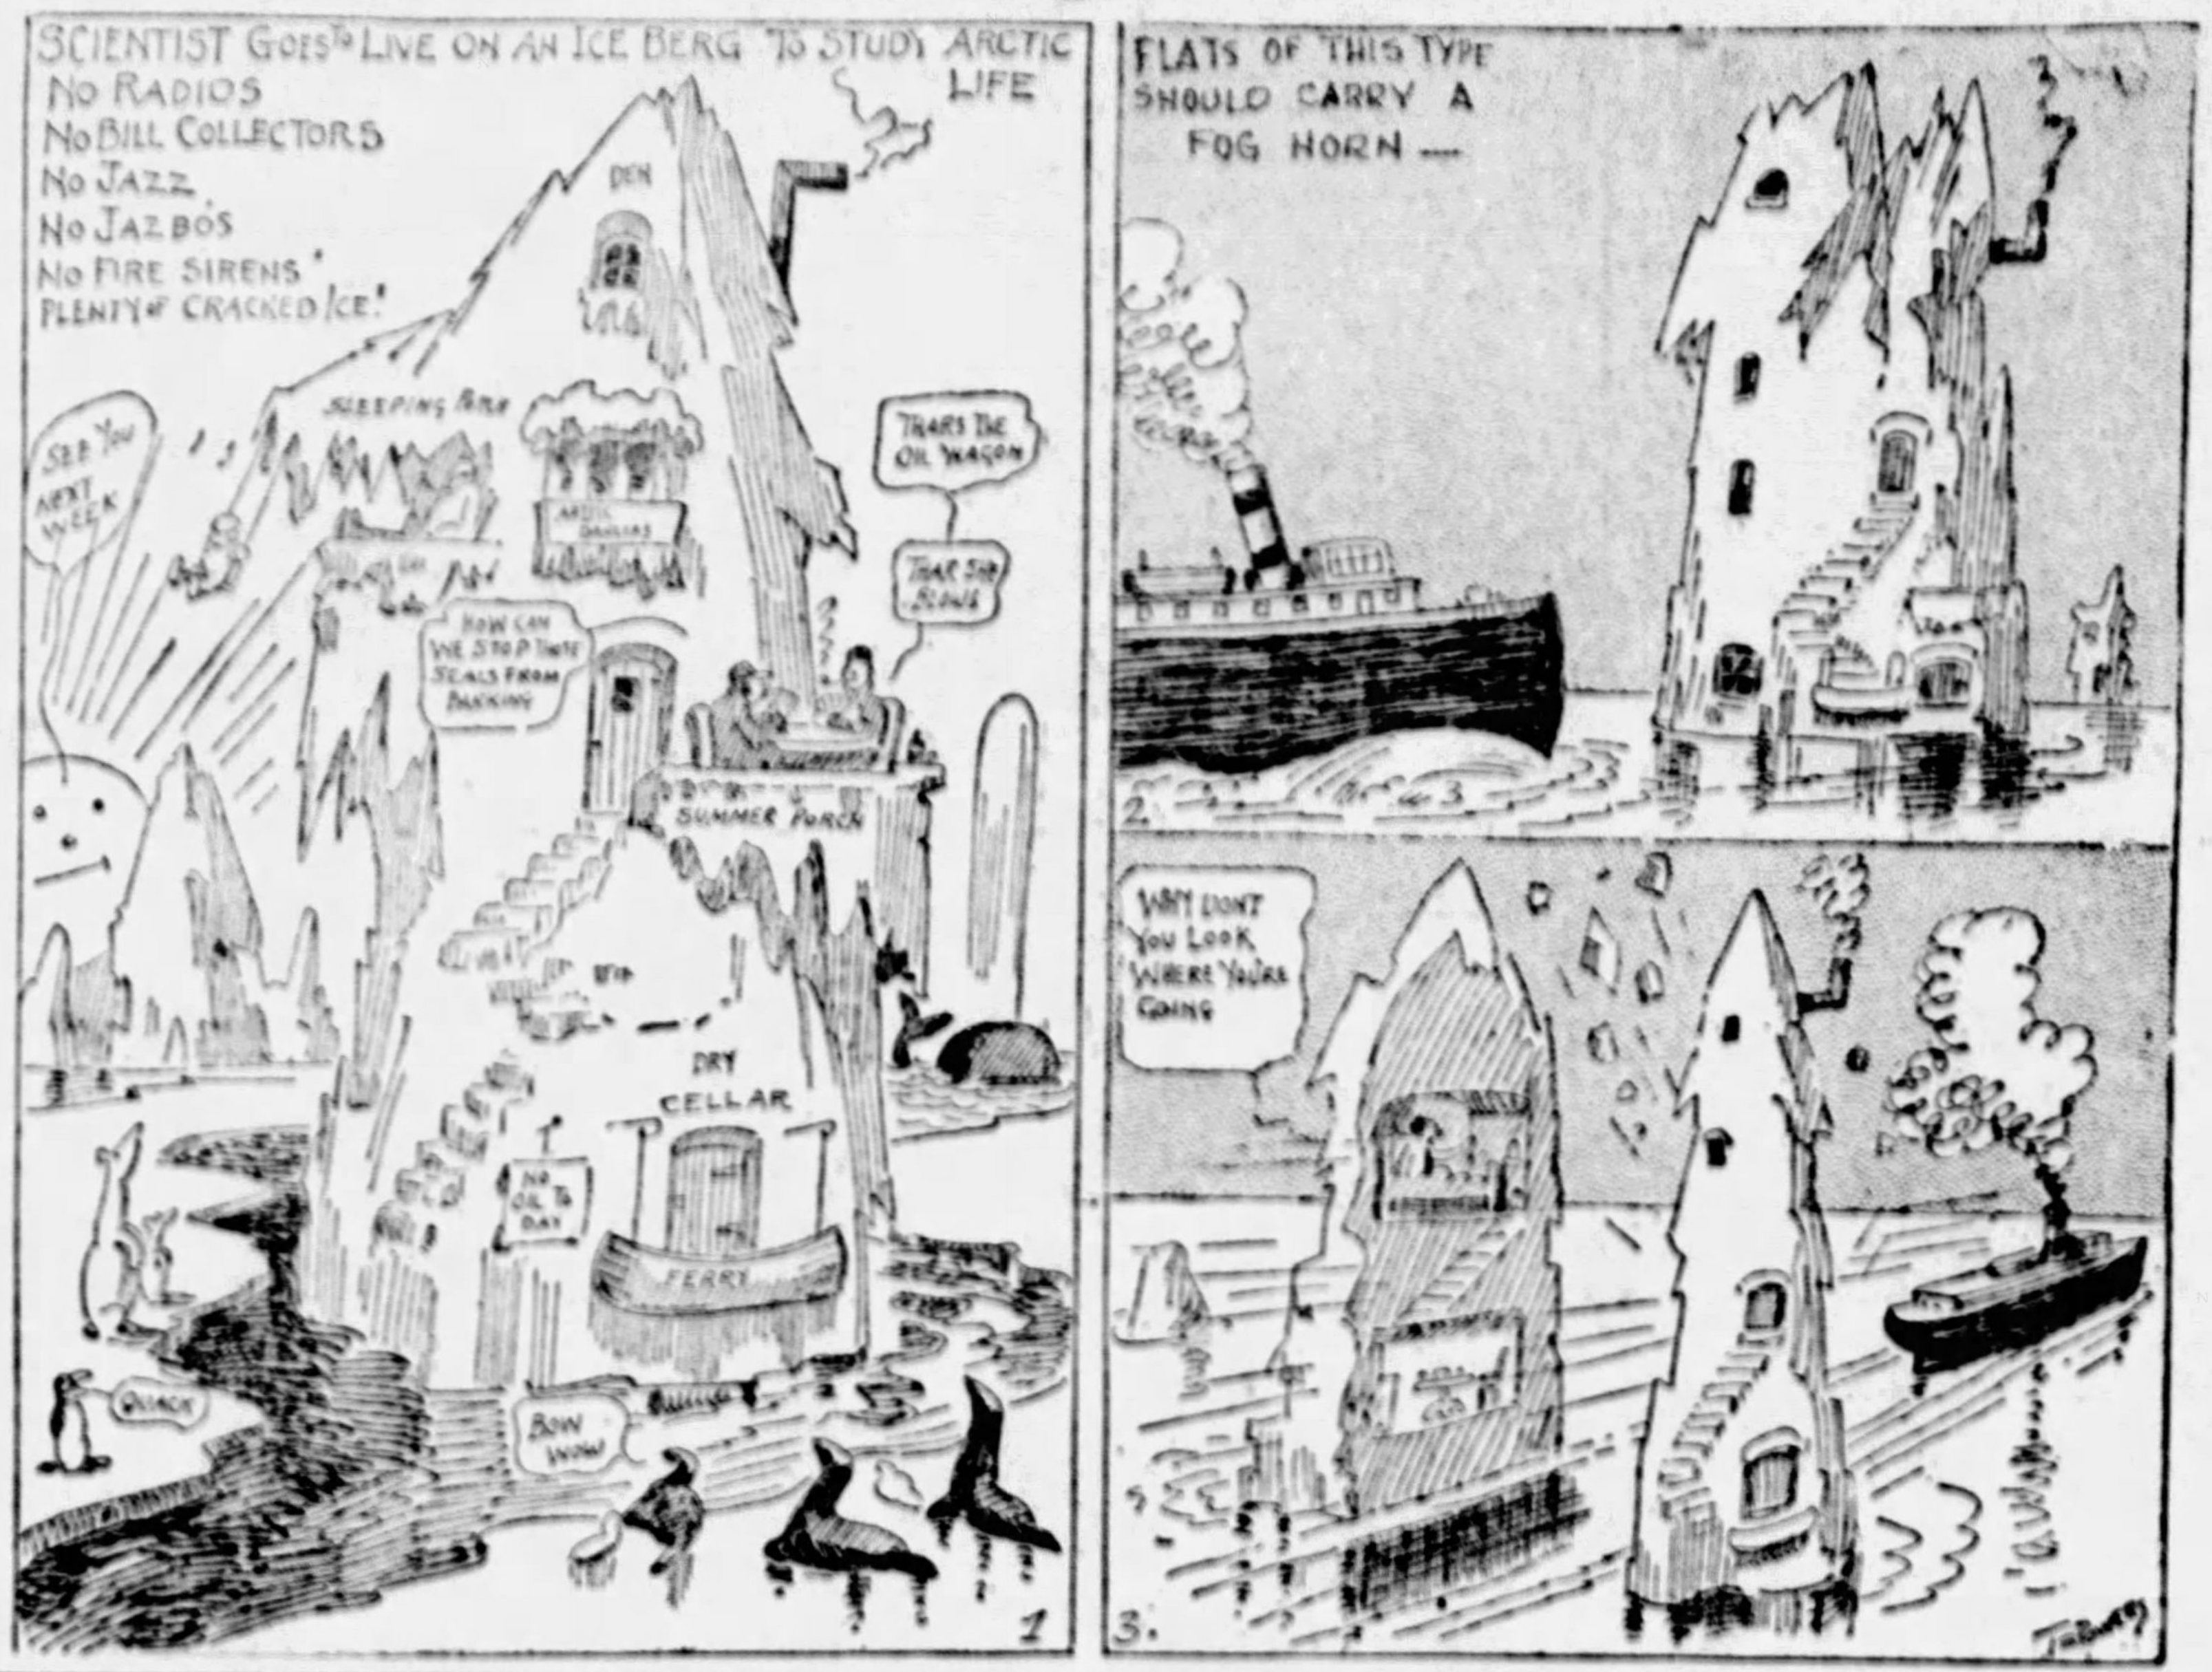
That is, they are building branch plants in the Middle West. It is often cheaper to serve Middle Western consumers from factories located there than it is to pay the high freight rates from plants in the East.

This decentralization is a very healthy practice. It reduces the industrial congestion of the big Eastern cities and gives workmen a chance to live under more pleasant conditions in smaller communities.

The East is full of Western representatives asking for the establishment of branch plants. Eastern money and Eastern brains thus radiate out through the country, developing its industrial possibilities.

Life in an Iceberg Apartment

By T. E. Powers



Garrett P Serviss Says:

Save the Little Lives

IN THE benevolent battle of science for the preservation of the lives of children, few things appeal more powerfully to general human sympathy than the efforts, under the lead of the Pasteur Institute in Paris, to combat tuberculosis at the threshold by preventive vaccination of new-born children with the anti-tuberculous vaccine of Drs. Calmette and Guerin.

Carefully prepared statistics show that the protection afforded is not far from complete. Thus among 982 children, born of tuberculous mothers, or raised amid contagion, the mortality from tuberculosis was reduced to 1 per cent during the first one or two years after vaccination and to zero after two years, whereas among the non-vaccinated the deaths from tuberculosis were 26 per cent.

Another set of observations shows that among infants kept in contact with tuberculous mothers the mortality was only 6.6 per cent for the vaccinated against 24 per cent for the non-vaccinated. In two and a half years, ending January 1, 1927, 21,200 new-born children, born of tuberculous mothers or living in infected families were treated in France with the new vaccine, which is called the "B. C. G.," and the statistical history of them since vaccination has been uniformly of the same favorable character.

This vaccine was prepared with an originally very virulent bovine bacillus. This was cultivated during 13 years in potato impregnated with beef bile, until it was so far reduced that it could no longer produce tuberculosis, but remained capable of provoking the appearance of "anti-bodies," which combat tuberculous infection. When absorbed either by way of the digestive tract, or through sub-cutaneous injection, "it confers on the animal, without the least danger, the same state of resistance to reinfection that arises from a virulent attack of the disease."

The authority of the Pasteur Institute is behind this vaccine, which is furnished by it to physicians, and experiments conducted in Italy, Greece, Rumania, Algeria, Indo-China, and the Ukraine have shown the same favorable results. Here, then, there seems to be offered by science a refuge from one of humanity's worst enemies, comparable with those afforded by the vaccines against smallpox and typhoid; and considering the overwhelming sorrow with which a tuberculous mother must contemplate the probable fate of her infant, to whom she has inadvertently conveyed a fatal infection, one would expect that such a protecting hand would be greeted with universal joy.

Science is on its way to the rescue; he who impedes it is an enemy to mankind.

Tobacco consumption is still increasing in England. In January to June, 1924, the quantity was 73,805,768 pounds. Last year, for the same period, it had increased to 78,421,152 pounds.

The characteristic of cackling after laying an egg is one handed down from the jungle chickens. The hen, after stealing away to lay her egg, cackled to attract the attention of the rest of the flock that had wandered out of sight.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY.

Don't Be a Slave

DO you appear to be out of tune with the general run of men?

Or, as a woman, do you fail to find enjoyment along the lines of most women?

Often you wish that you might relax to the point where you could enjoy yourself in doing what most folk do for amusement.

But it seems impossible.

You try to enter into the spirit of popular games.

You can't do it.

Rather than attend affairs at which only frivolity prevails, you prefer to remain at your home and enjoy what home provides.

Still you don't want to be considered "peculiar," and for that reason you often go out when you would prefer the home circle.

Do you show good judgment in this?

Your first consideration is home and family.

Possibly for the sake of furthering the interests of your family you might accept invitations to this and that and it would be really in line with the good of your home and those in it.

But if you are the only one to be consulted and your family are in accord with your ideas, why allow custom to dictate your course?

The Power of Love

ONCE when John Ruskin and Thomas Carlyle were discussing the literature of their day, the latter said to his companion: "Can you tell me why it is that works on subjects of vital interest to the race, splendidly written by men of profound scholarship, command scarcely sufficient sale to pay the cost of publishing; while trashy novels, false to history, false to philosophy and false to the facts of human experience, and altogether lacking in literary merit, will sell by scores of thousands?"

After a short pause, Ruskin replied: "There is but one explanation of that fact, but the explanation is all-sufficient; the novel has love in it and the other has not."—Scribner's.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and casting accounts find myself more prudent than usual and without debts. Then to cross Fifth avenue with Verne Porter, but there was a lodge parade, a cavalcade girt with shiny cuirasses bestride charges and so back home.

Worked awhile and to a club and fell to cards, but such pagan pleasure interests me little and I lost. On the street I met John N. Wheeler who told me of his trip to Europe and we strolled along gazing at window baubles.

In the evening to visit a man who had paid $1,000 for a Boston dog nor did it seem as intelligent as mine and with my wife to a public inn for dinner and sat awhile with Joe Moore who presented Chauncey Olcott and his wife. Early to bed.

There are 90 first-class theaters in New York and theatrical builders say there will be no more for a few years. The new movie mosques and high cost of theatrical production are responsible for the hiatus. The new theaters, it is noticed, have no boxes and the oldtime gallery or "peanut heaven" is abolished. All have smoking rooms for women and one has brass plates on the first night seats for critics with names engraved thereon. Foyers have been practically abolished.

* * *

Exhaustive investigation has upset the generally accepted fact that New York theaters are supported chiefly by a large out-of-town population. It is definitely established—if anyone cares—that 75 per cent of the audience reside in the metropolitan area. About 15 per cent are from points within a radius of 50 miles and 10 per cent are from far away. The big hits become hits chiefly through local patronage. Outlanders have rarely been responsible for a smash.

* * *

On the Biltmore Theater program is the announcement: "The ushers in this theater are students in New York institutions of higher learning, who are working their way through school." Not that it mattered, but it interested me to watch to see if they accepted tips. They did.

* * *

The Knickerbocker Theater program pleads: "Combing bobbed hair outside the dressing room is unhealthy and is deprecated by the Health Department." I wonder what menace they expect to find in—O, my gosh!

* * *

In another theater the curtain dropped on one of those scenes featuring a long rapturous kiss. A gentleman who stood in the wings heard the leading lady as she walked to her dressing room hurl over her shoulder at the stage Romeo: "You cut out garlic. I could chin myself tonight on your breath."

* * *

Nothing seems to excite Manhattan curiosity more than a fallen horse or a browsing cow. Up in a Central Park meadow there is a municipal owned liver colored cow—the sort seen in every cow pasture and in hotel rooms as chromos. But daily the fence surrounding it is jammed with wide-eyed city dwellers. For many children it is the first cow they ever saw outside movies or picture books. Northward is the sheepfold and it is, too, a place attracting hundreds daily.

* * *

The Central Park sheepherder is a picturesque old fellow who seems to be of the open spaces despite the fact he rides home in the subway and lives in a crowded walk-up tenement. The Shepherd dog that helps round up the sheep is said to be one of the finest in the world. Its sire was presented to the city by the elder J. P. Morgan.

* * *

The only jarring note in Central Park to me—and it may not be there now—is in the menagerie where a pathetic blind bear paces up and down its cage.

International Confabs

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The only way to get along in an international conference between representatives of the various nations is to follow the common sense rules that govern conferences of individuals.

The one thing that disturbs the prospects of arriving at any set conclusion between the various nations is the same thing that disturbs the hope of a satisfactory result between different men.

If capitalists and laborers could sit down at a table and banish all hatred and suspicion of one another there would be no trouble in coming to a satisfactory conclusion. The laborer, however, thinks the capitalist too shrewd and always on the lookout to get the advantage of him; the capitalist thinks the laborer ignorant and prejudiced; this prevents arriving at an amicable result.

You cannot have a conference between two or more people and expect a happy conclusion unless you trust one another, unless there is mutual respect.

It is a common failing of every nation to suspect other nations of being shrewder than themselves, wilier and craftier and more selfish.

Each nation regards its own representatives as honest and straightforward dealers and thinks others are crooked. Many papers and many so-called patriots do their best to fan this delusion. Many of them seem to think they are patriotic when they suspect every move of the opposite nation.

Trust and belief are not mere Sunday school things, but they are necessary in all our intercourse one with another. Diplomats as well as individuals must be high-minded and considerate.

The question of reducing armaments is one that concerns the economic prosperity of every nation. Armed forces continue to be the chief source of expenditure all around and it is worth while to get together on the subject of mutual reduction.

It is all a matter of proportion, anyway. It is just as bad and no worse for a nation to have 60,000 tons of ships against another nation's 30,000 as it is to have 60 tons against the other nation's 30 tons. It is a matter of preponderance and it is worth all the endeavor of all high-minded patriots to get together with the representatives of other nations and reduce the amount of armament. Those who have known the horrors and destruction of war must agree with this, and only those who seek to plunge their country into war in order to appeal to a false patriotism are against a reduction of armament.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

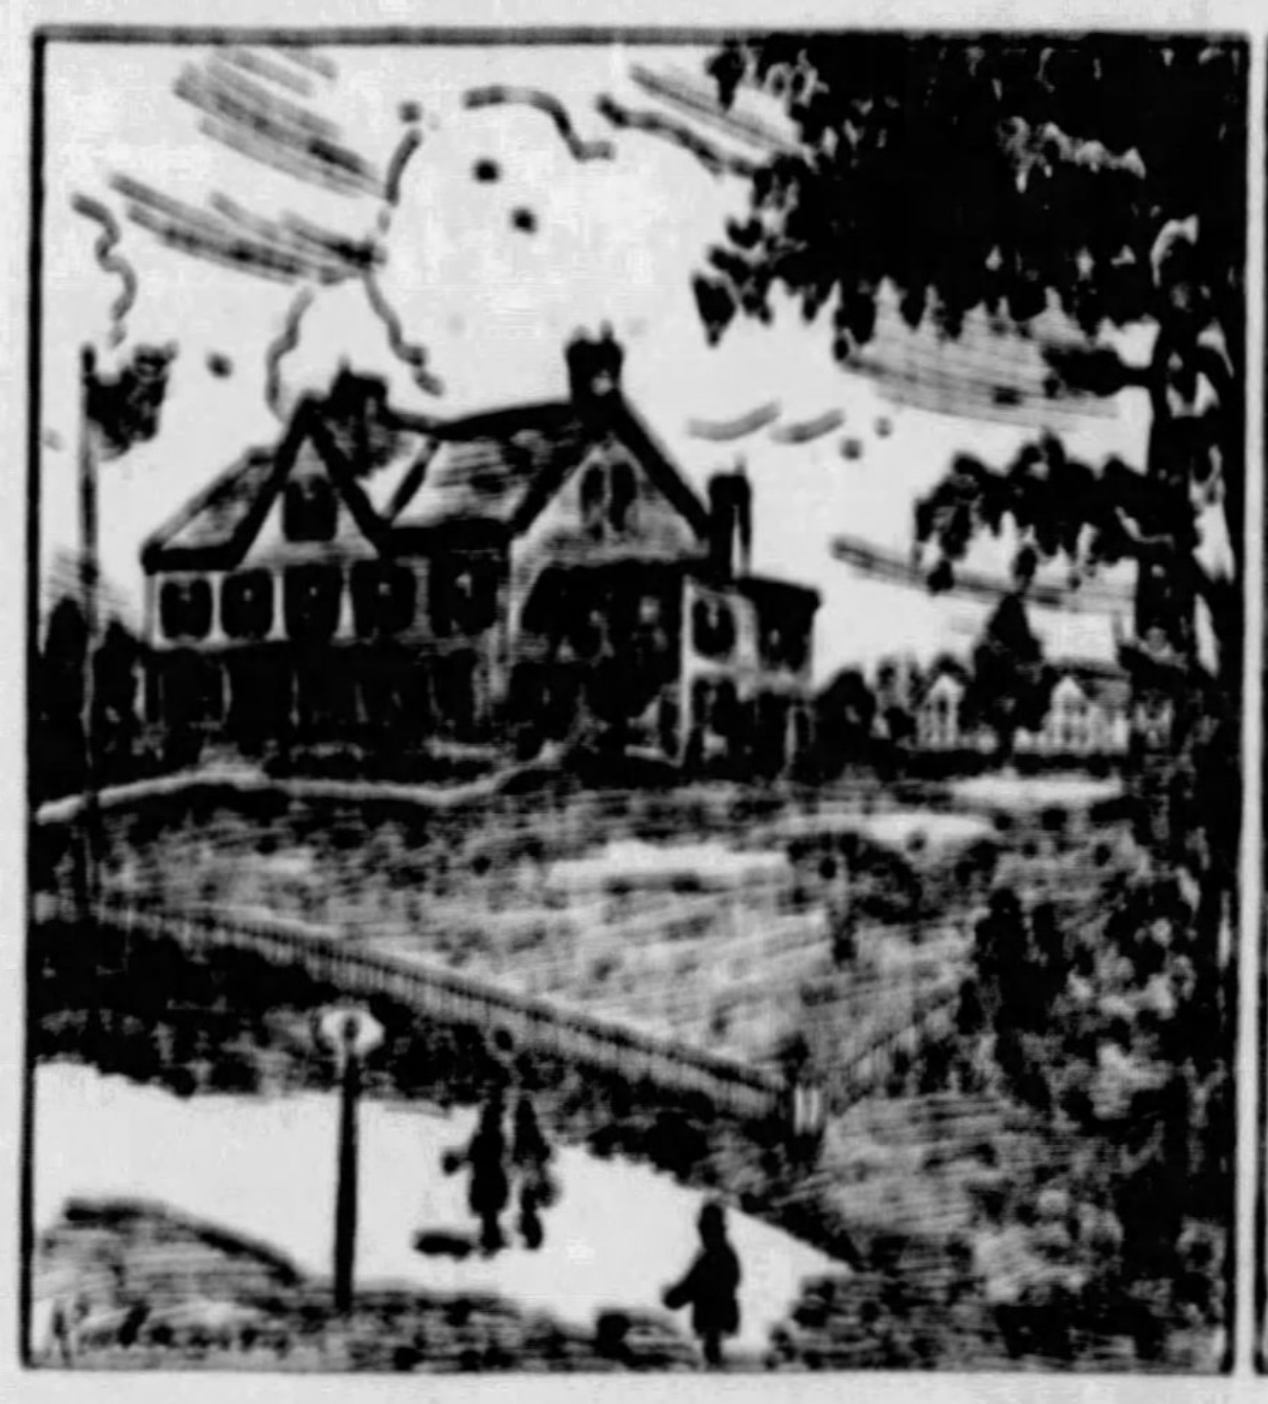
"The Corn Field"

THERE are banners that wave and lift down the ranks of the growing corn, where the summer breezes drift and a whisper of song is born; verdant banners that proudly fly while the sun's golden rays beat down as the summer passes by, like a queen in her flower-decked gown. And the whisper of song they send adrift on the summer breeze—does it tell of blue skies that bend over meadows and hills and trees? Does it hint of the winter days when the harvests shall all be stored? Ah, no; from the fields of maize a rarer song has soared! From each banner that waves and lifts comes a message of hope and trust, of the earth and its bounteous gifts, of the grain that shall grow from the dust!

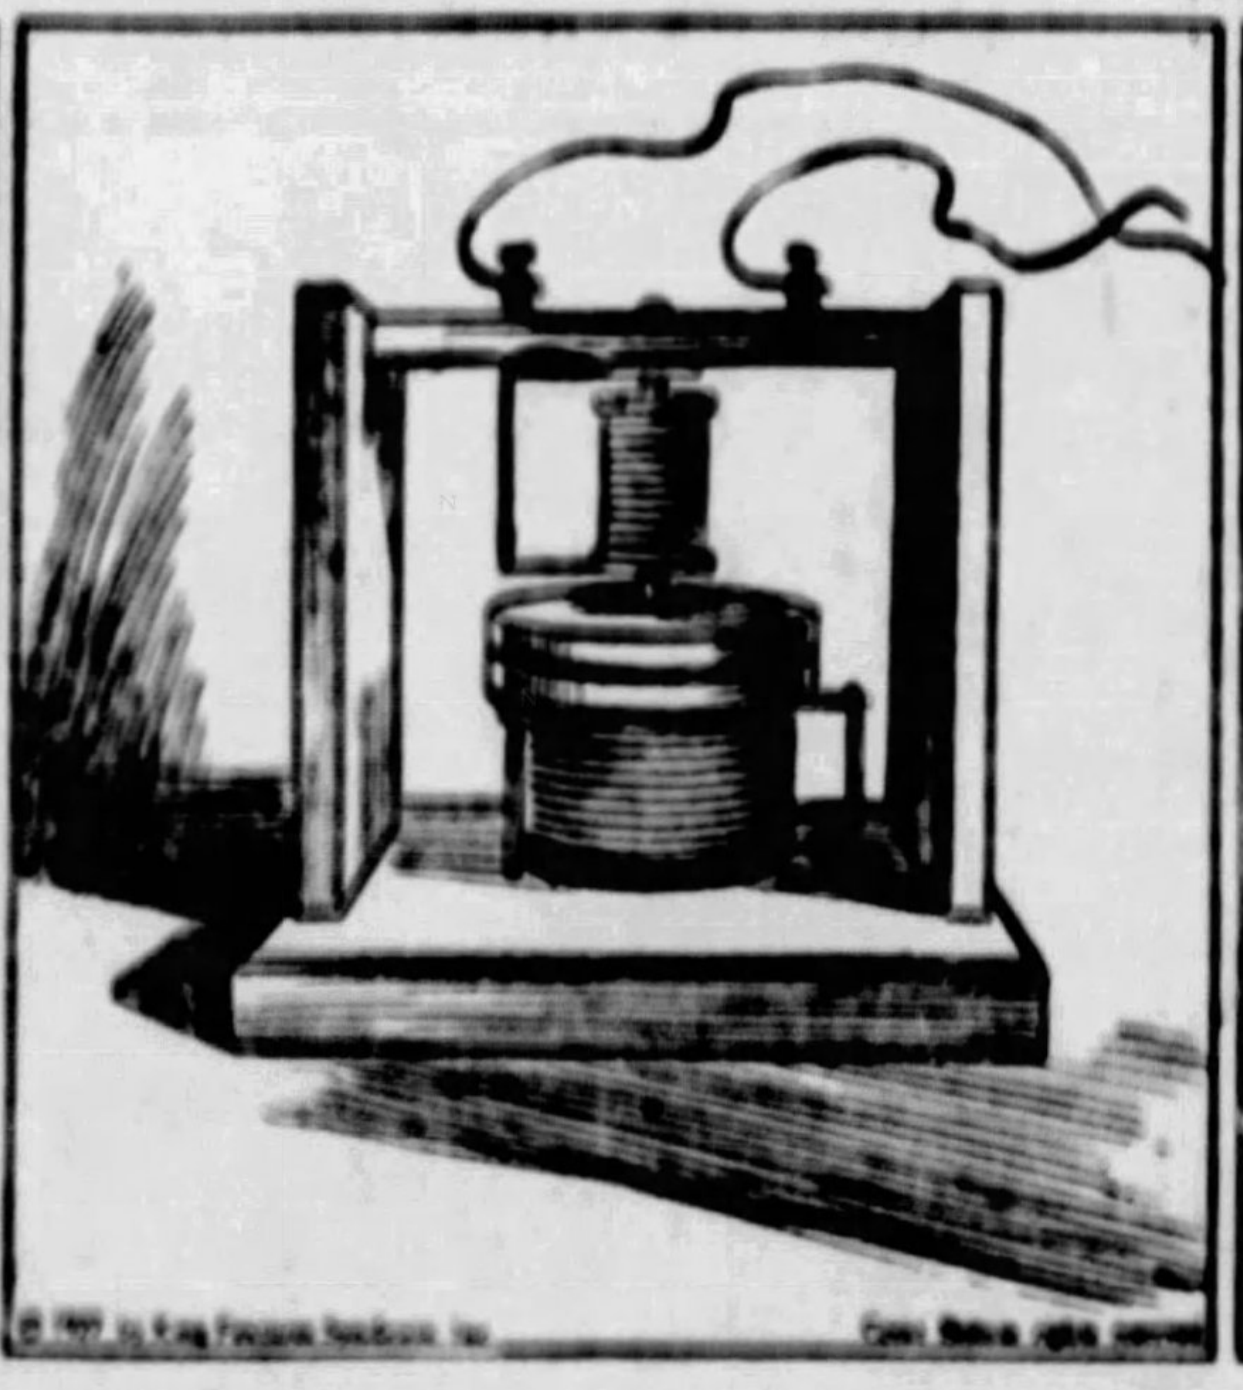
THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized and Endorsed by Mr. Edison)

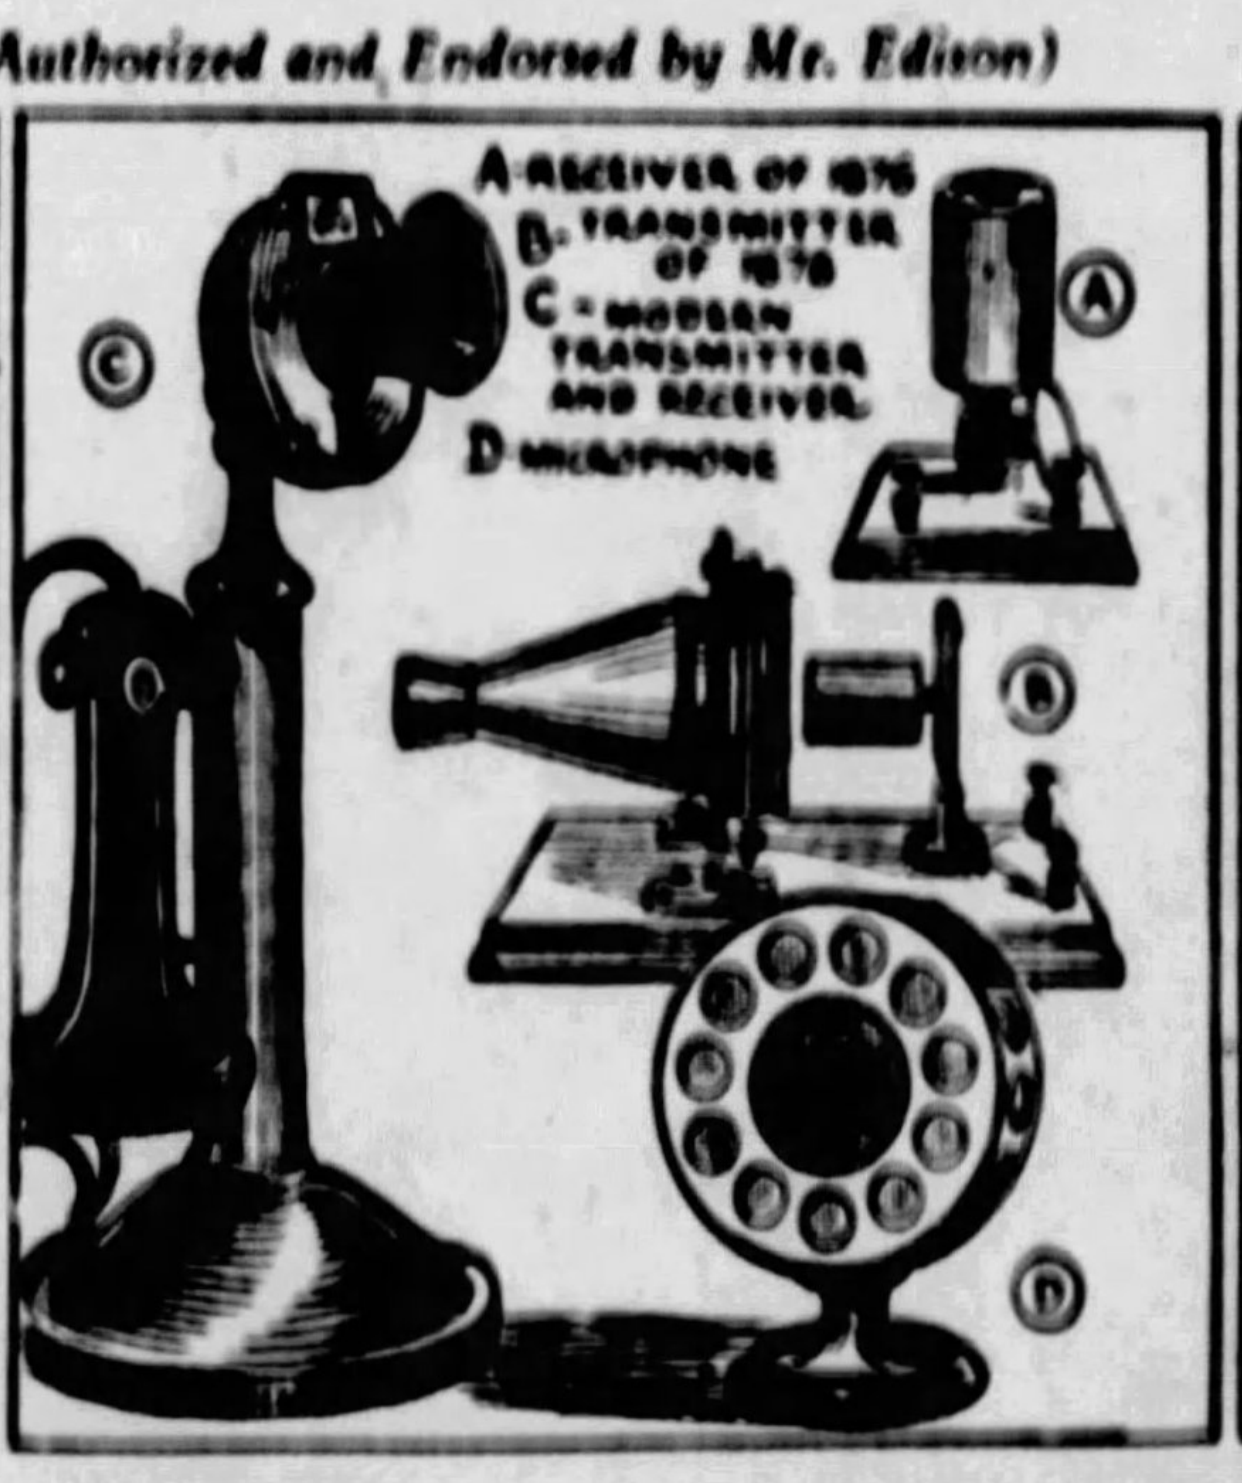
Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister



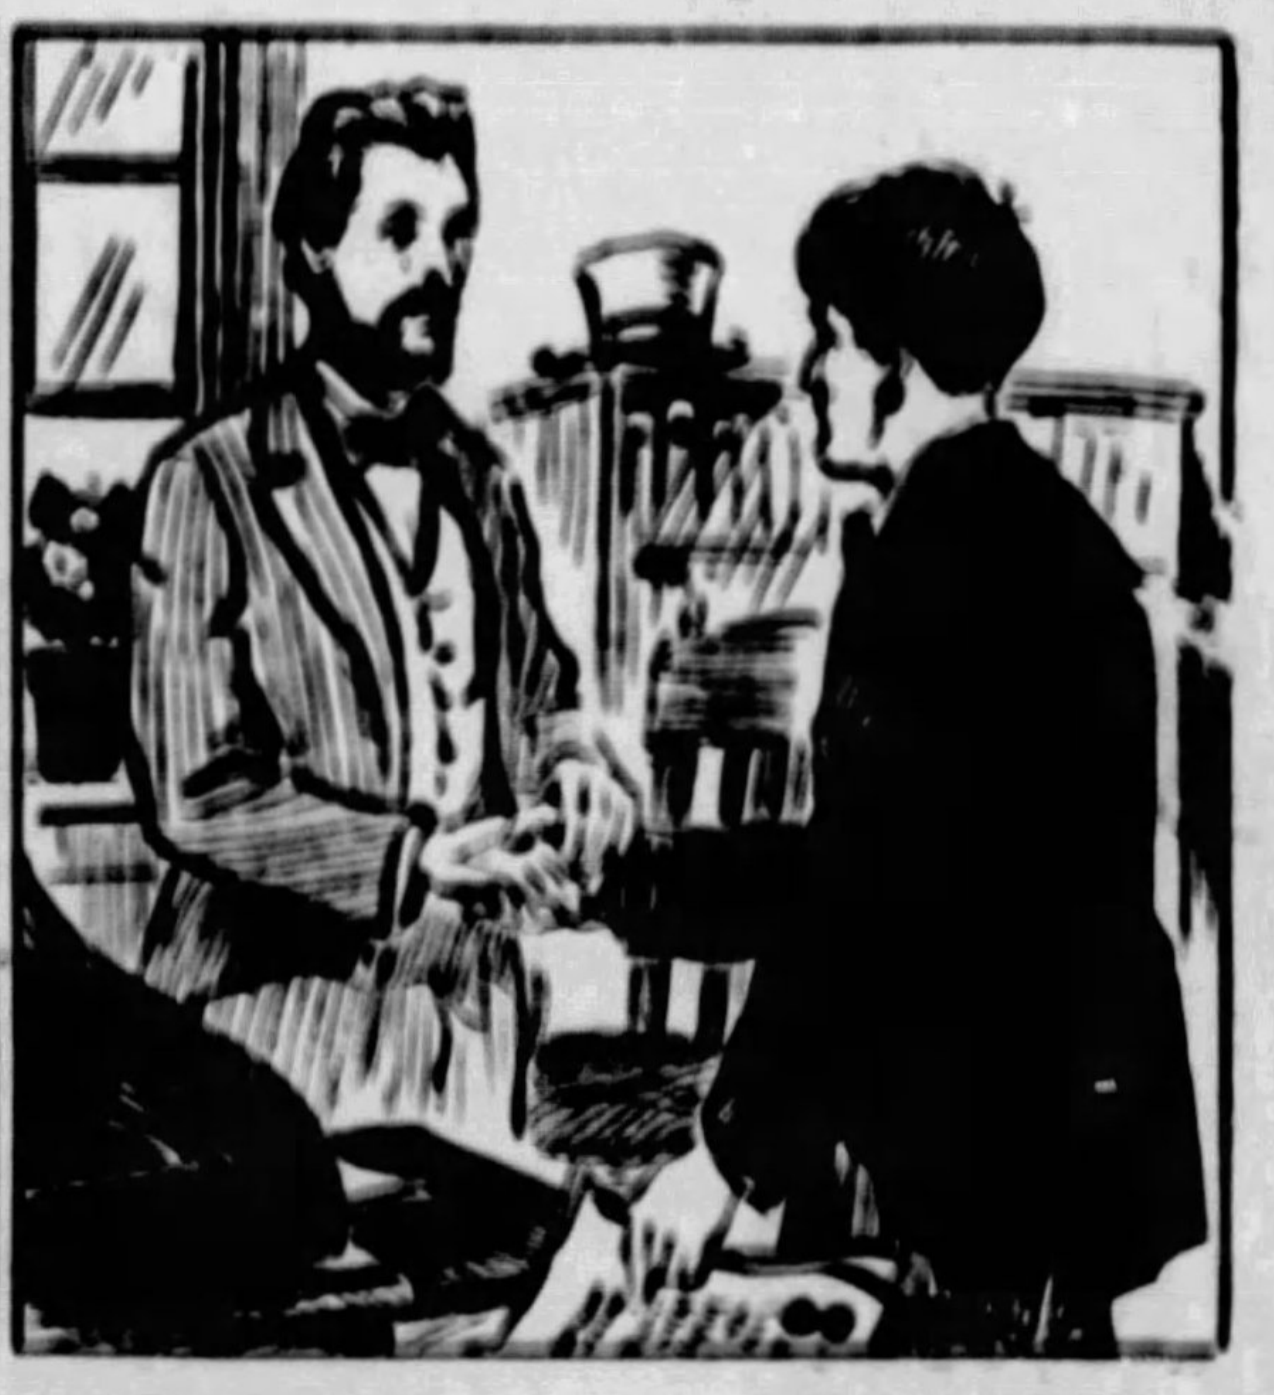
EDISON soon found that manufacturing and inventing did not mix. Turning his Newark factory over to a competent superintendent, he moved to Menlo Park, N. J., where he could concentrate on inventing. It was here he became known as the "Wizard of Menlo Park." The Edison home and laboratory are seen above.



AT this time, by a remarkable coincidence, Alexander Graham Bell of Salem, Mass., and Elisha Gray of Chicago filed applications covering the basic principles of the telephone on the same day, February 15, 1876. Bell beat Gray by a few hours and obtained the patent. Bell's first crude instrument appears above.



VISUALIZING its enormous possibilities, Edison concentrated on the conversion of Bell's magnetic telephone into a practical commercial device. His famous carbon transmitter, which made the modern telephone and radio "mike" possible, was the result. Varying types of transmitters and receivers are shown above.



THE combined geniuses of Bell and Edison are indelibly imprinted on millions of telephones now in use throughout the world. In fact, for many years Edison's name was stamped on every Bell telephone set. This picture symbolizes the joint achievement of the two great inventors.
